Hoover Welcomes Grandi in Capital

CROWDS CHEER AS HE ARRIVES ABOARD TRAIN

For Keeps Lindbergh Earthbound.

By STEPHEN FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Signor Dino Grandi, having changed his political black shirt of Rome for the sartorial white shirt of Venice, stepped off the train at Alexandria this evening, to be whisked surrounded by silk hatted dignitaries of the government who were surrounded by eager second growth Indians who sent forth cheers instead of the much feared jeers.

But on the official welcome to Washington of Italy's youthful minister of foreign affairs and his bright and pretty Donna Antonietta, went off very well.

There was a protecting rush of police and protocol representatives as the train drew into the station. Somewhere in the center of the crowd, a tickly kind, interesting looking man swept his gray hat off his shiny black hair, held his head low, until his straight nose nearly touched the fingers of Mrs. Henry Stimson as he kissed the hand of his hostess.

Meet the Signora.

The Signor Grandi, in dark green tweed shook hands with Mrs. Stimson and the two women started down the platform, finding a lot to talk about in French.

In front of them walked Grandi, with Secretary of State Stimson on his left; President Hoover's secretary, Lawrence Richey, on his right. The trio started off at a good clip, but three secret service men and four state department officials rushed up, in vain a cautious, "take it easy; take it easy." So Signor Grandi slowed down.

He looked across the top hat of Secretary Stimson and saw a big stone urn. He looked across the top hat of Richey and he saw a big freight train drawn upon the track, not by chance, but by design. And he looked straight forward into the bayonets of a platoon of marines, forming an aisle of deference and defense.

But the defense was unnecessary. The crowds, held back behind gates and ropes, were cheerful and hospitable. They yelled and hurrahed. There was no boo's; no anti-Fascist catcalls.

The Band Makes Music.

Then the presidential waiting line of the party marched slowly to the band stand, where the marine band began to play. What they were going to play had been a matter of speculation all afternoon. Would it be the Italian hymn, "Giovannezza," or would it be the national government anthem, "Marcia Reale," for the playing of which, you recall, Toscanini was hissed by Italian Fascists? It was "Marcia Reale," however, that the band played. Nobody booed.

Signor Grandi stood with his hat off, listening to the anthem, photographers flashed up the scene and one of them observed that the Italian was wearing a double breasted gray flannel overcoat, a fawn colored cutaway, and his famous high buttoned shoes. These had black patent leather uppers, gray cloth tops, and pearl buttons. And everybody noted that the absence of this famed "black shirt" showed white in the rosy light of sunset.

There was a shift in positions and Donna Antonietta was joined by another Donna Antonietta, Signora de Martino, wife of the Italian ambassador. Distinguished as one of the best dressed women in Washington, she wore a rich velvet gown that swept the dusty street. She carried a walking stick.

Drive to White House.

The Grandis, the Stimsons, the De Martinos, accompanied by the proper officials from embassy and state department, drove immediately to the White House, where the visitors paid their official call. Because Signor Grandi is merely a minister, not a full ambassador, President Hoover did not return the call, as he did that of Premier Laval. But he and Mrs. Hoover chatted with them just two minutes longer than they did with the Lavals. The Grandi visit was twenty minutes long.

Then the Grandis, preceded by motorcycle police and flanked by detectives, motored up to Woodley, the home of Secretary and Mrs. Stimson

PLANES WILL DROP SKIIS TO 50 TRAPPED IN CALIFORNIA SNOW

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 16.—(AP)—An attempt to drop skiis and snowshoes from an airplane to approximately 50 persons marooned in the California Sierra mountains by heavy snowfalls was planned today.

The airplane expedition will attempt to take relief to a group of persons in the vicinity of Echo lake. Most of those marooned possessed shelter and food.

Heavy snows which fell in the Sierras, changed to rain along the west coast, but snow also was reported in parts of Montana, Idaho and Utah.

Most of the persons marooned in California were motorists whose cars were halted between Big Creek and Fresno.

ONE HORSEPOWER ISN'T A MOTOR, JUDGE MAINTAINS

A puzzle in law was furnished in the Traffic court yesterday when Jay Edward Burke, colored, 4636 South Michigan avenue, was arraigned on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

The evidence showed that the vehicle operated by Burke was a wagon, and that its motor was a spavined horse named Sam. Sam, it seemed, had walked his owner's wagon into an automobile owned by William J. Owen, 5757 Morgan street.

Judge Frank M. Padden heard the evidence, then looked at the formal charge. Obviously, he said, Burke could not be charged with driving a motor vehicle, even though there was a unit of horse power. The judge searched the old city code, found a section applicable to the case, and sentenced Burke to 10 days in jail. He reversed the judgment a moment later, however, when Burke pleaded "there was no one else to take care of Sam." The plea won probation.

JUDGE BORROWS MONEY TO PAY JURORS' CHECKS

Philadelphi , Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Judge Harry S. McDevitt, characterizing as "disgraceful" conditions which have prevented some 600 jurors from cashing their pay warrants for the last month, announced today he had borrowed money from a bank with which to pay talesmen in his court.

The total amount of jurors' pay, held up for lack of funds covering the warrants, is estimated between $20,000 and $40,000. Judge McDevitt said the "financial condition is a most disgraceful condition, inexcusable and entirely uncalled for."

"You can reimburse me when the city pays you," said the judge.

Board of Trade Expels Weiss, Wolf's Broker

David D. Weiss, tailor-broker who handled approximately $1,000,000 in transactions for Walter E. Wolf, convicted bank embezzler, was expelled from membership in the Chicago Board of Trade last night.

Wolf is now in prison serving a sentence of ten years to life on his plea of guilty to stealing $3,667,000 in securities from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. Weiss is under indictment on a charge of larceny by bailee.

The expulsion of Weiss was voted by the board of governors of the Board of Trade. The members are James C. Murray, president; Peter B. Carey, first vice president; S. C. Harris, second vice-president, and fourteen directors. There is no appeal save to the same board.

Violated Two Rules.

Charges against Weiss were that he violated Rules 141 and 145, the first entailing fraud or dishonorable conduct, and the second acts detrimental to the welfare of the association. It was for offenses against these rules he was expelled.

Following custom, officials of the board declined to comment on the expulsion. It was understood, however, that the acts alleged against Weiss were substantively these: That he handled transactions for a bank employé or official beneath the rank of vice president and that he secured loans on securities belonging to a client without the client's knowledge. In this connection, it was reported, the fact the securities were stolen made no difference.

The board held three sessions, the final yesterday being from 2:30 p. m. until nearly 10 o'clock last night. It took no formal action at that time in regard to possible confiscation of Weiss' membership. Seats are now valued at $12,000, and Weiss may sell his providing it is not confiscated.

Weiss Defends Conduct.

Weiss appeared at one of the three sessions, at least, and defended his relations with Wolf. His principal defense, it was said, was that he did not know Wolf's securities were stolen. Before the hearings began, he sought a writ of prohibition which Superior Judge Michael L. McKinley dismissed.

Weiss, in his story shortly after the Wolf exposé, asserted he acted as Wolf's broker as an act of friendship. He had known the family, he said, for many years. At no time, he insisted, did he make a penny profit on the deals.

"Wolf told me when he came to me that he represented a syndicate," said Weiss in his original story. "It was a blow to learn he was a thief. I never suspected him. He was my pal and I never thought he would betray my trust."

Weiss operated a merchant tailor establishment in South Clark street, near Jackson boulevard, and Wolf frequently appeared there, he said. Brokers occasionally came in and they discussed speculation. One day Wolf asked him to act as his broker and he consented.

Wolf told a somewhat similar story of his dealings with Weiss, but before the grand jury testified in more detail. As a result the jury returned four indictments against Weiss, alleging that he converted money to his own use. The alleged thefts were listed as $55,000, $40,000, $15,000 and $15,000.

STATE REVEALS LOANS BY BANKS TO DIRECTORS

Amounts Range Up to $350,000.

One hundred directors and officers of the twelve Bain banks owed a total of $4,511,383 to the bank chain when the banks closed last June 9. This was revealed last night by Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers. The sums borrowed by the officials ranged from $5,000 to $350,000.

HENRY AYERS.

This total included the large loans already made public which John Bain, president of the banks his companies, and members of his family obtained from the twelve institutions. Prosecutor Ayers stressed the fact that the loans revealed thus far represent only those made to bank officials. The auditors are now listing the loans made to outsiders.

Deposits Total $13,000,000.

More than 150,000 depositors had $13,000,000 in the banks when they failed. The average deposit was approximately $86. The average debt of each of the borrowing directors and officials was more than $45,000. There were 100 such officials and the investigation thus far has revealed that 100, or two-thirds of them, took advantage of their positions to obtain loans.

Of the new loans to directors and officials, the following were made public by the prosecutor:

Frank Mulholland, real estate man at 6257 South Western avenue, and director, Chicago Lawn State bank	$358,641
Dr. W. H. Buhlig, John Bain's physician	269,686
G. F. Larkin, director, Chicago Lawn State bank	127,500
Eric F. Wiegel, chairman of board, West Highland State bank	111,023
A. J. Bourne, mortician at 3123 West 63d street	103,351
Edward C. Barry, vice-president, West Englewood Trust & Savings bank	102,051
Carl Westberg, contractor at 6234 South Oakley avenue	85,000
George Murphy, director, Ridge State bank	60,147
Michael Malloy, associate vice-president of West Englewood bank	55,612
Dr. E. J. Meyer	48,800
John J. Meisenney, director and vice-president of the Auburn Park State bank	47,600
Henry F. Regez, plumbing contractor at 1501 East 72d place	46,765
William W. Horcher, director, Chatham State bank	44,561
J. F. Jensen, director, West Englewood bank	40,000
John H. Edwards, director, Ridge State bank	39,792
Valentine M. Herrmann, director, Armitage State bank	36,800
Roy Marcese, attorney and partner of Charles S. Dencen	35,755
Joseph Radnik, director, Chicago Lawn State bank	33,131
William J. Leslie, assistant cashier, Chicago Lawn State bank	25,274
W. H. Fisher, father of W. Merle Fisher, Bain's son-in-law	21,600
William P. Carroll, director, Bryn Mawr State bank	16,000
William Bluemer, director, Chicago Lawn State bank	11,600
Scott M. Hogan, former fire attorney	5,000

Prosecutor Ayers said he had not yet investigated to ascertain if any securities had been posted by the directors and officials to secure these large loans.

John Bain already has been shown to have borrowed $884,163 from the banks as an individual and $1,402,023 through John Bain, Inc., and two other companies. His two sons, John H. Bain and Robert A. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, obtained $135,000 in loans.

"Spike" O'Donnell Before Jury.

Other developments in the bank inquiry yesterday included the appearance of Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, public enemy, before the grand jury and the appearance of State's Attorney Swanson before the county board, where he asked for $125,000 with which to continue his investigation of the affairs of the 94 banks which have closed in Cook county in the last two years.

Prosecutor Ayers said that the 100 officials who borrowed from the Bain banks would be called before the grand jury to explain their debts. He was particularly interested, he said, in discovering whether all the loans were approved by the board of directors in each bank before they were made.

"The Illinois banking code states plainly that it is unlawful for any bank to make loans to any of its officials or any of its employés unless the

1 Dead, 2 Hurt in Train Crash on South Side

One man was killed and two others were seriously injured early this morning when a Baltimore & Ohio freight train and an Illinois Central freight crashed on a crossing at 74th street and Oakley avenue. The dead man was James Shelldrake, 55 years old, address not learned, head brakeman on the Illinois Central train. He was pinned in the wreckage and firemen extricated his body.

The two injured are William Hendrick, 36 years old, 1435 South California avenue, Hessville, Ind., a fireman; and John Crawley, 45 years old, 4947 Forsythe avenue, East Chicago, Ind., a switchman, both employed by the Baltimore & Ohio. They suffered severe steam scalds. They were taken to the Holy Cross hospital.

The Baltimore & Ohio train, ninety cars long, was northbound for the terminal and the Illinois Central freight was westbound on the tracks of the Belt railway of Chicago when the accident occurred. The locomotive and a dozen cars of the Baltimore & Ohio train were derailed and the locomotive tender and two cars of the Illinois Central train left the tracks. According to witnesses, the B. & O. engine struck the other train behind its locomotive. B. & O. representatives said they had the right of way.

Face U. S. Tax Boost; Deficit Two Billions

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Talk of legislation to increase federal taxes passed today from the problematical stage to that of virtual certainty.

SENATOR JAMES E. WATSON.
[Fotograms.]

Such Republican leaders in congress as Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, majority floor leader in the senate, and Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee, agreed that the deficit at the end of the present fiscal year would be too great to be compensated for by further bond issues, and that the government's income must be added to.

Senator Watson termed a tax increase "inescapable," and since he used the word immediately following a White House conference with the President, and since previously Senator Watson, who runs for reelection next year, had been against a tax increase, it was taken for granted that his amended attitude was a mirror of Mr. Hoover's opinion.

May Leave It to Congress.

The treasury department is within two or three days of completing its fiscal program, and it is considered significant that its studies have included all possible fields of increased revenue. Whether or not the President will recommend what channels shall be used to bring in the added funds is not known at this time. It is thought that he may leave that part of the problem to congress.

From views expressed by congressional leaders today, it is evident that among the conservative Republicans at least there is a strong sentiment for a selective sales tax, directed particularly at luxury articles, and with food and essential clothing excluded.

It also is evident, on these leaders' own admission, that such a sales tax would stand little chance of passage by congress. Insurgent sentiment strongly is in favor of higher income taxes in the higher brackets.

Democrats Not Talkative.

With their legislative program still in the formative state and their newly found congressional power still a somewhat unsettled novelty, the Democrats were not so talkative as the Republicans. Since the administration is expected to recommend the increase, thereby shouldering a major share of the onus, it is conceded that the Democrats can cast aside their natural election year reluctance to do anything which would offend the voters. They will doubtless be for an increase, but have yet to make up their minds as to how this will be accomplished.

Among the comments on a tax increase were the following:

Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.]—The budget must be balanced even if we are compelled to take drastic measures such as was done in England. One line of effort is reductions which are being made so as to reduce the outlay. The other must be increase in revenue. I also believe that there will be enacted excise taxes on certain articles.

Senator Smoot—It is quite evident that there will have to be further taxation. It may be possible to secure passage of a sales tax, but I am not sure that the senate would agree to one.

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] advocated restoration of nuisance taxes, particularly on soft drinks.

ENEMIES BOTH CLAIM VICTORY IN MANCHURIA

Harbin Reports Japs Are in Trap.

News from the Front

The Tribune's correspondent in China, John Powell, has arrived in Tsitsihar after a few weeks in Mukden and Harbin. Dispatches from him printed in this issue give first detailed news to the world of the situation in the center of the Manchurian zone of hostilities between Japan and China.

Two conflicting reports of the clash between the Japanese and Chinese forces near Tsitsihar on Sunday were received last night. A dispatch from The Tribune's correspondent quoted Chinese reports that the Japanese had been severely defeated. The Associated Press brought a statement from Tokio asserting that the Japanese had routed the enemy under Gen. Ma Chan-shan, who was falling back on Anganchi, 30 miles north. This report would indicate that the important point of Tsitsihar would soon be in the hands of the Japanese.

TSITSIHAR, Manchuria, Nov. 16.—[By Telephone to Harbin.]—A Japanese attempt to outflank the Chinese positions and cut off Chinese lines of communication resulted in serious fighting yesterday and last night which culminated in a Japanese defeat, according to an official Chinese report tonight. The Japanese losses were said to be 60 dead and wounded. The Chinese claimed to have captured 500 prisoners, 2 Japanese field guns and considerable ammunition.

The Japanese military action was directed at the right flank of the Chinese army. It was an encircling movement by which the Japanese hoped to sever the Chinese lines of communication with the base at Anganchi.

Surrounded by Chinese.

Gen. Ma Chan-shan, Chinese commander, using 4,000 cavalrymen, surrounded the Japanese force and practically annihilated it, as the Japanese were cut off from their armored train, which was following the troops.

Although the Japanese used airplanes, little damage was done by the bombs which the airmen dropped because of the sandy nature of the country.

Serious fighting started at 8 a. m. Sunday and lasted until nightfall, at which time a portion of the Japanese troops succeeded in retreating under cover of the armored train. They dropped back to the banks of the Nonni river and the Chinese troops occupied new advanced positions about 30 miles south of Anganchi junction and about six miles from the Nonni river bridge.

Hundreds Join Chinese Army.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBIN, Manchuria, Nov. 16.—Gen. Ma Chan-shan's claim of victory in yesterday's fighting on the Nonni river had an electrical effect on the large Chinese population at Harbin, where public organizations and schools are soliciting funds and collecting clothing and articles of comfort for the Chinese troops at the front. It was said today that hundreds of Chinese students have enlisted to join Gen. Ma's forces.

Because of reports that 4,000 refugee troops from Kirin province are congregating at Ashiho just east of Harbin, Chinese officials have adopted precautionary measures by increasing police patrols in the city. The Chinese claim these troops are on their way to join Gen. Ma's army at Tsitsihar.

A Japanese newspaper at Harbin, the Times, today printed a detailed report from Mukden dealing with the installation of the Manchu boy emperor, Pu Yi. It claimed the ceremony was held yesterday and that coronation ceremonies are to be held soon. The paper said the Japanese have already negotiated an agreement with the Manchu emperor to settle all outstanding Manchurian questions to Japanese satisfaction.

Honjo Outlines His Stand.

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 16.—Asserting that chaos would follow immediate evacuation of Manchuria by the Japanese, Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japan's supreme Manchurian commander, said today that if fighting broke out again his troop line might be established as far north as Tsitsihar, stronghold of the Chinese forces.

In event of a major engagement with Gen. Ma Chan-shan on the Nonni, the Japanese general said, the momentum of the movement may carry his men as far as the fortress city.

What happens on the Nonni, Gen. Honjo said, depends entirely on the army of Gen. Ma, "now confronting the Japanese in a menacing manner."

Says Europe Misunderstands.

"In Europe," he continued, "they seem to think that conditions in Manchuria are similar to the conditions in Europe and that if the Japanese army withdrew some Chinese authority would immediately replace it. That is entirely untrue. Evacuation today is not only impracticable, it is impossible."

These Chinese themselves, the general said must reorganize the Manchurian government to insure against disorders and "this may take months, even years, but we are doing our best to get the process started."

Although the league of nations had called on Japan to complete her evacuation by today, and that call was not obeyed, Japan meant no disrespect to the league, Gen. Honjo said.

"Not Obstructing League."

"We are not obstructing the league's objectives, or attempting to lower its prestige," he asserted, "but we must do what necessity dictates to protect Japanese lives, rights, and interests in this part of the world.

"The Chinese are extending their lines, building strong fortifications and massing in considerable numbers. Besides that, their raiders frequently cut the Japanese communication with the rear.

"We have no direct proof that Gen Ma is getting Russian assistance, but there is much reliable evidence that indirect aid is reaching him from Russian quarters. Quantities of arms of Russian manufacture are reaching his army and he also has anti-aircraft guns and machine guns such as he never had before.

"Uses Russian Methods."

"His methods and tactics are Russian and it is known that whenever Gen. Ma inspects his front lines he is always accompanied by a non-Chinese.

"It may be there are no Russian officers in his camp, but I understand that his forces include two or three thousand Chinese and Koreans who have served in the Red army and have had Russian training."

Gen. Honjo said the Japanese forces in Manchuria total 13,400. His strength in the Nonni area is being kept secret, but on the basis of his figures it would appear to be about 3,0).

Japs to Mobilize Air Corps.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 17.—[Tuesday.]—The Japanese emperor yesterday sanctioned the mobilization of an aviation corps, made up of bombers and scouts from the Hamamatsu, Tachiarai and Heijo aviation regiments, for service in Manchuria. Some of the planes left today for Mukden.

Kewanee Barbers Cutting Children's Hair for Nothing

Kewanee, Ill., Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Kewanee barbers are doing their bit for the benefit of the needy of this city. Effective today, all children unable to afford the price of a haircut are being issued orders good for a trim at all union barber shops here.

Chinese Commander Hurls Defiance as Japanese Prepare for Airplane Offensive Against Tsitsihar

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TSITSIHAR, Manchuria, Nov. 16.—Gen. Ma Chan-shan, sole remaining Chinese official in Manchuria, who claims to be affiliated with the central Chinese government at Nanking, tonight declared his determination to hold out to the last ditch in defending Manchuria against Japanese aggression and possible ultimate annexation.

Y. SHIMIZU.

He said that in event he is finally forced to relinquish his post he would "retreat into the country," which means he would continue to battle the Japanese by guerrilla warfare.

Will Fight to Death.

"Tsitsihar is the only Manchurian provincial capital not under Japanese domination," he declared. "Chinese people in the province from all walks of life have telegraphed me to hold out and I intend to fight to the death."

While the conversation was taking place heavy gunfire was occasionally audible 20 miles to the south, where the Japanese apparently were opening a barrage in preparation for renewed attacks.

Gen. Ma said Japanese airplanes have been reconnoitering over Tsitsihar for the last three days spying out vital points, such as the governor's headquarters, the arsenal, and other centers. Air bombing, therefore, is expected by the Chinese today or tomorrow.

Refugees Crowd Railway.

The train last night from Tsitsihar to the railway junction at Anganchi, south of Tsitsihar on the Chinese Eastern railway, was jammed with Chinese and Japanese refugees. Hence the conviction prevailed at Gen. Ma's headquarters that a decisive battle with the Japanese for final control of Manchuria is imminent.

Gen. Ma repudiated the suggestion that he has been receiving Russian assistance.

"Had I received Russian support, particularly munitions, I might have done a better job of preventing the Japanese forces from advancing north beyond the Nonni river bridge," he said. "But I have not received a single bullet or gun from the Russians. Furthermore, I have not requested any.

Fights Single Handed.

"There are no Russians connected with my army in any capacity, nor any Corean or Japanese revolutionary units, as the Japanese have charged. I am fighting a single handed battle against the Japanese troops and a Japanese supported Chinese force, regardless of the outcome. I intend to hold out to the last."

While this correspondent was unable to proceed to the front lines because of a Japanese artillery barrage, there was no evidence of Russian support. The only Russians visible were a few miserable white emigrés, including women and children, shivering in the cold wind at the Anganchi railway station, apparently waiting to catch a train to Harbin. The only Russian object visible in Gen. Ma's headquarters was a box of Russian cigarets and a bottle of sweet champagne, which the general insisted that the correspondent drink, but which he did not touch himself.

Gen. Ma declared the Japanese military has been handing almost daily ultimatums to him. The latest was a brief, pointed demand for Gen. Ma to get out, as the Japanese desired to have another man installed as governor of Heilungkiang province. Gen. Ma indicated the man the Japanese wanted was his rival, Chang Hai-peng, whose rebel Chinese army is stationed at Taonan.

Gen. Ma, however, said he had heard that Chang himself had refused Japanese domination and that a part of Chang's troops had rebelled and returned to their allegiance with the Chinese central government.

When Gen. Ma was asked his attitude toward the league of nations, he glanced at the calendar on the wall. It showed that today was the deadline of the league's demand for withdrawal of the Japanese forces.

Says Japan Defies World.

"I have been led to believe that the league stand is to uphold international justice and righteousness," he said. "The Japanese declared they would not invade the northeast territory, but they have defied the world. Therefore, I intend to defend my territory. I hope the league will come to the rescue and compel the Japanese to withdraw. All that China wants is justice, and since I have been led to believe the league stands for justice, I am waiting to see whether the league intends to enforce its mandate."

When this correspondent arrived at Tsitsihar he observed a large crowd on the station platform, including a considerable number of Japanese, noticeable in their heavy fur coats and astrakhan caps. They were surrounded by a cordon of giant Chinese troops, who towered head and shoulders above the diminutive Japanese, while a crowd of Chinese on the station platform stood about sullenly observing the Japanese. Soon an engine pulled up to the platform with a single car. The Chinese soldiers picked up the Japanese baggage and helped the Japanese aboard.

Japanese Sent to Harbin.

This correspondent followed and discovered a Japanese party of ten, including Consul Yaoichi Shimizu and a staff of nine persons. It was the last of the Japanese community, which previously numbered 150. Shimizu was astonished to see an American newspaper man, particularly THE TRIBUNE'S writer. Shimizu was stationed at the Japanese consulate in Chicago 15 years ago, and attended night school at the University of Chicago.

He was obviously embarrassed at the method of his departure, and said he was going to Harbin merely on a business trip. Later he admitted he considered it advisable to depart with the consular staff, as the Japanese drive was momentarily expected, and in the event the Chinese troops were defeated, they might mob and loot Tsitsihar, endangering Japanese lives.

Well Treated by Chinese.

Shimizu said he had maintained daily communication with Gen. Ma and had been well treated. He said he had been accorded every facility to depart in an orderly manner. Upon the arrival at Anganchi Junction Chinese troops escorted the Japanese party aboard a Chinese Eastern railway night express and provided them with first class compartments for the night trip to Harbin.

Because of darkness and the immediate departure of Gen. Ma for the front, the correspondent was unable to discover the status of the little American missionary community in Tsitsihar, which was warned to evacuate yesterday by George C. Hanson, American consul, at Harbin.

It was learned that another foreigner, consul for the Netherlands at Harbin, is still in Tsitsihar. He was sent from Harbin yesterday in behalf of the league of nations, apparently, to make further investigations regarding Japanese allegations that the Russians are supporting Gen. Ma.

Although not in Tsitsihar, Capt. Parker G. Tenney, American assistant military attaché at Peiping, is also in the district, possibly at Hailar.

When this correspondent reached Gen. Ma's headquarters he found Gen. Ma and staff officers conversing over a big military map of Heilungkiang province. The scene gave the impression that Gen. Ma might be mapping out a line of retreat in event he is forced to relinquish his positions south of the Chinese Eastern railway. While Gen. Ma's plans were not revealed, it is thought he will retreat to the northeast along the railway to a town known as Swulun, which is only a short distance from another town, Hailun, which is connected with Harbin by another branch line.

Reports 400 Chinese Slain.

Gen. Ma said Chinese casualties in the first three days of fighting in the Nonni river district were 400 killed and 300 wounded, while the casualties in the past three days, caused by Japanese artillery and air bombing, were reported as 30 killed and 20 wounded. All the wounded are being cared for in a little hospital in Tsitsihar.

The city of Tsitsihar is of Mongolian character and has a population of 90,000. It is in the center of the rapidly developing Nonni river basin, a promising wheat production area, which the Japanese are trying to tap by means of a new railway. This railway runs north from Ssupingkai, on the Japanese owned South Manchuria line north of Mukden, to a new line passing through Chenchiatun and Taonan.

Seek to Nose Out Russia.

The Japanese purpose is to prevent products of this district from reaching the sea over the soviet-controlled Chinese Eastern railway and through the soviet port, Vladivostok.

The country surrounding Tsitsihar is flat and sandy. A row of low hills parallel the Chinese Eastern tracks south of Anganchi, which the Chinese are now defending against the Japanese troops. The latter occupy the low lying ground adjacent to the Nonni river bridge. Tsitsihar is located about 30 miles north of the Chinese Eastern railway tracks. It is connected with the Chinese Eastern by a narrow gauge railway and a wood-burning locomotive, resembling the original invention.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent rode in a small private car about the size of an average kitchen. It had two flat wheels and was illuminated by two candles. It required an hour and a half to make the 30 mile trip.

On arriving at Tsitsihar the correspondent was immediately conducted in an American motor car to Gen. Ma's headquarters by a young Chinese student, Paul Liu, a graduate of an American missionary school at Yenching and the University of Peiping. He acted as an interpreter.

Gen. Ma is about five feet tall and resembles the late Manchurian war lord, Chang Tso-ling. He is 40 years old and a native of Manchuria. In recent years he commanded the Chinese border defense troops stationed at Tahsiho, opposite the Siberian town of Blagovestschensk.

Early in the present conflict, as soon as Gen. Ma learned that Gen. Chang Hai-peng, supported by the Japanese, was attempting to capture Tsitsihar, he moved his troops south, assumed command, and rallied other Heilungkiang forces from the border districts. He made a hurried stand and defeated Chang Hai-peng, following which he fortified his position on the north bank of the Nonni river.

Ma's Plans Secret.

While Gen. Ma's plans have not been divulged, it is rumored he will destroy the viaduct where the Taonan-Anganchi railway crosses the Chinese Eastern railway, thus hoping to block the Japanese advance north and also possibly involving Chinese Eastern railway guards.

Thus far there has been no interruption in traffic on the Chinese Eastern railway, despite fighting a few miles south of Anganchi junction. The opinion prevails at Tsitsihar that the Japanese are planning an early air bombing as a means of forcing Gen. Ma's evacuation.

JAPANESE ASSAIL U. S.; CHARGE SHE IS "BUTTING" IN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 11 [relayed via Peiping to avoid Japanese censorship].—A so-called Japanese patriotic association, supposedly including a considerable membership of Japanese residents here, today published a rabid anti-American circular. The association has an office at 8 Yawadadori, in the Japanese concession here. Copies of the circular, which was translated by Myri S. Myers, American consul general, have been transmitted to the American legation at Peiping.

The circular referred sarcastically to Secretary of State Stimson's action in connection with the league of nations. It declared Woodrow Wilson invented the league but that America would not join. However, it continued, America now participates in order to embarrass Japan.

Accuses Britain and France.

The circular also accused Great Britain and France of grabbing Japan's trade in the Yangtze valley, but most of the text reviewed American diplomatic relations in Manchuria and referred to an attempt of former Secretary of State Knox to neutralize the Manchurian railways.

It declared America forced Japan to relinquish Shantung, forced cancellation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, and compelled Japan and other nations to sign the nine power treaty at the Washington conference.

All of these acts were designed to block Japan's legitimate rights in Manchuria, the circular declared.

"America takes advantage of every opportunity to restrain Japan," the publication continued. "Therefore, rise up, Japanese, rise up, countrymen, who are anxious to preserve peace and order in the far east and in the world, and make Japan withdraw from the league of nations and chastise a certain nation which is the great hypocrite of the world."

The circular also attacked American newspaper correspondents. It specifically mentioned THE TRIBUNE correspondent, whom it accused of having sent reports detrimental to the Japanese army and who, it was alleged, influenced America and the league against Japanese activities in Manchuria.

Meanwhile, the Japanese are tightening their control over the newly established provincial government at Mukden. Yuan Chin-kai, aged Chinese recently set up as head of the government, today repeated his charges that he is "not a free agent" and is "acting under coercion of the Japanese military authorities.

GEN. DAWES TRIES HIS HAND AT JOB OF STOPPING WAR

League Meets and Turns It Over to Him.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 17.—(Tuesday.)—Japan does not expect any sort of a document to be signed at the Paris meeting of the league of nations council, a foreign office spokesman said today. All Japan expects is advice to China and Japan to reach an amicable settlement. Even then it is unlikely that China will negotiate, so the only hope lies in stabilization of the forces in Manchuria, he said.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 16.—The business of stopping a war was solemnly taken up by statesmen of the world this afternoon.

A confused drama was thereby unveiled and played on two stages. One was in the clock room of the French foreign office, loaned by the French government to the league of nations council for its extraordinary session, called to deal with the Manchurian crisis.

This is the third meeting of the council since the Manchurian dispute flared up on Sept. 18. The first, called to deal with China's appeal following Japanese seizure of south Manchuria, ended when Tokio and Nanking promised to avoid further clashes and use all means to arrive at a peaceful settlement.

League Orders Japan Out.

Two weeks later the council ordered Japan to withdraw her forces by Nov. 16—although the order had only moral force, since Japan vetoed it.

Since then fighting along the Nonni river has passed beyond the skirmishing stage into a real state of war. And today's meeting was preoccupied with putting an end to it.

But the league convenant is not the only instrument for extinguishing war. There is also the Kellogg pact and the nine-power pact, in which the United States is interested and that is the setup on the second stage on which today's action took place—the operations of the "Dawes league," a metaphorical way of depicting the scope of activities of Ambassador Dawes, American observer.

Progress Veiled in Silence.

What progress has been made in these efforts to reestablish peace is unknown. Grim silence is being observed by all diplomats concerned.

The league council gathered in public session at 4 p. m. and listened for a few minutes to a summary of developments by Chairman Briand. Then it was felt that the complexities of the situation could better be ironed out in a private session and the press and public were shooed out.

Even the private meeting proved impersonal a procedure, and after a fruitless brief debate it was adjourned to make way for man to man dickering.

Dawes Goes Into Action.

That was when the "Dawes league" began to function. The ambassador earlier had called on Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary; Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to London, and Sir Eric Drummond, league secretary. When the council meeting ended, a report was sent to Gen. Dawes.

Something in this report suggested possibilities to Gen. Dawes, and he rushed over for a second long conference with Sir John. Later he held a conference with the Japanese delegate, Yoshimawa.

It is evident that the real crux of the conversations was that between Gen. Dawes and the Japanese. The formula for settling the trouble is essentially that revealed last week—parallel simultaneous negotiations in Manchuria and Paris.

China Is Fatalistic.

The least calling or called upon delegation today, oddly enough, was the China. It would seem they are almost being overlooked in the negotiations. The celestials feel a certain resentment at this and fear the cards are now being stacked against them. With a shrug of Oriental fatalism, one Chinese spokesman said today:

"If the league council does not do its duty China can stand it. But the league cannot. The league's existence is a mistake. China has gone on for 4,000 years. If this league comes to an end, there will be others after it. We can afford to wait, and in the meantime we will await a chance to take Manchuria back."

Il Duce Factor

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Reports of negotiations almost completed in London for the marriage of young Prince Otto, pretender to the Hungarian throne, and Lady Katherine Mary, the younger sister of the duke of Norfolk, premier duke of Great Britain, were circulated today upon the departure of Count Esterhazy, grandson of the former Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the court of St. James.

According to the rumors, former Empress Zita, mother of Otto, was forced to decide upon a British bride for her son because of the tangle in Balkan politics in which the schemes to restore the Magyar monarchy are enmeshed. Premier Mussolini of Italy refused to hear of an alliance with a bride of the house of Bourbon and also opposed a union with the Italian house of Savoy.

A British marriage was, therefore, decided upon. It is reported that the dowager duchess of Norfolk will leave shortly with her daughter for a spot on the continent where they will be the guests of the exiled former empress. No member of the duke's family has been a royal consort since Catherine Howard married Henry VIII.

League's First Treasurer Sees Success in Crisis

Sir Herbert Ames, former Canadian parliament member and first treasurer of the league of nations secretariat, asserted last night, in a speech to the Northwestern alumni round table in the North Shore hotel, Evanston, a belief that the league and the United States would be able to prevent a war between China and Japan. He added that the machinery of the league had been used to settle twenty international difficulties that might have resulted in war between 1921 and 1925.

COUNTY BOARD ORATORY TIMED BY STOP WATCH

And 3 Women Outtalk 10 Male Colleagues.

The female prerogative of having the last word was exercised freely yesterday by three of the four women county commissioners at a routine series of committee meetings. During a three hour session, broken by a two hour lunch period, the three women, known as Clara, Lu, 'n' Em to their male associates, out-talked the ten male commissioners, 3 to 2.

The ratio was revealed by using a stopwatch to clock each commissioner. The time test was made at the suggestion of a member of the board, who begged that his name be withheld for obvious reasons. All visiting and whispering among commissioners was barred in the timing as were witticisms and repartee given merely as asides in committee room. The commissioners were clocked only on remarks made on a subject regularly before the board.

Anecdotes Are Included.

The time taken up in anecdotes and experiences recounted in association with a discussion were included in the timing. Roll calls, debate on rules of order, demands for explanations of the subject under discussion, argument, and general remarks also were included. The reading of reports by clerks, the explanations of the board staff and the remarks of persons appearing before the board in conduct of the business were excluded.

Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, Miss Amelia Sears, and Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb out-talked the field. Miss Mary McEnerney, the fourth of the co-ed commissioners, contented herself merely with out-talking the most reticent male, Charles H. Weber. She was surpassed by nine men, headed by Walter J. La Buy.

Standings of the commissioners in seconds as revealed by the stopwatch are as follows:

Mrs. Fleming	1,495	Mr. Byrd	152
Miss Sears	891	Mr. Kavanagh	146
Mrs. Plumb	776	Mr. Kelly	138
Mr. La Buy	535	Mr. Ryan	106
Mr. Busse	328	Miss McEnerney	57
Mr. Miller	251	Mr. Weber	15
Mr. Whealand	198
Mr. Kasper	161	Total	5,247

Mr. Weber's Contribution.

Of the total the three leading women contributed 3,162 seconds against 2,085 of the ten men. Most of Commissioner Weber's contribution was in answering roll calls. He made, however, two essential remarks.

At 12:30 he interrupted a woman commissioner with: "Can I get a word in? Can I say something? I move we adjourn for lunch. I have a meeting to attend." Again, late in the afternoon, at the conclusion of business, Mr. Weber moved for an adjournment.

Commissioner La Buy paced the men because of his motion to stop the purchase of any lands for additions to the forest preserves on which there are expensive improvements. This and the request of State's Attorney Swanson for $125,000 with which to carry on the investigation of closed banks, were the only major problems before the commissioners.

After the adjournment the men left at once, but the women commissioners remained to discuss the day's work for several minutes. The clocker reported his findings to the county commissioner, who suggested the timing.

"Well, it's not as bad as home, at that," the commissioner said. "I got a few words in anyhow."

ARMS TRUCE GOES INTO EFFECT; 50 NATIONS ACCEPT

League Proclaims Pact Now Working.

GENEVA, Nov. 16.—(AP)—A one year truce in armament construction dating from Nov. 1, went into international effect today on the authority of Chairman Aristide Briand of the leagu of nation's council.

An announcement from the league secretariat under M. Briand's signature said that some 50 governments had declared their willingness to accept, and consequently the truce had become an established fact.

U. S. Accepts Truce.

A number of governments made their acceptance conditional on reciprocity, it was pointed out, and such reciprocity had been achieved. Many replies were said to have contained interpretations and observations but all appeared to be in keeping with the spirit of the league's resolution.

The leading powers participating are the United States, France, Italy, Germany, Japan, Great Britain and Russia. Others include Argentina, Uruguay, Peru, Finland, Bolivia, Belgium, Denmark, Chile and Poland.

The league assembly adopted a resolution at its final meeting on Sept. 29 calling on the governments invited to the 1932 disarmament conference to "give proof of their desire to a successful issue of efforts to insure and organize peace and to refrain from any measure involving an increase in armaments."

Proposed by Italy.

The truce originally was advocated by Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy in the form of a "gentlemen's agreement" to suspend virtually all arms building on land and sea and in the air for one year as a gesture of faith in the forthcoming conference.

The fact that the truce has been made effective is interpreted here as an optimistic augury for the success of the arms meeting in February and as counteracting to some extent the warlike situation existing in the far east.

CATCH BANDITS MARCHING VICTIM IN MICHIGAN AVE.

Seized by Police While Robbing Messenger.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Charles Brennan, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; John Carlson, rape, sentenced to 21 years in the penitentiary; Jack Gore, contributing to delinquency of minor, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell, by Judge Walter Stanton.

The sharp eye of a mounted policeman caused the capture of two young bandits yesterday after they had kidnaped a messenger boy for a fur company and forced him to march down Michigan avenue between them while they sought a spot at which to rob him.

The two robbers, captured after a chase on the boulevard and a scuffle in the shadow of the public library, gave their names as Oscar Gelber, 20 years old, 3511 Douglas boulevard, and Martin Ross, 21 years old, of Los Angeles. Their intended victim was Leon Zax, 18 years old, 1655 South Hamlin avenue.

He Starts for Bank.

The pair sidled up to Zax as he left the store of the David Adler Fur company, 169 North Michigan avenue, his employers. It was a few minutes after noon, and Zax had $269 and a number of checks which he was taking to a loop bank.

Ross shoved a gun against his side and ordered him to walk along with them. Crowding close on each side of him, the two bandits and Zax started south. They crossed Randolph street and walked the length of the next block along the library building, through the noon boulevard crowds. At Washington street and the boulevard Leo Sherlock, mounted traffic policeman, looked at them, suspicious of the fact that his captors were crowded so close to Zax.

At that moment Zax tried to call for help, but got a blow across the mouth for his attempt. Sherlock swung off his horse and approached the trio. Gelber and Ross fled, and Zax began to yell. Sherlock collared Gelber.

Second Bandit Caught.

Ross ran back to Randolph street, where he was stopped by Policeman Michael Deneen.

"What's the hurry?" demanded Deneen.

"I'm late to work," panted Ross.

When Deneen did not relax his grip Ross reached for his hip. Deneen knocked him down and took a .25 caliber automatic pistol from him.

Last April Deneen took part in the capture of Frank Jordan, since electrocuted for murder.

COUNTY TELEPHONES CUT OFF; OFFICIALS MAY USE TOWN CRIER

Marion, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Court officials and county officers of Williamson county, with the exception of County Treasurer J. A. Burkitt, may resort to old time methods of relaying messages by messenger or summoning persons by a town crier.

The county is several hundred dollars behind on its telephone bill. The telephone company served an ultimatum that the county must pay or service would be cut off today.

The board of supervisors, short of funds, issued notice to the officials that hereafter phone bills must be paid from their individual budgets.

The officials, likewise short of funds, said this was impossible. Only one, the treasurer, agreed to the new ruling. As a result the service was disconnected this morning.

Circuit Judge D. T. Hartwell made the last call out of the Circuit clerk's office and when he failed to get the next number, went to the second story and called out of the window to a man across the street to carry his message to the state's attorney's office.

TORTURING GIRL CHARGED TO 2 IN INDICTMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Indictments charging them with cruelty to Edith Riley, the 13 year old girl who recently was rescued from four years' imprisonment in a closet in her home, were returned by the District grand jury today against Harry N. Riley, the child's father, and Elsie Riley, the stepmother.

The indictment specifies that the two on Nov 6 tortured, beat and otherwise maltreated Edith, who was discovered 10 days ago locked in a seven foot square closet, weakened from lack of food and light, and mentally stunted.

The child appeared before the jury to display her emaciated body and her scarred forehead. She is now in Gallinger hospital where psychiatrists are attempting to learn whether her mental state is the result of a congenital deficiency, or whether it was induced or aggravated by the treatment accorded her.

Mrs Riley has countered the charges by claiming that Edith was ubnormal and unmanageable, that she was locked in the closet only when it was necessary for her to be left alone at home. Public school records have been brought forward to show that Edith was excused from school attendance because of her mental condition.

EVANSTON DAIRY PLANT ROBBED FOR SECOND TIME

Four armed men entered the plant of the Wieland Dairy company at 2054 Railroad avenue, Evanston, at 3 p. m. yesterday and after terrorizing forty employes escaped with $150 from the cash drawer.

Three of the men, carrying pistols, ran into the plant and forced the employes to stand with hands upraised while the leader, with a sawed off shotgun in his hands, went to the office and after taking the money ordered Assistant Manager C. O. Johnson to open a safe. On the manager's assurance that there was no money in the safe the robbers left. A fifth member of the band awaited them in an automobile at the curb.

The same plant was the scene of a robbery on Aug. 17. At that time a pay roll of $2,700 was taken. Yesterday was again pay day, but the company has been paying its workers by check.

MERCURY CLIMBS TO 72, SETTING NOV. 16 RECORD

The official thermometer registered 73 at 3 p. m. yesterday, setting a sixty year record for Nov. 16. Christmas was less than six weeks off, yet thousands of persons doffed their top coats. The temperature mark was not, however, a record for so late in the season. Last year, on Nov. 19, the mercury reached 75. At Canton previous November records were broken when the temperature climbed to 80 degrees.

Showers were forecast for today but the weather will remain mild, according to Metheorologist J. R. Lloyd. The unseasonable warmth is caused, he said, by southerly winds brought by a high pressure area over the great plains and a low in the southeast.

NICHOLAS' BRIDE LEFT DIPLOMAT TO MARRY PRINCE

Father of Her Child, Rumania Hears.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Nov. 16.—Additional details of the matrimonial adventure of Prince Nicholas of Rumania leaked through the strict censorship which King Carol has reestablished in Rumania today.

Some of it came directly from Bucharest sources and some were published in a Budapest newspaper today, causing Rumanian legations throughout Europe to deny vehemently again that the young prince is married at all.

Romance 5 Years Old.

Nicholas' wife has turned out to be the former wife of Radu Saveanu, Rumanian diplomat and a close friend of the prince until the latter won his spouse's love. The romance began five years ago, according to the Budapest paper, when the prince met Mme. Saveanu at an automobile show. She divorced the diplomat soon afterwards, and he was so distressed, it is alleged, that he took to drink and eventually was discharged from the diplomatic service after threatening revenge on Nicholas.

There was a child and Nicholas decided to marry. So one night last week Nicholas and Mme. Saveanu drove their limousine to the village of Tohanul Vechi in the remote Carpathians, awoke the peasant mayor, picked up two illiterate farm hands as witnesses, and frightened them into performing the marriage service. Then they drove off in the dark.

King Carol Angry.

The mayor duly forwarded the documents to Bucharest. King Carol angrily ordered them destroyed in his presence, after which a drastic official denial was issued.

Queen Marie was so disgusted with the affair that she packed up and went to Munich, where she is now staying with Princess Ileana and her Hapsburg husband.

The Budapest journal reported that a Rumanian high court has now annulled the marriage on the grounds that it lacked the king's consent and was not performed by a minister of justice, who must marry all royal persons.

In the meantime Nicholas refuses to leave his bride.

Crash of Bicycle Into Curb Kills Rider, Age 72

John Pott, 72 years old, 315 West 110th place, fell and was fatally injured last night as he attempted to ride his bicycle over the curb at 111th street and Normal boulevard. Pott had been in the habit for years of riding his bicycle between his home and that of John E. Colnon, 11120 Lowe avenue, where he was employed.

FIVE MOTORISTS GET JAIL TERMS IN AUTO COURT

Eleven men were sentenced for reckless driving yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in the new speeders' court. Five of the motorists were sent to the county jail to serve sentences varying from five to ten days. The other six were placed on probation and forbidden to operate an automobile during the period.

Those sent to jail and their sentences are: Charles Roemer, 45 years old, Sacramento, Cal., ten days; Frank Burwid, 47 years old, 1618 Newberry avenue, $100 fine and ten days for driving while intoxicated as well as recklessly; Edward McDonald, 47 years old, 4920 Indiana avenue, ten days; Paul Lubner, 2701 South Marshfield avenue, ten days and Joseph Fess, 25 years old, 3134 South Ridgeway avenue, five days.

There were no automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday and the toll since Jan 1 remained at 1,116.

UTILITY SYSTEM FINDS PROOF OF REVIVING TRADE

Authentic evidence of business revival is being found at a much earlier stage of the upswing of the business cycle than was possible in final stages of earlier depressions, according to Martin J. Insull, head of the Middle West Utilities system.

"As a result of our investigations, we have established that in most areas served by our system, small-unit industries are using more electric energy than last year," Insull said. "This gain appears to be more pronounced on the Atlantic seaboard and other regions where industries making goods such as textiles, manufactured foods and shoes, are important."

The investigations were conducted by Middle West Utilities executives in 31 states from Maine to Texas and from Florida to North Dakota.

EX-CONVICT FACES TRIAL TODAY AS CRIME REPEATER

James [Red Rooster] Ryan, an ex-convict with a record as a burglar, robber and murderer running back to 1910, will be arraigned today under the habitual criminal act, Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne said yesterday following a conference with Chief of Detectives Schoemaker.

Ryan and James Rolmer were arrested Friday at State and Monroe streets after they had attempted to run down two traffic policemen with the automobile in which they rode, police charge. Both were intoxicated and Ryan had a revolver on which the serial numbers had been defaced. He is in the county jail awaiting hearing.

Police records show that, beginning in 1910, Ryan was arrested several times yearly on charges of burglary and robbery. He served short jail terms, and in 1915 went to Joliet for robbery, after having attempted to kill a policeman in the same year. He was released on parole in 1915.

Chicago's Fastest Way to Downtown New York

IF your business in New York lies in the great downtown section, where the city's government, finance and shipping are centered, you can save many valuable minutes by taking one of the Pennsylvania's four 20-hour flyers.

For you can leave these luxurious trains at Manhattan Transfer, where a connecting train will take you to Hudson Terminal—right in the heart of lower Manhattan. You avoid the long trip downtown.

Meanwhile we will take care of your baggage—you will find it at your hotel when you register there.

To midtown New York, too, these flyers are equally convenient. For they also take you to Pennsylvania Station—within a few blocks of the theatre, shopping and hotel districts.

These 20-hour flyers lead a fleet of 17 trains daily to New York and the East—over a route that is 50 miles shorter than that of any railroad with comparable schedules. Their equipment, service, cuisine are all of the highest Pennsylvania standard. And the roadbed is one of the smoothest in the world.

NEVER BEFORE HAS FURNITURE OF DANERSK QUALITY BEEN OFFERED AT PRICES AS LOW AS THESE

Don't miss this chance to buy Danersk furniture at half price

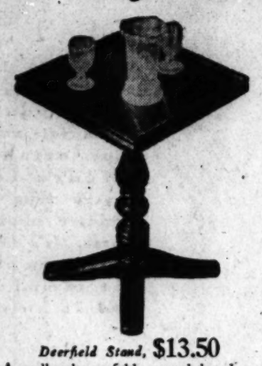
Many of these lovely pieces are offered at even less than half their usual prices

HERE is the opportunity of a lifetime to acquire at prices unheard of before, furniture of faultless craftsmanship and inspiring beauty.

We abhor the word "hurry"—it is rigorously excluded from the Danersk lexicon—but these "heirlooms of tomorrow" will not linger with us long at these really absurd prices. And when our present stocks have vanished into the homes of their fortunate buyers there will never come another opportunity so golden.

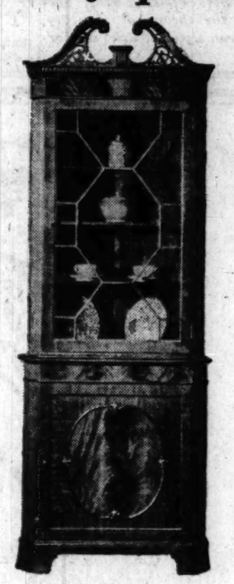
It positively improves one's soul to live with things as satisfying and comfortable, as enduring and lovely, as these Danersk masterpieces. Unlike ephemeral mass-made furniture, such pieces grow mellower—actually more desirable with age. The joy that their ownership brings can be left as a legacy to your descendants.

Come in while there is still time—tomorrow if possible. Your grandchildren will probably hold it against you if you don't.



Deerfield Stand, $13.50

A small and graceful low stand, based on a Colonial candlestand found in Deerfield, Mass. The top is of eggshell Bakelite, impervious to heat and liquids. It is housed in molded maple.

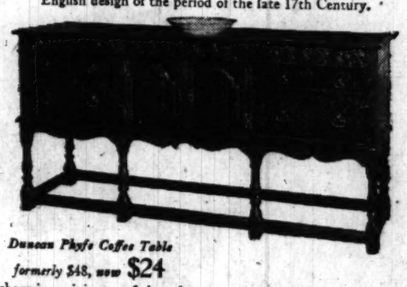


William and Mary Console, formerly $195
now $97.50

Unmistakably aristocratic in design. The burl walnut drawer front is bordered with beautiful inlay. The graceful, turned legs are joined, and made sturdy, by curved stretchers.

Chippendale Corner Cupboard
Mahogany
now $187.50

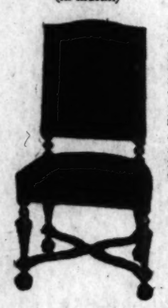
Original came from Harris House in Salem, Mass.—attributed to McIntyre. An outstanding piece of 18th Century furniture.



Stratford Sideboard, formerly $570, now $275
English design of the period of the late 17th Century.

William and Mary Side Chair, formerly $90 (in muslin)
now $45

Some people, it seems, build side chairs merely to be looked at. This one is built to be sat on with thorough comfort to the sitter—it may also be looked at from whatever angle you wish with invariable pleasure to the eye.



Early American Poudreuse
formerly $120, now $60

This Colonial powder table will lend gracious charm to any bedroom or boudoir corner you may choose for it, and it is as practical as it is lovely. (In maple.)

Pendleton Bench (in muslin)
formerly $36, now $18

Duncan Phyfe Coffee Table
formerly $48, now $24

A charming miniature of the celebrated tables made by Duncan Phyfe in the 18th Century. The wood is San Domingo mahogany carefully built up to prevent warping or cracking. Folds to slim and compact proportions—unfolded, it gives ample room for entertaining.

SNOWDEN, A POOR MAN'S SON, MADE VISCOUNT BY KING

Former Watchdog of British Purse Elevated.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Philip Snowden, a poor man's son whom misfortune fashioned as a champion of the people, was created a viscount by King George today and elevated to the house of lords.

A quarter of a century in the house of commons and two terms as watchdog of the people's purse in the chancellorship of the exchequer were climaxed by the announcement that he had been made a peer so he might hold the office of lord privy seal in the national government.

Wife Brought into Peerage.

His elevation also will bring into the peerage his wife, the former Ethel Annakie, whom he married in 1905, and who, by her writings, musical attainments, and social gifts is a personality in her own right.

When Prime Minister MacDonald's Labor government resigned last August Mr. Snowden was one of four Labor ministers who took office in the National government. As chancellor of the exchequer he forced through parliament a drastic budget that entailed sweeping economies and reductions in the dole. At the time of the general election he announced he would not be a candidate on account of the state of his health.

Mr. Snowden was injured in a bicycle accident when he was 27 years old and has made his way with canes ever since. During his convalescence he became a staunch Labor party convert.

First Elected in 1906.

He resigned from the Liberal party in 1914 and joined the independent Labor party shortly afterwards. He made his first bid for office in 1895, but was not elected until 1906, when he was sent to the house of commons.

He has been a leading character on the political stage of Great Britain ever since. During the war he was denounced as an atheist, pacifist, and a traitor because of his outspoken scruples against armed conflict. When he came back from the Young plan conference in 1929 at The Hague, where he obtained important concessions for Great Britain, he was hailed as the country's savior.

ITALY SETS UP OWN AGENCIES TO PUT MEN TO WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 16.—Coincident with the announcement that unemployment at the end of October had reached 800,000, decrees were issued today making it compulsory for all employers to hire help through state employment agencies. Agencies have been set up throughout Italy. Employing men directly or through private agencies has been prohibited. Preference must be given Fascists, militiamen, or those inscribed in Fascist syndicates in the order mentioned.

The unemployment figure is an increase of 50,000 over September.

Meanwhile the Bank of Italy is proceeding on its policy of fortifying the gold reserves. This time it is withdrawing gold deposits from South America. Ninety-six cases of bar gold arrived yesterday.

INSIST POLISH REBEL "ARSENAL" WAS OLD SWORD

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Nov. 16.—An old sword and a rifle used in the 1848 uprising in Cracow and a lancer's saber were produced today at the Brest-Litovsk trial of eleven political leaders accused of fomenting unrest as the "arsenal" found in the house of one of the chief witnesses for the defendants, a Cracow Socialist leader.

These arms were the only illegal weapons discovered in Cracow, where the famous anti-Pilsudski convention met in June, 1930. The convention figures as the main charge against the prisoners who are all deputies.

Today began the fourth week of the trial with the hearing of witnesses for the defendants. Volved Trameczynski, 73 years old, marshal of the first senate of the Polish republic, accused the Pilsudski régime of systematically violating the constitution.

$2,000,000 BRITISH AIRSHIP, THE R-100, IS SOLD FOR JUNK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A long series of misfortunes in airship construction in Great Britain was concluded today with the announcement that the R-100, built at a cost of between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000, had been sold by the air ministry for junk. The purchase price was not revealed.

Since the R-101 disaster, the R-100 had remained in the hangar at Cardington, stripped. Built for Atlantic service, it completed a flight to Canada and return a year ago.

Out of the other five airships built by Britain, one was dismantled after many experiements, two were damaged and were scrapped, and one was never completed after costing $1,500,000. The other was the ill fated R-38, which burst in the air, causing the loss of nearly fifty lives.

POLICE SYSTEM UNDERGOES ITS FIRST CHANGES

Questionnaires Adopted for Captains.

The gradual reorganization of the police department, partly under the influence of civilian advisers, made itself felt in three phases yesterday:

1. Obtaining the signatures of captains on a form of questionnaire, stating whether certain illegal conditions exist in their districts.
2. Restriction of the custom of notifying the detective bureau of all reports of crimes.
3. Elimination of all general and routine orders from transmission on the police teletype.

Move for Economy Seen.

These steps were designed, it was said, partly for economy, and partly to build up a better protective wall of secrecy. Other changes will be made soon, it is believed, and may include a general plan for recording in detail all the movements of the department.

The questionnaire system for district commanders aroused interest among policemen last night. Under the arrangement captains are summoned to Commissioner James Allman's office, and are given mimeographed sheets of paper.

In the upper right hand corner of each sheet is space for the date. Below appears the following: "Received from the police chief personally the following complaint about—." Under this is space for a written complaint, such as "Gambling at No.— Madison street." On the bottom is the line for the captain's signature.

Captain's Report Expected.

The captain is expected to write on the sheet whether the complaint is true. He keeps a duplicate and the commissioner retains the original as a permanent record.

Four captains were known yesterday to have received the questionnaire in Allman's office. They are John Ptacek, of Lawndale; Daniel Gilbert, of Woodlawn; Alfred Christensen, of Sheffield avenue; and Charles McGurn, of West North avenue.

Capt. Ptacek, it was reported, was asked in his questionnaire, if Bill Johnson was operating a gambling house at 3511 Ogden avenue. Rumors were that he refused to sign the paper.

Queries for Other Captains.

Capt. Gilbert's questionnaire, it was said, referred to the Granada café, while Capt. Christensen's alluded, according to reports, to the Winter Garden, in Diversey parkway. On Capt. McGurn's query, it was reported, was a question as to the Manhattan Athletic club, in North avenue. McGurn, it was said, gave a reply that an injunction forebade police action.

In the order restricting reports of all crimes to the detective bureau three policemen are returned to active duty. For years it has been the custom to transmit these reports by telephone to the detective bureau. Three operators, each on an eight hour shift, received the calls from the 13-13 office and forwarded them. Now that office will do the forwarding, but only on major crimes.

The order eliminating routine and general orders from the teletype says that hereafter messengers will carry such orders to stations.

Influence of Civilian Advisers.

Observers saw in these changes the influence of the civilian advisers headed by Bruce Smith, police expert. Already plans have been formulated for the appointment of seven inspectors, six of them to supervise groups of districts, and one to supervise all.

Under the former administration of Acting Commissioner John Alcock, the movement developed to place more policemen on street duty, and this plan is being advanced. The detective bureau now has only 336 men, including clerical help, as against the high record of 1,000 some years ago.

Of the 336 men, 150 are available for squad duty, or 50 on each shift. In recent years incoming commissioners have instituted new programs with the result that the bureau personnel has changed on virtually each occasion.

STRANGLES ON CANDY.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 16.—(AP)—John Joseph Cole, 2 year old son of Ray Cole of St. Mary of the Woods, died in a hospital yesterday from strangling on a piece of candy.

ALDERMEN HEAR REVENUE RELIEF PLAN AND RAP IT

Oppose Throwing Out of Present Tax Boards.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The tax program of the governor's revenue conference was considered yesterday by the city council finance committee. At the start of the session, before any explanations were made, aldermanic comments and questions indicated an active opposition bordering on hostility. Later the attitude of the aldermen was modified to some extent when they were asked to submit a better plan.

Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of the executive committee of the revenue conference, said to the aldermen at the outset:

"We do not want this program kicked around. If it is destroyed, there is little hope to get out of the mess. We are in a desperate financial situation. The plan should be indorsed by the local governments. If we cannot get help from the officials we are trying to aid, how can we get any support from downstate for the plan?

Calls Credit First Need.

"The prime need of the local governments is restoration of credit. To obtain that it is necessary to have a taxing machine that will operate properly, and the revenue conference deems it all important to discard the present board of assessors and board of review and substitute a new system. If we cannot accomplish that we might just as well quit."

Immediately thereafter Ald. Terence Moran [16th] started voicing his opposition to abolition of the elective boards of assessors and review. Then Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, asked Mr. Brittain:

"Will your plan increase taxes?"

No Tax Increase, Brittan Says.

"It will not increase taxes," said Mr. Brittain. "We have suggested income, tobacco and bus taxes, and these are to be used in abatement of property taxes, which we estimate will be decreased about 15 per cent.

"You have said that the revenue conference was asked by various organizations to abolish the elective board of assessors," said Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th]. "What organizations?"

"I think there were 15 or 17 business and civic organizations which have indorsed that program," replied Mr. Brittain.

"I haven't found a property owners' organization which favors an appointive board of assessors," commented Ald. Nelson. "In fact, every organization from which I have heard is opposed to that scheme."

"There are eleven business and civic organization in my ward," said Ald. John Toman [23d], "and they are 100 per cent against your plan, Mr. Brittain."

Explains Tax Payment Plan.

Switching to the plan of the revenue conference for the payment of the 1930 taxes, Harris S. Keeler, director of the bureau of public efficiency —who developed the plan—made a statement in explanation of it.

This plan is to have the property owners pay their taxes for the state, schools, bonds, and interest next March 1. These Mr. Keeler estimated at 55 per cent of the total 1930 taxes on any property. The remaining 45 per cent is to be paid at the option of the property owner in five equal annual installments.

"Why didn't the conference adopt the plan of the Chicago real estate board to fund all of the 1930 taxes, except the state's portion?" asked Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th].

"The answer is a question of policy which the conference decided," said Mr. Keeler. "The conference considered it bad financing and five lawyers told the conference that the plan is illegal."

Argues Plan Is Legal.

"The attorney general of Illinois has said that it is legal and also other lawyers," protested Ald. Hodes.

"The only way out is to issue bonds for the 1930 taxes, except the state's part," commented Ald. Nelson. "It is the only logical and equitable way. We are in a situation like the disaster which followed the Chicago fire."

"Just as a matter of information," spoke up Ald. James B. Waller [43d], "it might be recited that the conference was advised by experts in the investment business that it would probably be impossible to sell $250,000,000 in bonds to fund the 1930 taxes."

"Under your plan of paying taxes in installments," said Ald. John F. Healy [6th], to Mr. Keeler, "the property owner who takes advantage of it will have to pay 18 per cent in interest on the 45 per cent of his taxes which he pays in deferred installments."

"The amount of interest he will pay depends on how long he defers paying his taxes," said Mr. Keeler. "It will work just like interest on special assessment installments."

Mr. Keeler explained the proposed issuance of bonds to pay off tax anticipation warrants and to pay current operating expenses before taxes are collected. The conference plan is to permit the local governments to issue bonds for 85 per cent of the taxes extended, minus the taxes collected in any one year. To meet the requirements of this plan, it was estimated by the conference that a maximum of $44,000,000 in bonds might be issued.

"Those are to be issued without a referendum?" asked Ald. Robert R. Jackson [3d].

"Yes," replied Mr. Keeler.

Early in the session several aldermen made adverse remarks on the proposed income tax, but when Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the revenue conference, explained it later, there were only a few questions about the way the income taxes will be distributed.

The finance committee decided that it needed still more information on the tax plan, and will hold another hearing Friday morning at 11 o'clock. In the meantime it will express no official attitude on the tax program.

NO ONE TAKING LEAD IN BEHALF OF BILLS AT SPECIAL SESSION

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Early arrivals for tomorrow's meeting of the special session of the general assembly said tonight that the principal handicap to the legislative program proposed by the governor's revenue conference lies in the lack of any substantial backing among the legislators themselves.

Difficulty was encountered last week in effecting the introduction of the twenty-nine bills for the financial relief of Cook county's local governments and for tax aid to real estate because, with the attendance slim, there was no one willing to sponsor them. This leaves them now without any one to press them forward. The problem of finding such a one, it is said, will be taken up at the conference of leaders of both houses in the morning.

Opposition to permitting Representative John M. Pfeffers to introduce 122 bills to cut in half every tax rate in the statutes has developed on grounds of economy. Members now here say the expense of printing Pfeffer's bills, which are ready for introduction, would be wasteful, since it is conceded none of them has a chance of passage.

FISHBEIN RAPS FOES OF SCIENCE AND MEDICINE

Assails Emmerson for "Blind" Bill Veto.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical Journal, attacked anti-scientific and anti-medical groups at the annual luncheon of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness held at the Palmer house yesterday.

His caustic remarks followed a long description given by Miss Audrey Hayden, executive secretary of the organization, of efforts made by the society to put through the last legislature a law requiring that every baby be treated for the prevention of blindness at birth. The bill was passed, but vetoed by Gov. Emmerson following a ruling by Attorney General Carlstrom that it was unconstitutional.

Assails Emmerson Action.

"We not only need to educate the lowly and the ignorant, but we need to educate those in high places as well," Dr. Fishbein declared. "It seems strange that Gov. Emmerson did not recognize the value of your bill as a measure for the protection of children. He should have had the foresight shown by Mayor Cermak, who remarked he was more interested in babies than in dogs, when an attempt was made to drag him into an anti-vivisection controversy.

"When you fight to put into effect such a measure as yours was you will have to combat all the antis, who are opposed to anything scientific or anything medical. If I had to choose between their mental blindness and physical blindness I'm afraid I should be prejudiced toward the latter.

"Some way should be devised to break up the trust funds of large sums established by people who are guided by their emotions rather than their intellect, for anti-social purposes. Those vast funds exist mainly to give a lot of executive secretaries soft jobs and soft chairs to sit in. Something should be done to correct the purposes of those funds."

Plans for Eye Hospital.

Plans for the establishment of a hospital somewhere downstate for the treatment of trachoma, a disease of the eyes, were disclosed in Miss Hayden's report. The society will try to raise $9,000 for the building and to obtain federal and state aid for its support. The society increased its membership over the previous year.

In explanation of the society's strenuous efforts to put into effect a law to protect baby's eyes, Miss Hayden told of 1,914 babies being treated successfully for eye infection during two years in Chicago, and 72 others losing their sight from infection.

Speakers at the luncheon included Rodney H. Brandon, director of the state department of public welfare; Dr. Andy Hall, director of the department of public health; State Representative W. G. Thon; Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan, and Mrs. Paul Buhlig. Russell Tyson, president of the society, presided.

THREE ARRESTED FOR INQUIRY INTO LYNCH KIDNAPING

Three men, suspected of having a part in the kidnaping of John J. Lynch, part owner of a racing news service, in August, were arrested at 22d street and Michigan avenue yesterday by Lieut William Cusack of the state's attorney's office.

They are Michael Trant, alias Trent, 2812 Hillock avenue; Michael Sullivan and his brother, Frank, both of 2807 Eleanor street. All are between 30 and 35 years old. Questioned by Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, they denied any connection with the Lynch abduction. Lynch, however, will be asked to view them today.

Police records showed that Trant was sentenced to 17 years in federal prison and fined $10,000 for counterfeiting in 1924. The police said they would investigate today in an effort to learn how he happens to be free. Federal authorities will be notified.

G. L. Dickson, Architect, Is Sued for Divorce

Mrs. Alma Louise Dickson, 481 East Illinois road, Lake Forest, filed suit for divorce in the Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday, charging her husband, George L. Dickson, Chicago architect with offices at 333 North Michigan avenue, with desertion. The bill was filed for her by the law firm of Scott, MacLeish and Falk, 134 South La Salle street. The Dicksons were married July 10, 1917, and were separated Aug. 10, 1929, the bill states. Mrs. Dickson asks the custody of her two children, Harry Hodges Dickson, 11 years old, and Nancy Dickson, 8 years old, and sufficient allmony to support them.

G. T. VAN METER IS SWORN IN AS U. S. COLLECTOR

Gregory T. Van Meter was sworn in as collector o internal revenue for the northern district of Illinois in his office on the fifth floor of the Federal building yesterday. Mr. Van Meter was recently given a recess appointment by President Hoover.

GREGORY T. VAN METER.

The office was turned over by Robert E. Neely, who has been acting collector for several months since Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge resigned following the $50,000 faro swindle in Springfield, Mr. Neely was sworn in as chief deputy in charge of the field service.

Mr. Van Meter was sworn in by John W. Hertz, a department chief of the internal revenue office. Among those who attended the ceremony were George F. Harding, former county treasurer; Postmaster Lueder, United States Commissioner Walker, United States Marshal Laubenheimer, Alderman Oscar Nelson, Irving Schreiber and John F. Healy; Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general; Louis J. Behan, former South Park commissioner; and Charles Krutchkoff, former county assessor.

The new collector is 64 years old and a bachelor. He lives with his mother and a sister at 5019 Blackstone avenue.

VINCENT McERLANE FREED.

Vincent McErlane, brother of Frank McErlane, gangster, was discharged by Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt in Felony court on a charge of vagrancy yesterday.

TURKEY LIMITS IMPORTS ON 1,000 ARTICLES; U. S. HIT

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Almost paralyzing foreign trade in Turkey, the government issued a decree today drastically limiting the importation of 1,000 articles.

America was among the nations hard hit, and diplomatic protests are expected from many countries. No consideration was given to merchandise now in customs or en route.

Quotas effective today limit the importation of such American articles as automobiles, motion picture films, camera films, automobile tires and radios. Comparatively small amounts of these articles will be permitted to enter the country during November and December, and new quotas will be fixed for succeeding months.

2 Rockford Bankers Held on Embezzlement Charges

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Truman Johnson, president of the Security First Mortgage company, and Evans Anderson, secretary of the company, were arrested late tonight on warrants charging embezzlement. The warrants were issued, police said, on complaints signed by six stockholders of the company, charging embezzlement of $39,400. Johnson was president of the Security National bank, which closed last June, and Anderson was cashier of the bank.

W. A. Borden, Organizer of 400 Libraries in India, Dies

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 16.—(AP)—William Alanson Borden, 78, internationally known library authority and organizer of more than 400 public libraries in India, died today. He was born in New Bedford, Mass.

POST, WHO FLEW AROUND WORLD, VISITS CHICAGO

Wiley Post, the one eyed pilot who flew around the world with Harold Gatty, noted navigator, in the Miss Mae, a Wasp powered Lockheed Vega monoplane, spent yesterday in Chicago, en route from Oklahoma City to New York, where he will meet Gatty for a month's tour of southern cities in their famous plane.

Post arrived on an airline late Sunday and stayed at the Hotel Sherman. He left late yesterday by train for New York. Although he and Gatty plan no spectacular flights in the near future, he is much interested in a new design of Lockheed being built for the navy, in which the high wing will be faired into the fuselage and the plane powered by a Curtiss Conqueror, water cooled motor.

SHE GRIEVED FOR HER TROUSSEAU LINENS.. until she learned how to remove stains, scorched spots and mildew with Clorox . . . . .

LINENS, stored away, become yellow—spots and stains come with use—badly laundered linens are gray—what to do? The woman who uses Clorox has the remedy.... For Clorox can be safely used on even the finest linens. Added to the soaking suds or first rinse, Clorox makes white cottons and linens snowy-white and stain-free. It is not even necessary to boil them. Ordinary stains disappear in the laundering process, while stubborn stains, such as fruit, berry, ink and medicine, even scorched spots and mildew, require only a slightly stronger solution.

Moreover, every time Clorox is used to cleanse or bleach it also deodorizes and disinfects.

Millions gargle night and day as bad breath still stays bad*

To check bad breath you must kill germs... Most mouth antiseptics can't kill germs when diluted... Pepsodent Antiseptic kills germs in 10 seconds when mixed with 2 parts of water . . . That's why it checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer.

IT'S not because they don't gargle—it's not because they don't fight it that millions have bad breath. It's because 3 out of 4 add water to their antiseptics and most old-style mouth antiseptics cannot kill germs when diluted. Pepsodent Antiseptic can. And it is safe. It is sure. It is pleasant. It is 3 to 11 times more powerful.

SAFE yet powerful

Here is the startling news in this new discovery. You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all its power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength! What a weapon it is in fighting bad breath!

New security against bad breath (Halitosis)

Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath due to unhygienic mouth conditions 1 to 2 hours longer! Immediately after use, 95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs is still reduced by 80%.

That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics. And remember—when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic to check bad breath, you are doing double duty by also fighting colds.

$3 worth for $1—regardless of size

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix them with water is a waste of money. Contrariwise, Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend.

Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size, the more for your money.

Checking bad breath and combating colds are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page.

Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you when you travel.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool bad breath.

SORE THROAT • COLDS

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when fighting bad breath. For at the same time it combats colds and throat irritations. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics ... and it kills germs when diluted.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

- Cold in Head
- Throat Irritations

EXPECT WALSH WILL BE NAMED CORONER TODAY

Bundesen Is Due to Offer Resignation.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Cook county may have a new coroner today. Announcement was made before the mayor's office yesterday that Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, health commissioner, will submit his resignation as coroner to the county board this afternoon. The plans of the Democratic organization are for the county commissioners to elect Frank J. Walsh forthwith to fill the vacancy. He was picked by the committeemen weeks ago.

FRANK J. WALSH.

A flash of uncertainty was contributed by Dr. Bundesen, who said last night that he has not reached a final and irrevocable decision in the matter. He said he has not written his resignation yet, but that developments might be expected today. Meanwhile he has cleared out his desk in the coroner's office. The conjecture was that he was insisting on explicit assurances that his successor will not disturb the scientific methods introduced during the Bundesen regime, including ballistics and expert medical staff.

Expect to Name Walsh.

The Democratic county committee is to meet at 1 o'clock to indorse Mr. Walsh for the uncompleted term and as candidate for coroner next year. At 2 o'clock the county board is to meet and in the event that Dr. Bundesen resigns, the commissioners are to elect Mr. Walsh for the remainder of the coroner's term, which has a year to run.

The general gossip yesterday was that Dr. Bundesen, in retiring as coroner, an office to which he was elected in 1928 by a vote of 1,053,895, will set forth his desire to concentrate on his activities as health commissioner. He has held the two positions since April, and for months the party leaders have been urging that he retire from the coronership to give his successor time to make a record on which to run for the full term next year.

Mr. Walsh, who is committeeman from the 17th ward, was close to the old Sullivan and Brennan wing of the party. For eight years he was clerk of the Criminal court, being elected in 1918 and in 1914.

In 1929 he was appointed by the Wilson administration to the post of naval officer, a job created years ago for T. S. Tanner, old Republican Mule Farr leader. The position is now designated controller of customs and it is held by Leslie L. Glenn, brother of the senator.

Democrats Finish Pow Wows.

The regional pow wows of the Democratic ward committeemen were finished yesterday. Full conferences are to be held soon at which the committeemen will submit their candidates for the state and county slates. Mayor Cermak, addressing the committeemen from the final fifteen wards, set forth that before slate-making on state offices is taken up a conference should be called of downstate leaders.

Paul R. Arnold announced yesterday that he has opened headquarters for the campaign for the Republican nomination for secretary of state against William J. Stratton. He is a nephew of the late George B. Arnold, who was director of the state department of labor during the Small regime. He is president of the Inland Oil company, with offices in Chicago. Mr. Arnold says he will campaign on the question of more rigid enforcement of the blue sky laws with special reference to bond issues. He was educated at Northwestern university and Kent College of Law.

Aviation Notes

A new type of air express service, designed to increase the speed and efficiency of handling, has been inaugurated by Century Air Lines, operating out of Chicago to Cleveland and to St. Louis. The express will be picked up and delivered by employés of the line. Deliveries will be made on the day the shipment is sent. Rates will be considerably lower than existing tariffs, and all shipments will be insured free up to $50. Consignees will be notified by phone of the anticipated delivery time.

Last month a total of 7,996,880 letters were flown on the New York-Chicago-Dallas line of United Air Lines. The overnight mail to the southwest was speeded up with new planes, which are fifteen miles an hour faster than those used previously.

Woman Stops to Direct Stranger, Robbed of $625

Mrs. Agnes Starke, 3024 North Marmora avenue, was on her way to a bank yesterday, carrying $625 for payment on a mortgage on her home. An automobile containing two men and a woman drew up to the curb beside her at Belmont and Marmora avenues. One of the men asked her a question. As she stepped to the door of the car to answer him, he drew a revolver and took her money.

EX-CONVICT GETS EIGHT YEARS FOR HIJACKING TRUCK

Morris Weiner, 34 years old, an ex-convict, was sentenced to eight years in Leavenworth penitentiary yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes for hijacking a tobacco truck on the night of Sept. 24. He was paroled on July 9 from Joliet after serving ten years for a jewel robbery.

MORRIS WEINER.

The tobacco truck belonged to the Universal Car Loading and Distributing company and contained $12,000 worth of merchandise. The hijacking took place on Waukegan road five miles north of Niles. Weiner and three other men, all of whom escaped, overpowered the drivers and forced them into the bandit car.

Two of the bandits drove away with the truck. The loot was never recovered. Shortly after the truck departed from the scene, county highway police noticed an automobile without lights along the roadside. They stopped to investigate and found the drivers bound and gagged. The police pursued the two men who fled from the car. Weiner was captured, but his accomplice escaped.

NO. SHORE TOWNS CONSIDERING NEW GAS RATE OFFER

All the towns and villages along the north shore, from Winnetka to the Wisconsin line, have taken the rate reduction proposition of the North Shore Gas company under consideration and will make official reports next week, it was announced last night. So far three towns have definitely accepted the proposal. They are Winnetka, Zion, and Lake Forest.

The Waukegan city council last night started consideration of the rates. Julian G. Hart, manager of the gas company in Waukegan, indicated the Illinois commerce commission would be asked to authorize the rates next week.

The rates, as first proposed to Howard C. Phillips, chairman of the Winnetka utility commission, and Village President William B. Moulton, were as follows. The first 400 cubic feet will be sold at 60 cents as at present; the next 5,000 feet will be cut from $1.30 to $1.27 per thousand; the next 10,000 from $1.23 to $1.20; the next 15,000 from $1.20 to $1.17; the next 20,000 from $1.15 to $1.11. Over 50,400 the present rate of 90 cents a thousand will remain.

Heating gas will be cut from 80 to 80 cents.

Guilty of Mistreating Two Girls; Gets 21 Year Term

John Carlson, 29 years old, was given concurrent sentences of 21 years each on two charges of rape yesterday by Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court. Judge Stanton heard the cases without a jury, and found Carlson guilty of the charges that on July 28 he enticed two girls, 9 and 10 years old, to his room at 9917 Ewing avenue and mistreated them.

TRIAL OF STATE AUDITOR NELSON SET FOR JAN. 18

Prosecutor Reveals His Charges in Bank Case.

Judge Edward D. Shurtleff at Waukegan yesterday set next Jan. 18 for the trial of State Auditor Oscar Nelson, Norman O. Geyer, former president of the closed Waukegan State bank, and George Woodruff, former chairman of the board of directors of the National Bank of the Republic. The three men are charged with conspiracy in connection with the Waukegan bank's failure.

AUDITOR NELSON.

The case will be heard at Woodstock, county seat of McHenry county, because the defendants contended that a prejudice existed against them in Lake county and that a jury chosen there might be affected by this prejudice. Judge Ralph N. Dady granted a change of venue to McHenry county a week ago. Judge Shurtleff will preside as judge at the trial.

Sets Forth State's Charges.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county filed a bill of particulars in the case which set forth in general terms what the state hopes to prove against the defendants. No specific instances of fraud were charged in the document. The three men will be shown, according to the bill, to have misrepresented the worth of the assets, resources and liabilities of the Waukegan bank with the intent to defraud depositors, prospective stockholders and other bank customers.

It is charged that State Auditor Nelson knew of the bank's insolvency months before its failure last June 17, but did not close the bank, thus being guilty of malfeasance and neglect of duty in office.

Charges Misrepresentation.

The defendants also misrepresented the financial and business connections of the Waukegan bank with the National Bank of the Republic, the National Republic Bank corporation, the National Industrial Service corporation and other institutions, according to the bill of particulars. False representations were made concerning the value of the capital stock, the ownership of the stock, and the books and accounts were juggled to give a false impression of the soundness of the Waukegan institution, the bill charged.

According to Prosecutor Smith, the Waukegan bank was insolvent on Oct. 24, 1930, but was not closed by Auditor Nelson until June 17, 1931, when it had deposit liabilities of $1,224,000 and cash on hand of only $38,000.

BEER BARRELS NEARLY EMPTY; PAIR ARE FREED

Joseph Angelo, 125 South Francisco avenue, and Frank Novak, 3511 South Albany avenue, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday charged with possession and transportation of eleven barrels of beer. After listening to the testimony of Prohibition Agents William Meagher and Archie Larkins, who arrested the men, Commissioner Walker dismissed both defendants.

Meagher told how he and his partner stalked a suspicious looking truck in front of a soft drink parlor at 22d street and Kostner avenue until Angelo and Novak mounted to the driver's seat, how they then gave chase around and around a nearby block until they finally caught the truck.

Here, Meagher paused in his story. "And you found real beer in the barrels?" Commissioner Walker asked. Meagher nodded. "How much beer in each barrel?" the Commissioner asked. "About an ounce in each," said Meagher.

The commissioner then dismissed the defendant.

loans are approved by the board of directors," he said.

Another phase to be inquired into will be the alleged transfer of funds from one bank to another. It has been hinted that the assets of the stronger banks were sometimes transferred to bolster up the weaker of the Bain institutions

Tell Amount of Loans.

The auditors of the state's attorney's office listed the following amounts as the loans made by each of the twelve banks to its officers and directors, exclusive of loans made to Bain and his family:

Armitage State bank	$ 81,340
Auburn Park State bank	42,000
Brainerd State bank	191,704
Hyde Mawr State bank	75,875
Chatham State bank	255,785
Chicago Lawn State bank	604,082
Elston State bank	21,700
Ridge State bank	39,987
Stony Island State bank	686,171
West Englewood Trust and Savings	751,062
West Highland State bank	362,625
West Lawn State bank	186,848

The West Englewood bank, which had the heaviest loans, was the original Bain bank from which the chain grew.

Dr. Buhlig, attending physician to Bain and who was a director in several Bain banks, was asked by the grand jurors yesterday when the 63 year old banker could be questioned. He replied that it would be at least six weeks before Bain could leave the German Evangelical Deaconess hospital where he recently underwent a minor operation and will shortly undergo another operation.

Arthur Tarman, head of the receivership department in State Auditor Nelson's office, was another witness before the grand jury. He was questioned closely concerning the methods by which receivers are picked for closed banks and the methods they employ to convert assets into cash.

O'Donnel Balks Jurors.

"Spike" O'Donnell refused to sign an immunity waiver when he appeared before the grand jury and the jurors did not question him. To reporters the gangster denied that he had forced John Bain to give him back a $20,000 deposit after the banks had closed.

At the Criminal Courts building O'Donnell was cockily confident when he appeared outside the grand jury room. He was garbed in a bright green ensemble with a four carat stickpin in a lurid cravat.

"What about the twenty grand?" he was asked by reporters.

"That's the name of a race horse," responded O'Donnell in his best Randolph street manner. He then outlined his story of the Bain bank account.

"I was downtown one night with a bunch of big shots," he said. "One of them cracked that the Bain banks were not so good. I had $20,000 in my wife's name in the West Englewood bank and I told her to take it out. That was last March."

Judge Reveals Story.

Judge Michael Feinberg, who will resume his investigation of John Bain, Inc., today, declared yesterday that he had been given a true report of the O'Donnell account. He said that when Mrs. O'Donnell went to the bank only two days before the banks closed to withdraw the $20,000, she was told that a sixty day notice was necessary. When "Spike" was given this information, he is said to have called up the bank cashier and to have remarked:

"You want a sixty day notice. Well, I'm giving you a one hour notice to give my wife that money."

Mrs. O'Donnell got the $20,000 when she went back, it was said.

O'Donnell growled that this story was "the bunk." If evidence can be produced that it is true, investigators said, some action may be taken against the gangster and a possibility existed that he might be forced to return the money until all the depositors have been given an even break.

Refuses to Sign Waiver.

The gangster was before the grand jury only a few minutes.

"I'll sign no papers," he said when shown an immunity waiver. "I'm no chump." He was allowed to go home after the session.

Former Senator Charles E. Deneen will appear in Judge Feinberg's court today as a witness in the inquiry into the assets of John Bain, Inc. Testimony at the hearing has shown that Mr. Deneen was a partner of John Bain in a number of business deals on the south side and the judge said he wished to interrogate the political leader concerning these deals.

Judge Feinberg disclosed yesterday that he has a witness who was a passenger on the train during the mystery trip to Massillon, O., which has been investigated at the hearing. This witness, it was said, can identify the two occupants of a drawing room and one man in a lower berth who took the trip last June 26.

Evidence will also be presented today concerning John Bain's accounts in a number of eastern banks. The receiver has found several of Bain's personal checks dated after the banks closed and made payable to several eastern banks.

Promise Inquiry Fund.

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday was virtually authorized by the county board to proceed with the expenditure of $125,000 in his investigation and prosecution of officials of a number of the 94 banks which have been closed in Cook county in the last two years.

Although no official action was taken by the board after the prosecutor had asked for the fund, the county commissioners indicated to him that he should proceed with his investigation and that the money would be supplied by an appropriation in the 1932 budget. Commissioner Maurice F. Kavanagh, chairman of the finance committee, told the state's attorney to submit a resolution for the money before the board on Dec. 1 when the county's 1932 budget year opens.

Swanson Pleads for Inquiry.

At the county board meeting State's Attorney Swanson told the commissioners that the bank inquiry must be made as a matter of self-preservation for the state's attorney's office.

"I'm going through with this investigation if I have to go out on the street with a tin cup for the money that is necessary," he declared bluntly. "I'll do it if we have to get the money through popular subscription. The inquiry must be made because of the charges which have been made—charges of criminal activities.

"I thought that I could get the aid of the receivers of the banks concerning the alleged criminal acts which have occurred, but apparently the receivers are interested in the collection of assets solely and not in the prosecution of criminal offenders.

"If we are to protect the interests of thousands of depositors who have been affected, it is imperative that the work be done speedily and quickly and that it embrace every bank under suspicion."

POSTPONE TRIAL OF HOOVER'S KIN TO NEXT MONDAY

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Prosecution of Cornelius Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Herbert Hoover, on liquor charges, met a week's delay when Leavitt answered a call to court this morning.

Police Judge Charles A. Spencer unsuccessfully argued with Leavitt personally, and then with the defendant's attorney, M. Fogel of Santa Monica, in an attempt to induce Leavitt to withdraw his decision to put the case up to the judge for decision. Judge Spencer wanted Leavitt to let a jury decide it. He set trial for Nov. 24 at 9 o'clock.

Leavitt and Dailey hastily severed the last of their connections by demanding separate trials. Attorney J. James McCarthy asked a jury trial for Dailey, whom Leavitt accused of handing him a burlap bag containing 19 pints of liquor, an accusation which Dailey flatly denies. Dailey's trial was set for Dec. 7.

Detective Thomas Carr of Santa Monica, who signed the complaint, charging the two men with "Wright act possession"—that is, violation of the California state law forbidding possession of liquor, was absent from the courtroom.

CHRIS PASCHEN TAX TRIAL SET FOR JANUARY 26

The date for the income tax evasion trial of Christian F. Paschen, former building commissioner, was set for Jan. 26 by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday. Paschen was in court with his attorney, George F. Barrett. The government charges that Paschen failed to pay $113,497 he owed on an income of $568,925 for the years 1927 and 1928.

HEADACHES caused by ACID

ACIDITY haunts its victim like a shadow. No appetite; what you do eat disagrees, causes flatulence and makes you sluggish. Work is an effort. Before night, a headache?

Do you know what is wrong? An acid-soaked system! Too many acid foods. But you need not diet your way out of this difficulty! Take a tablespoonful or two of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

From the hour you relieve that acid condition you will feel like another person. Every spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will neutralize many times as much acid. Take it when stomach nerves are over-stimulated through worry, or excitement; when everything ferments in your stomach, and waste matter is poisoning the bloodstream or whenever the bowels are clogged.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia has a gentle, laxative action. It is ever so much better for one than the harsh purgatives that upset the stomach or weaken the bowel muscles. An occasional dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is all that is necessary to avoid those periodical attacks of sluggishness so apt to occur with any person who does not get a great deal of physical exercise.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is sold at drug stores everywhere in 25c and 50c bottles. Be sure to say "Phillips'" when you buy. Then you're sure of getting the product that doctors prescribe.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior toothpaste that safeguards against acid-mouth.

SUPERIORS FIND NO BLOT ON DRY KILLER'S RECORD

Brutality and Carousing News to Them.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The defense of the bureau of prohibition in the case of the latest killing committed by a dry agent is that the bureau's records in Washington show nothing to date to the discredit of Agent Henry Dierks.

It was Dierks who early last week clubbed Milford Smith, 20 year old Englewood, Col., youth, fracturing his skull, and caused his death. The cause was Smith's alleged possession of a bottle of wine.

Howard T. Jones, assistant director of prohibition, explained in the absence of Director Amos W. W. Woodcock that the only step the bureau has taken so far is to order an investigation of the case by the district personnel inspector. Mr. Jones did not know when the inspector would get around to the Dierks case.

Dierks Not Suspended.

Dierks has not been suspended, even though Mr. Jones admitted the receipt of a resolution passed by the Englewood city council setting forth some of the incidents in Dierks' record.

Charges that Dierks, while acting as an undercover man a few years ago, had employed a 17 year old girl as an informer, that Dierks had got drunk collecting evidence in a raid, that Dierks in 1930 had clubbed a helpless prisoner with his revolver, were all news to the prohibition bureau, Mr. Jones said.

He stated that Dierks came to the bureau recommended by the civil service inquiry into his record, making none of its own. No complaints regarding Dierks had been made to the bureau, Mr. Jones declared.

Investigator Arrives.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—P. A. Shirley, special intelligence operative of the federal prohibition department, acting under orders from Administrator Amos W. Woodcock, arrived here today to investigate the death of Milford G. Smith, Englewood youth, slain last week by Federal Prohibition Agent Henry Dierks over three ounces of wine.

Shirley came here from Omaha, where Woodcock conducted an investigation this last week end. He immediately held a three hour conference with Administrator John F. Vivian and Sam H. Scott, investigator for the personnel department of the federal prohibition bureau. None of the officials would make a statement as to the course the investigation would take. Unofficial reports were that their first move will be to question witnesses of the unequal struggle between the 200 pound Dierks and his slight, 137 pound opponent.

John F. Voight Heads Bar Group of Seventh District

The seventh district Bar Association of Illinois held its annual meeting yesterday in the rooms of the Chicago Bar association and elected the following officers; John F. Voight of Chicago, president; Edgar F. Thomas of Elmhurst, vice president; George A. Chritton of Chicago, member of board of governors; John P. McKinley of Chicago, treasurer, and Ellen L. Nylund of Chicago, secretary. The district includes Cook, Du Page, Kankakee, Lake, and Will counties.

TROOPER GOES ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING MAN IN LIQUOR RAID

Iron Mountain, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Theodore G. Friegel, trooper of the Iron Mountain detachment, Michigan state police, went on trial in a special term of Circuit court this afternoon for the slaying of Richard Franklin as the culmination of an attempted raid early Sept. 28 on the soft drink parlor and dance hall of Arthur Stanchina of Loretto.

Friegel is charged with manslaughter.

An interesting angle of the case is that G. D. Friegel of Owosso, Mich., father of the defendant and an attorney, is sitting in with defense counsel.

According to stories told officials after the shooting, Friegel and a fellow trooper, C. F. Van Blankensteyn, were called to Loretto near midnight Sept. 27. Finding evidence of liquor law violation, they made an effort to carry out liquor, but were set upon by Stanchina sympathizers. In the ensuing mêlée Friegel shot, the bullet finding its mark in Franklin's heart.

3 CONGRESSMEN OF U. S. BANQUET GUESTS IN CANADA

MONTREAL, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The spirit of two great nations working side by side and joined together by bonds of neighborly regard and peaceful intercourse prevailed at the banquet tendered to members of the senate and house of representatives of the United States on the occasion of their visit to Montreal by Sir Henry W. Thornton, K. B. E., chairman and president of the Canadian National railways.

On all hands the belief was expressed that the visit of such a distinguished delegation from the United States could not but strengthen the feeling of understanding that exists between the two countries.

The speakers were Sir Henry Thornton, Hon. Alfred Duranleau, minister of marine, and Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, minister of railways and canals, for Canada; and J. Hanford MacNider, United States minister to Canada; Senator W. H. King of Utah, Representative Royal Johnson of South Dakota, and Representative Wilbur M. White of Toledo, O., for the United States.

ASK MICHIGAN DRY LAW TEST AT 1932 POLLS

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—A test of prohibition sentiment in Michigan through submission of a proposal to repeal the state's bone dry constitutional amendment was launched today, when petitions bearing 17,000 signatures were filed with the secretary of state asking that the issue be placed on the 1932 fall election ballot.

The petitions were brought here from Detroit by James O'Hara, president of the National Anti-Prohibition league, and James R. Davis of Lansing, former regional director of prohibition enforcement. Davis has been actively advocating repeal of the eighteenth amendment since he became convinced that prohibition is unworkable and that a different method of liquor control is imperative if the nation's morale is not to be broken by open lawbreaking.

ROOSEVELT TO TELL AL SMITH HOW WET HE IS

That's Expected Topic at Parley Today.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The type of wet plank to be adopted by the Democratic party at its national convention next spring will be one of the chief topics discussed by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt when they hold their conference tomorrow or Wednesday, according to a report tonight.

GOV. F. D. ROOSEVELT. [(C) A. P. Photo.]

Announcement that the two governors would meet was made last night and, it was learned today, Mr. Roosevelt extended the invitation. The governor's opponents have characterized such a meeting as a belated wooing of Mr. Smith by the governor, and some have contended that by now it is much too belated.

Indications are that the conference will take place at the governor's home here tomorrow afternoon. The governor comes down to New York late tonight and is scheduled to leave for a vacation in Warm Springs, Ga., Wednesday night.

In a statement issued from the executive offices in Albany today the governor insisted the conference would not be secret.

"During the twenty years of friendship between Al Smith and myself," he said, "we never have had what could be called a secret conference. We have met on many occasions to discuss matters, but never in secrecy."

The governor preferred to describe the meetings as "just a friendly meeting" to discuss "things in general."

Upon his return from Georgia it is expected by many that Mr. Roosevelt will state his position as a presidential candidate.

What gives this particular meeting its significance and its mystery is the fact that it follows closely the visit of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland to New York. The Ritchie boom has taken a sudden jump in the last two weeks and, while there are formal denials, it has been repeatedly stated that the Smith-Raskob element in the Democratic party is building the Maryland executive up to prevent Mr. Roosevelt from sweeping the national convention on the first ballot.

LOCK UP JURY TRYING ADAMS FOR KILLING TWO U. S. DRY AGENTS

Fort Wayne, Ind. [Thursday], Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The jury pondering the fate of George Adams of Indianapolis for the murder of John J. Wilson, federal prohibition agent, since 6 p. m. yesterday was locked up last midnight without reaching a verdict. Adams is being tried for the murder of Wilson who was shot to death along with Walter M. Gilbert of Cincinnati when three agents and an informer tried to entrap Adams, July 22.

The jury may return on of five verdicts—first degree murder, second degree murder, voluntary manslaughter, involuntary manslaughter, or acquittal—the judge told them.

Closing arguments of state and defense began at 8 a. m. yesterday and continued until after 5 p. m. They were marked by bitterness in which the prohibition law and manner of enforcing it played a leading part.

The case has been marked by an invasion of federal law enforcement officers. Director Amos Woodcock came for the opening of the trial nearly two weeks ago. Special Attorney John F. Coldiron and United States District Attorney Oliver M. Loomis of South Bend remained through the trial to aid the state's attorney.

500 REDS MOB TWO POLICEMEN AT RESTAURANT

Woman Leader Flees; One Man Arrested

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Two policemen, guarding the Crusader restaurant in East 14th street, were badly mauled tonight by a crowd of 500 communists who attempted to storm the restaurant and wreck the interior as another mob had done just two weeks before.

Edward Magneson and George Sauer, the policemen, were standing in front of the restaurant just before midnight when the crowd approached. A young woman was in the lead.

Close in Upon Police.

At her solicitation several men in the crowd closed in upon the police and grappled with them. Magneson was thrown down and trampled. But Sauer, after being roughly handled for a few minutes, shook off his assailants and seized the young woman ringleader.

She broke away from him and fled. She dashed up Fourth avenue with Sauer in pursuit and a crowd of her confederates closed behind. Sauer overtook her, however, seized her again and pushed her into a taxicab, intending to take her to the police station.

Drag Woman from Cab.

But as he thrust her through one door of the cab her friends hurled open the other door and dragged her out. She fled while her friends set upon Sauer. He beat them off for a time, but as the number of his assailants continued to increase he drew his pistol and fired several shots in the air. This attracted the attention of policemen on nearby posts and several came to his assistance and dispersed the crowd.

Meanwhile, other police had gone to the aid of Magneson and were driving back the crowd from the front of the restaurant.

Magneson managed to get hold of one of the men who had led the attack upon him and Sauer. He took the man to the police station, and charged him with disorderly conduct.

TWO MEN KILLED IN RESTAURANT IN N. Y. GANG WAR

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Two men were shot to death late tonight as they sat in a Brooklyn restaurant by four assailants in what police believe was a reprisal for a recent gang murder.

The victims were Guglielmo Guici, 28, believed by police to have been engaged in the Brooklyn beer racket, and Beneddetto Ruggierio, 27.

Guici, police said, was out on bail on extortion charges and recently was acquitted of murder charges in connection with the slaying of Joseph Marino, alleged bootlegger.

Ruggierio has no police record and probably was an innocent victim, detectives said. According to the story told police, four men drove up to the restaurant in a sedan, raked the place with bullets, and fled.

An unidentified third man, who had been sitting at a table with the two others, escaped by leaping under the table and crawling on his hands and knees through a back door.

whose guests they are to be for two nights. Here they found an autographed photograph of their good friend Mussolini looking down at them. Here they saw a silver statuette of Romulus and Remus being nursed by their wolf-mother. They had barely time to note these touches of the homeland when they had to dress for the informal dinner which the Stimsons gave for them.

They Meet the Borahs.

At the dinner they met Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams, Idaho's senator and Mrs. Borah, Pennsylvania's senator and Mrs. Reed, Chief of Protocol Warren Delano Robbins and Mrs. Robbins, and A. T. Klots, personal assistant to Secretary Stimson, and Mrs. Klots.

After the dinner, Senator Borah engaged in conversation with Sig. Grandi just as he had done with Premier Laval several weeks ago, but with a less vehement disagreement. Although both men later declined to tell of their half hour conversation it is understood that they were in happy agreement over proposed debt revisions.

In their discussion of naval disarmament, however, the Italian is understood to have urged his one year holiday plan while the Idahoan maintained his stand for a five year naval holiday.

Shortly after his departure from the White House, Signor Grandi issued a statement in which he gave credit to President Hoover for having initiated a period of "intensified diplomatic activity." He saw in the recent visit of Premier Laval of France "a very encouraging sign of the work for general cooperation which is essential to the consolidation of peace and the restoration of prosperity."

Nations Bound Together.

And he concluded:

"In a moment like the present, one feels strongly that the good of each is the good of all and that the misfortune of one can never be the fortune of the other. The interests of the nations are linked together. In coming here to pay my respects to your President and to bring a message of friendship from the Italian to the American people, I feel that I represent one of the links of the chain. The scope of my visit here is to offer the Italian contribution to the common work for the common good."

And before he went to sleep tonight the Italian foreign minister learned that the anti-Fascists had called off their Grandi protest meeting which had been reported to be scheduled for tomorrow. Warren C. Monteross, their representative, pledged that there would be no hostile demonstration. A general meeting is planned for Friday when his committee will take steps to consolidate the anti-Fascist feeling in this country, which, Monteross declares, included 350,000 people in the United States.

'FEDERAL SPITE WORK,' SAYS GOTHAM, BALKED OF GRANDI WELCOME

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Indignant at what he called "petty spite work" in keeping foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy out of this city, Maj. William F. Deegan, chairman of the mayor's committee for the visitors' reception, accused the government today of doing everything in its power to subordinate to the Washington welcome New York's part in the reception.

"If the federal government was sincere in its offer to transport the Grandi party to Washington the amphibian Caribbean Clipper, I cannot understand how it was willing to risk their safety in an unlicensed airplane," Maj. Deegan said. "From my personal knowledge of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, I am sure that he was unwittingly used by the federal government to further this attempt to keep Signor Grandi out of New York until he had been in Washington.

"From the time plans were first discussed for this reception," Maj. Deegan continued, "the federal government has done everything in its power to minimize the city's part in it. One representative of the state department has been quoted as saying that 'when you visit a gentleman's home you don't shake hands with the chauffeur.' That is a fine characterization of the efforts this city has made to welcome distinguished visitors from abroad."

LANDS AT NEW YORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The arrival of Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, on American shores today set a new all time record for elaborate precautions for his protection and marked the first time a visiting celebrity ever sailed down New York bay and out of town without setting foot on Manhattan island. Federal authorities feared an anti-Fascist demonstration.

Signor Grandi, his wife and a small party of Italian officials arrived in quarantine aboard the S. S. Conte Grande at 12:15 p. m. A cutter came alongside and took them off at 1:17 p. m. While coast guard and police vessels bobbed nearby, their machine guns trained on every harbor craft within hailing distance.

The Italian envoy was put ashore on an isolated Jersey City pier at 1:55 p. m., and eight minutes later a Pennsylvania special train which had backed down to the water front, was speeding the visitor and his party to Washington for a three day conference with President Hoover on world matters. Every inch of the way down the bay and across the pier was taken under an extraordinary police and government guard.

Trip by Air Called off.

Meanwhile the much publicized aerial jaunt from the harbor to Washington, D. C., arranged by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson for Signor Grandi, got lost in a fog. The forty passenger amphibian plane Caribbean Clipper was ready after a hazardous flight from the Sikorsky plant in Stamford, but Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was having difficulty traversing the murky skies. The flying colonel on his second attempt reached North beach and the Caribbean Clipper, only to learn Mr. Stimson had decided a train would be much safer.

The coolness between Mayor James J. Walker and Secretary Stimson which began the day M. Pierre Laval, prime minister of France, arrived, was reported to have taken a sudden drop in temperature tonight.

A current story has it that Secretary Stimson did not approve the attention given him at city hall, his seat being too far away from M. Laval and his share in the ceremonies being of very minor importance.

The Mayor Has Grievance.

At the same time Mayor Walker did not like the attentions of two of Mr. Stimson's secret service men who made themselves too useful in guarding the Laval car and in protecting the peace and serenity of the city hall. Mr. Walker, according to the story, let it be known that his policemen could take care of any visitor and any situation and that secret service men "did not rate" in the vicinity of his city hall.

While Col. Lindebergh's air yacht was for bound at North Beach, Roger Q. Williams appeared over the S. S. Conte Grande [no relation to Signor Grandi] and dropped flowers on the deck of the liner. Mr. Williams had better luck with his flowers than a messenger boy on the Jersey City pier. When the lad arived an hour before Signor Grandi came ashore police took the box and inspected each posy for a hidden bomb. Several other planes, including those of the police, were flying over the harbor.

Just about the time Signor Grandi was passing through Philadelphia, the Conte Grande drew into its berth. There were about 400 anti-Fascists, communists and spectators present and the Conte Grande took the booing instead of Signor Grandi.

LINDBERGH PLANS HOP TO FLORIDA TODAY TO START CARIBBEAN TRIP

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who was forced by weather conditions to abandon the plan to pilot Foreign Minister Grandi and his party to Washington today, is expected to take off from Hicksville, L. I., tomorrow for Miami, where he will resume the flying program he postponed at the call of the state department.

He is to pilot the new 40 passenger American Clipper, sister ship of the craft in which he had hoped to take Signor Grandi to Washington, from Miami to Cristobal, Canal Zone.

...Demand a "YES" TO these 5 QUESTIONS

before you decide on any refrigerator

These five questions are vital to any refrigerator buyer. Promise nothing until you have a definite "YES" to each question.

1. Will it pay liberal dividends in food saving and lessened operation cost?

2. Does it have a modern hermetically sealed unit in the top out of sight that insures trouble-free performance?

3. Will it operate efficiently in "Dog Days," under pantry shelves, in wall recesses and other places where there is very little natural air circulation?

4. Will it not only stop but start up automatically when unusual conditions interrupt operation?

5. Is it good looking, and does it offer such conveniences as a usable flat buffet top, broom-high legs, maximum shelf space, temperature selector in the right place, etc.?

Westinghouse answers all five questions with an emphatic "YES." Not even the smallest detail has been overlooked by this great engineering organization in designing this "Completely Balanced" Westinghouse Refrigerator. No feature has been overdeveloped for spectacular effect at the expense of another. Food preservation, fast freezing, operating mechanism, storage capacity are all perfectly balanced with each other. That explains its impressive success.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

FEDERAL MURDER IN COLORADO.

When the case of Henry Dierks was called for arraignment in the Arapahoe County court in Denver the man, who had clubbed a boy to death, did not appear. The call was answered by United States District Attorney Ralph Carr. The answer was a writ issued by Federal District Judge J. Foster Symes ordering the transfer of the case from the state courts to the federal. When the killer does appear to stand trial the United States district attorney will be at his elbow to defend him and the state prosecutor will be endeavoring to enforce the laws of Colorado before a federal judge and jury with the United States government opposing him. The murderer is protected by the department of justice. He is a prohibition agent.

Dierks killed Milford Smith, a twenty year old youth of Englewood, Colo. The story is told by Miss Victoria Johnson, to whom the boy was engaged. They had set the day for their wedding and the boy had procured a small quantity of wine before they went to a restaurant. It was about three ounces. It might have been one of the government subsidized wines. The girl was to join the boy in the restaurant. When she did so Dierks was standing over him and the boy was holding his head. He had been beaten with the butt of the agent's revolver. The girl asked that a doctor be called, but the agent pushed her aside and took the boy away. He died a few hours later.

The killing was so brutal that communities in Colorado, which had known something of the agent before he capped his shady career with this crime, arose in indignation and the history of the man came out. It was one of brutality, drunkenness, treachery and terrorism. He had once beaten up an old freight agent because he wanted his job. After he had become a prohibition agent he had debauched a young girl, using her as buyer to obtain evidence. He had taken over control of a Colorado village and had set a farmer's boy to making liquor which he was to sell. He had arrested the boy and the farmer after the boy had made whisky for him. His habitual state was intoxication. He is a powerful brute and violent in his drinks.

This man represented the authority of the United States. He was an agent of the department of justice under Amos Woodcock, director of prohibition enforcement. His record was so glaring that it could have been discovered by a superficial examination of his qualifications. There is no evidence that he ever was in any difficulty with his superiors, although decent citizens were in trouble with him wherever he went. Evidently he met all the requirements of prohibition enforcement and his conduct, not being questioned, may be assumed to be approved. When he beat the Colorado boy to death he was merely expressing himself according to his nature. There had been nothing in the discipline and supervision of the authority he represented to restrain him, nothing to make the crime impossible or improbable, and nothing to indicate to him that a brutal murder might not be committed as a part of his official routine.

The federal government always interposes itself between state law and the government killer who has committed a crime against the peace of the state and the lives of its citizens. Each agent accused of murder or manslaughter has been removed from the jurisdiction of the state courts and nearly all of them have been acquitted in the federal courts and returned to service as customs guards or enforcement agents. The federal government has thoroughly established the immunity of the armed ruffians in its service and they have taken advantage of this, as might be expected when brutality is officially licensed.

The savage record of the men is better known to the government than to citizens generally, and citizens have had episode after episode brought to their attention. Occasionally a state, county or local policeman or constable is discovered in some outlawry, usually on the highways in terrorization of motorists. No such case as vicious as the crime of Dierks is recalled, but in many instances the thug in uniform has been brought into court and sent to the penitentiary.

Federal agents guilty of worse crimes are taken into the federal court, where the state prosecutes without success and the agents go free with the permission of the federal government to repeat the crime. The United States department of justice defends them. It sets the example by which they may guide themselves. It exposes citizens to their acts and with the approval of dry fanaticism it gets them free.

Prohibition enforcement attracts many vicious, brutal and corrupt men. It is such a service as would do this just as it is such as would be abhorrent to many self-respecting men. It has always been the case that bad laws produced scandals of enforcement and none has worked in worse fashion to such consequences than the Volstead act in the hands of federal agents.

This Colorado case is in many respects the least sufferable of the outrages, but it has government indorsement. The law of Colorado is stopped. The United States district attorney takes the defense of the killer. Men of his stripe throughout Mr. Woodcock's organization receive renewed assurance that if they beat a citizen to death or shoot him the shield of the United States is between them and punitive justice.

A federal judge recently said that if a prohibition agent entered his premises without a warrant he would kick him off the place. That judge should have a second and wiser thought. If he had kicked such a man as Dierks he would have been killed and the United States prosecutor of the district would have defended his murderer.

AS THE LEGISLATURE CONVENES.

The legislature of Illinois, summoned in special session primarily to rescue the local governments of Cook county from bankruptcy and financial chaos, gets down to work this week.

It is probably well within the truth to say that no previous session has been confronted with a more baffling problem. Years of excessive expenditure resulted in deficits in the accounts of many of the local governments and, though taxes were increased, the governments' incomes never caught up with the deficits. Gross discrimination in assessments led to the order for a reassessment which in turn delayed the collection of taxes. As if that were not enough, the business depression intervened to make the collection of the taxes far more difficult than it had been and to make payment by many property owners impossible. Today more than 130 million dollars of taxes billed in the last three years remain uncollected.

There is nothing new, of course, about local government deficits. They have occurred before. Generally they have been met by issuing bonds for the amount of the deficit or by increasing taxes, or both. This time these remedies must be regarded as of doubtful value. The credit of the local governments is so nearly exhausted that it is, to say the least, improbable that they could borrow the amount of money required to square accounts. Any borrowing in turn must result in increased tax burdens for interest and amortization, but their tax bills are already so high that thousands of property owners are unable to pay. Increased rates can only mean that more taxpayers will be driven to delinquency.

A possible way out is the imposition of new forms of taxation which would carry some of the load now borne by real estate, but that, too, is a doubtful expedient. The fact is that taxes are not paid by things but by people. By and large, the same people who find their present taxes difficult or impossible to pay will be the ones to pay the new taxes, whatever form they may take. A redistribution of the load may lighten somewhat the burden of one citizen, but it can do so only by adding to the burden of others who are, perhaps, no better able to pay. If new levies add to the total tax bill of the people of Cook county, as there is every reason to believe the proposed new taxes will, it is difficult to see how a redistribution can result in anything but an increase in the exactions from a great many and probably the majority of present taxpayers. The only certain beneficiaries are real estate speculators.

This analysis is not intended to lead to the conclusion that there is no possible exit, but merely to show that the traditional methods of meeting such situations through bond issues, higher taxes and new taxes will not serve in the present situation. The sovereign remedy, of course, is known and has been known for a long time. It is reduced government expenditures.

There is only one other remedy, and that is repudiation of debt, a remedy which has lately been applied in England, Australia, Germany, France, Russia, and Italy, among others, either frankly through repudiation, through revolution or through a revaluation of the monetary unit. Cook county could not repudiate if it wanted to. That leaves a reduction of expenditures as the only way out.

If this method is adopted taxes must be lowered to accord with the taxpayers' capacity to pay. There must be a sufficient margin between the costs of government and the income of the governments to permit an annual surplus which will gradually wipe out the outstanding debts. Mathematically this is possible. Politically it may be impossible in 1931, but it is difficult to see how the remedy can be much longer deferred.

Editorial of the Day

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS.

[The Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Arthur Sears Henning, noted correspondent, affirms that there is "an ever mounting cry of protest emanating from business men against the invasion of their respective fields of private business by the federal government."

Everywhere, says Mr. Henning, whether among grain traders, live stock commission men, cotton, poultry, wool or dairy products dealers, the cry is going up, "The government is taking the bread out of our mouths by organizing financing agencies to compete with us."

They claim that the government loans these competing agencies money at one and two per cent, while they must pay five and six for the money they borrow, and that in this proceeding the government loses millions of dollars.

Mr. Henning reports the poultry and dairy products dealers as saying in a report to their national organization that the fear of farm board competition has deterred them from making improvements and extensions of their concentration plants, and that on account of the unsettled conditions produced by government competition they have found it difficult to obtain the usual loans from the banks. The president of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg association is quoted as saying that the loss of egg dealers the past season was 30 millions of dollars.

The government has made a muddle of things every time it has intruded itself into business in the way of competition with its own citizens engaged in private enterprise. The tendency seems to be more and more toward the socialistic ideals of business and economics. The present civilization was not founded upon any such doctrines or theories, and it is the best civilization—with all its faults—that the world has known. The less government we have in business the better off the business of the country will be—and the government.

A Scarlet Saddle for Pegasus.

I.

This is the tale of the blowing thistle,
The yellow maples and long-drawn whistle;
The tale of an Autumn burned in russet
When the slim white throat of Naneen Sussett
Like a satin sliver
Within my heart,
Like a little river,
A peddler's cart
Rolling over a stone or a mile,
Ghosted the moments I knew her smile;
As tall as the candles
"Always and always . . ."
Her lips had said.
But the candles wept to see her throat
Quivering there on his piped dark coat.
When the songs were over,
And prayers were said,
She went with her lover . . .
And I was dead—
Like a field of thistles and beggar's lice
When blown to the winds, and the rains suffice
To quench the dull flame of their feeble glow . . .
But a peat-fire burns in the bog below.

And every Autumn the thin smokes rise;
While terror comes to her tawny eyes,
Remembering nights when another's feet
Were timing their steps to her white throat's beat,
Like a warming shiver
Within her heart,
Or a little river . . .
A peddler's cart
Rolling over a stone or a mile,
Waiting the moment to know her smile;
(While the candles sputtered
And leaped to flame,
For he had forgotten . . .
Was she to blame?)
"No other shall have you!" he had said.
(The thought comes back of his too proud head)
"Today the unicorns
Drank from clover,
And wind spun maple leaves
Over . . . over . . ."
This is the last of the peat-bog's smoulder . . .
A last ghost-kiss on a slim white shoulder;
No more will Autumns be burned to russet—
For . . . I have forgotten Naneen Sussett. . . .

What's the use of college if that's the way they play bridge?

WOULDN'T IT BE just ripping, as they say in dear old London, if Christmas and Thanksgiving day came together? Then you would get a nice fat turkey in your stocking for the Thanksgiving dinner. But, on the other hand, you would have to give turkeys for Christmas presents instead of sending a frosted card of an old church on a tropical isle with beautiful snowdrifts all around it and the pretty words, "The Gooleys wish you a Merry Xmas." On second thought we'll buy a duck for Thanksgiving day and let well enough alone.

STORIES illustrating the silentness of Silent Cal are still in circulation, even though it has been proved that Mr. Coolidge waxes quite eloquent when he gets two bucks the word. One of the latest is contained in the new book of reminiscences, "More They Told Barron: Conversations and Revelations of an American Pepys in Wall Street." It is the custom of Mrs. Coolidge, when going out, to leave her address so that her husband might call up if he returned. Recently Coolidge returned home, rang the telephone number left for him, and said to put Mrs. Coolidge on the telephone. The conversation was as follows:

Mr. Coolidge—"Mrs. Coolidge?"
Mrs. Coolidge—"Yes."
Mr. Coolidge—"Hop home."

THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT has just been declared bankrupt and the Five Year Plan a dismal failure by the correspondents. But this seems a bit unusual if not unethical, as this is only the middle of the month. The Soviet government is invariably reported with plenty of money and the Five Year Plan a great success on the first of each and every month, and bankrupt and the Five Year Plan crawling down a hole at the end of the month. We hope the correspondents will not let this mistake happen again.

"GRANDI GOES to Washington in a Fog."—Yesterday's headlines. And something tells us that the fog will envelop Mr. Grandi while he is in Washington and follow him on the way out. We are not very well acquainted with Mr. Grandi, but, ah, we know our Washington. Awfully foggy down there.

MORE ON MIGRAINE.

W. S. writes: I have been subject to migraine for 47 years; am rather familiar with its voluminous literature, am fairly well versed in what little is known about the human metabolism; have conducted countless experiments on myself and others in this connection; and regard myself as a witness of some competence.

Migraine is not an ache but an acute pain. It is a distinct pathological entity, always inherited, though the inheritance is not always true to type, and is thus often obscured. The precise nature and basic etiology of the disorder are as shrouded in mystery today as ever. No explanation fits the facts, not even the recent ascription to sensitization. Anything that lowers the threshold of resistance may precipitate a seizure, may pull the trigger, so to speak. But what loads the gun is wholly unknown.

All theories break down upon impact with the clinical histories, the chief stumbling block being the unquestioned tendency of the disorder to end, in woman with the climacteric, and with men at about the same relative age, although many sufferers find relief in the grave alone.

There is but little trustworthy evidence going to show that migraine has anything but a fortuitous or coincidental relation to urticaria, asthma, or hay fever. Few laymen know anything worth while about hygiene or diet, and in the early years of migraine almost any medication, or improvement in regimen, or removal of any proximate cause, such as caries or constipation, may effect a cure which is not permanent. Cures, when they do occur, are purely spontaneous. The most plausible explanation of the migraine complex, as yet totally unsubstantiated, is to ascribe it to some specific metabolic idiosyncrasy. It is not possible, in my opinion, to account for the spontaneous recoveries which in women are often abruptly synchronous with the menopause. That cessation of gonadal activity has any casual relation to anaphylaxis is a tax on credulity. It is in the later decades that resistance should be at its lowest ebb, so far as anaphylactic shock is concerned. It is precisely in these decades that recoveries from migraine should never occur, if this theory is valid.

There seems ample cause to suspect that the spontaneous recoveries are related to a diminishing or suspended supply of some hormone that has been thrown into the blood stream in excess or of faulty quality. This notion seems to accord with the invariable tendency of nearly all glands, unless the prostrate, to subinvolute in later life, and with the fact that anatomical and functional abnormalities are prone to be transmitted.

REPLY.

The record of your experience is valuable, and we hope that others may follow your example in more ways than one. It is the common opinion that there are a number of disorders which go by the names "sick headache" and "migraine," and they differ in cause and in the treatment they require.

There are people who have found treatment based on allergy as the cause to be just what they needed and others who, having had no help in that direction, have turned to other theories and treatments based on them.

MAY NOT BE PERFECT.

K. E. B. writes: What are the causes of coated tongue, when elimination is perfect. A nauseated feeling occurs frequently, however, and gas is present a great deal of the time.

REPLY.

All of your symptoms could be caused by reverse peristalsis. It is probable that your elimination is far from perfect. Your trouble is probably in your digestive tract.

"ALUMINUM PERIL."

Mrs. McL. writes: Is there anything in aluminum cooking utensils that could be injurious to the persons using them?

REPLY.

No. Sometimes opponents in trade wars try to frighten people.

TRAINING IS THE CURE.

W. S. writes: My daughter, aged 13, who suffers from bad dreams, arose in her sleep at 2 in the morning, got up, and with her eyes wide open walked to the window, took a flower pot off the sill, and was about to walk out when I awoke and gently took her back to her room. It is the first time that this has occurred. What would be the logical thing to do?

REPLY.

This is a clear cut case of somnambulism. The only effective treatment is training. The antidote is the development of equanimity and calm. Quiet, unemotional people are not likely to sleep walk.

HALITOSIS.

J. L. L. writes: How can halitosis be cured? I don't believe in my case it is the result of bad teeth, as I have had them fixed recently and I clean them twice a day.

REPLY.

The teeth are rarely the cause of halitosis. Intestinal putrefaction is the usual cause, though not the only one. When due to this it may be cured by change of diet and in bowel habits.

WHERE TO FILE.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—[Friend of the People.]—Where is it necessary for a resident of Wisconsin to write in order to procure first and second citizenship papers? R. T. S.

The law requires that a naturalization paper, declaration of intention or petition for naturalization must be filed in the United States District court of the district where applicant resides or in the Circuit court of the county where applicant resides. Application forms may be procured at the office of the clerk of the court.

ANDREW JORDAN,

BUYING REAL ESTATE.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I purchased a piece of vacant property on which I was able to meet all payments promptly. The same realty firm this year, through [1] coercion and in several respects [2] misrepresentation, persuaded me to exchange the first piece for a larger on which [3] I find myself unable to meet the payments. 4. The salesman was aware of my earning capacity and sold me this piece of property which is way beyond my means [5] through misrepresenting the proposition. Up to date there is a matter of $1,500 involved. 6. Is there any redress or adjustment I could be entitled to? R. L.

1. We cannot pass upon this without having the facts before us.
2. Same.
3. This would not give you a defense.

AUTOMOBILE LICENSES.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am contemplating buying a used car in November and storing it until the 1932 licenses can be procured. 1. Will the state and city compel me to buy the latter half of 1931 license also? J. M.

1. Yes. Section 8 of the motor vehicle law provides in part as follows: "Every owner shall, except as otherwise provided in this act, within twenty-four hours after he becomes the owner of such motor vehicle or motor bicycle, file in the office of the secretary of state an application for a certificate of registration. Provided, the first registration fee for each motor vehicle or motor bicycle shall be reduced 50 per cent if payable during the second half of the calendar year." PARIS.—Premier Asquith of Great Britain arrived here accompanied by Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey, Lloyd George, and First Lord of the Admiralty Balfour. The object of their visit has not been announced. It is supposed that it has to do with the Greek crisis.

BALKAN WAR NEWS.—Late dispatches received in London say the Serbs have been compelled to retire from Babuna pass and that the Serbian authorities and foreign consuls are preparing to evacuate Monastir. Berlin reports that the French troops on the Vardar river were routed and thrown back across the Karassu, and that French positions south of Veles were captured. This is denied by Paris. Saloniki reports that the French were driven back to within twelve miles of the Greek border.

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — Former United States Senator Julius Caesar Burrows died at his home here. He was born at Northeast, Erie county, Pennsylvania, in 1843. He was elected to congress from Michigan in 1873 and served nine terms and from 1895 to 1905 was a member of the senate.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 17, 1901.

NEW YORK.—A mile a minute on the open road is not a chimera. Several drivers of autos scudded over the Coney Island boulevard in the race of the Long Island Auto club faster than any person before has traveled over land on an open road, or a track, or, in fact, in any way except on steel rails.

CHICAGO.—By the arrest in New York of a man named Wheeler there was revealed an alleged attempt to secure $103,000 on notes purporting to bear the signatures of perhaps a score of prominent Chicago men. The New York police gave out the following list of notes which they say Wheeler endeavored to dispose of to a broker: Potter Palmer, $34,700; D. V. Purington, $14,350; V. F. Becker, $15,700, and Stratton & Field, $21,065. The notes are spurious, the victims declare.

YORK, Pa.—The Southwestern express on the Northern Central railway, rushing on through the night towards Pittsburgh at 45 miles an hour, was wrecked by a charge of dynamite placed on the tracks by train robbers. The engine and three coaches, filled with sleeping passengers, were derailed and dragged 200 feet along the ties before the engine stopped, but no one was hurt.

CHICAGO. — Managing Editor Andrew M. Lawrence and Reporter H. S. Canfield of the Chicago American were sentenced to forty and thirty days' imprisonment, respectively, by Judge Haney on the contempt proceedings started some days ago. The two men were delivered into the hands of the sheriff, who took them to the county jail and delivered them to Jailer Whitman. After they had been in a cell three-quarters of an hour, however, Judge Dunne issued a writ of habeas corpus and released them on $3,000 bail.

CHICAGO.—Football scores of yesterday resulted as follows: Michigan, 22; Chicago, 0. Wisconsin, 18; Minnesota, 0. Northwestern, 11; Beloit, 11. Illinois, 28, Purdue, 6.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The jury has been selected to try Charles J. Guiteau, President Garfield's assassin, and attorneys were surprised at the speed with which the panel was obtained. This was largely due to the broad decision of Judge Cox, who ruled that a knowledge of the details of a great public tragedy obtained from newspapers and an opinion formed upon that knowledge do not disqualify for jury service if the man states that despite the opinion he can render an impartial verdict. Among the witnesses who have been subpoenaed is Emory A. Storrs. There was but one outburst from Guiteau during the day and that was when he announced to the court at the end of the session that he intends to act as his own counsel. He throws constant insults at Attorney Robinson, selected by the court to assist George Scoville in the defense.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Political gossip says that Secretary of War Lincoln will soon retire from the cabinet to accept the mission to Berlin, but Mr. Lincoln's friends deny the truth of these rumors.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—A brilliant wedding took place at the Kirby house in this city, the contracting parties being Hugh L. Adams of Chicago and Miss Sue Kirby, daughter of Abner Kirby, proprietor of the hotel. The Rev. G. E. Gardner officiated and the bridesmaids were Miss Minnie Adams and Miss Lucy Bull of Chicago. Mr. Adams is a nephew of C. H. McCormick, the well known wealthy Chicagoan.

THE FENDERS.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The cartoon appearing on the front page of The Chicago Tribune of Nov. 12 is of such vast import to the welfare of our country that it ought to be reproduced in every newspaper and magazine in the United States and a copy sent to the President, each senator, congressman, and even to the governors, mayors, and aldermen from one end of the country to the other.

Every thoughtful person will recognize the fact that waste, extravagance, a myriad of foolish and useless laws, graft and personal aggrandisement are the plain factors which aggravate the serious conditions confronting us, and until they are eliminated from our national life normalcy cannot take place.

The main fault, of course, lies with the individual voter. If he would take the time and effort to scrutinize the qualifications of every office seeker—from the highest to the lowest—there is the only hope of correcting the many evils confronting us.

Look at the picture! Nothing but deficit in the national government, as well as in every city and hamlet throughout the land. Taxes so high as to be practically unbearable—and yet mounting higher from year to year. The unfortunate thing is that the majority of our lawmakers and tax spenders are only politicians—looking to the mending of their political fences—and in many cases even worse, to the lining of their pocketbooks.

Where are our statesmen as of old? Are they extinct entirely? It is said that every national emergency brings forth the "man of the hour." Where, O where, is he now? L. D. Bloch.

DOGS WHICH DISAPPEAR.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—I wonder how many people in Chicago are puzzled about the disposal of some of the finer dogs that are picked up by municipal dog catchers. Perhaps, they can be enlightened somewhat. It seems that there is another neat little racket being operated by some of our official disposers of dogs.

My own dog, a fine police, was picked up in the neighborhood last Tuesday. I have witnesses to back up my statement that the dog was really caught by dog catchers; in fact, while actually accompanied by a member of the family. On Thursday afternoon I went to the so-called Municipal Animal refuge, fully prepared to pay all possible costs of having the animal returned to me, only to find that the dog had never been seen there. What became of my property? Ask the worthies who caught it? They will know nothing.

I challenge any one to go to the dog pound any day and pick out from among the curs there a dog of pure breed. What becomes of thoroughbred dogs that are picked up? Any one knows that there are many good dogs taken by dog catchers, but somehow or other they never seem to reach the dog pound, where their owners may retrieve them.

UNDERMINING RESPECT FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Did it ever occur to your staff that through constant propaganda and harangulng in cartoons and editorials against our own federal government services and facilities, which incidentally are the outgrowth of long experience and needs, that you are bringing injury on your own nation and people? You are striking the noblest and greatest government ever known; attacking processes developed in accordance with our cherished ideals; obstructing the conscientious efforts of the administration. Certainly, coöperating government agencies may under newly arising economic and social complications constitute forces to serve, after all, the best interests and welfare of the whole people—not just the favored few. Government functioning necessarily creates some friction, but our republican form of government has decisively demonstrated time and again its strength and worthiness. We, the people, through deliberate judgment and efforts are responsible for the success or failure. Let us have due respect for and faith in our government. Kenneth Myers.

RUGBY AND SOCCER.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—It was with a degree of amusement, not unmixed with an element of mild contempt, that I read Westbrook Pegler's article comparing Rugby and soccer football. What he does not know about soccer, at least as indicated by the article in question, is fully on a par with his ignorance of the historical significance of the social classes he designates as the aristocracy and the bourgeoisie.

When he says in effect that soccer is a more ferocious game than Rugby it ceases to be humorous and simply makes himself ridiculous. If anything, the opposite is the truth. In support of his absurd assertion he says sectional feuds are aroused when international matches are played between national soccer teams in the Mediterranean region in Europe. What have the emotional outbursts of a high strung southern people to do with the ferocity of soccer? The game is also played in England, Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and other northern European countries and no sectional animosities or international ill will have ever been engendered by the game in those regions. The reason for the great popularity of soccer among all classes in northern Europe is that the game is far less ferocious than Rugby. This accounts for the popularity of soccer among northern European immigrants in this country.

MANCHURIA.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—May we express our deep appreciation for the attention you have given in the recent issues of The Chicago Daily Tribune concerning the Japanese invasion of the Chinese northeastern provinces, commonly called Manchuria?

We beg to call your attention to the fact that one item of the news which appeared in The Tribune on Nov. 11, saying that Canton seeks to deal with Tokio in the settlement of the Manchurian problem, was entirely a rumor created by the Tokio news agency for the purpose of deceiving the world. The Chinese Nationalist Daily has published a telegram received from Nanking which reports that the Nanking and Canton parties have been firmly united in a common front against the Japanese invasion. Stephen H. T. Chang,
President of the Chinese Students' association of the University of Chicago.

A DISCOURTESY.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—It is almost impossible to go into some places and ask in a decent way for work. This my mother and I found when looking for employment in a popular north side hotel.

We asked to speak to the housekeeper of the hotel. We were told to go to the second floor and wait for the housekeeper, who was not there yet. After waiting for about an hour and a half she finally came to her office. As we entered her office we extended our greetings, which were not answered. Instead she got up and pushed us out before we even had time to say one word.

"Get out, get out, I'm busy," she yelled, and shut the door right in our face.

I think that was very rude. She at least could have asked us what we wanted and given us an answer, which would have taken only about a minute of her time. G. B.

THE ROAD TO PEACE.

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 12.—Why should The Tribune do everything in its power to discredit all efforts of the administration to coöperate with other peace bodies in measures they deem best for preventing war? The questions at issue are obscure and difficult for the lay mind to understand. The press is responsible for leading the opinions of most people. It is a great responsibility and one could wish you would take it seriously, and attempt to avert a world conflagration rather than to bring it on as you seem bent upon doing.

Mrs. Harriet W. Trosser.

GREETINGS.

NINE SPECIAL PIERCE-ARROW FEATURES—all included in the price

1 Improved Free Wheeling, in all forward speeds, with silent synchro-mesh gear shifting and silent intermediate helical gears.

2 Automatic Starting, which eliminates starting pedal and prevents the engine from stalling.

3 Ride Control, with dash adjustment which regulates the shock absorbers to speed and road conditions.

4 Safety Glass, standard equipment in the windshield and in all windows, sides and rear.

5 Cushioned Power, with engine mounted on eight rubber supports, furnishing that modest measure of insulation which, with the perfectly balanced, inherently smooth Pierce-Arrow engine, insures quietness and freedom from vibration.

6 Super-insulation of Body and Chassis, against noise, heat and cold, obtained by filling the double dash with extra thick felt and composition; felt-lined floors of both front and rear compartments; felt-lined doors and body panels, and the body itself mounted on cork. Engine mounted on rubber; ball-bearing shackles; double muffler, rubber mounted; hypoid gears, etc.

7 Extraordinary Power Plants, designed and built by Pierce-Arrow, consisting of two new 12-cylinder engines, 140 and 150 horsepower; and the improved 8-cylinder, 125 horsepower engine. These new engines embody the finest and most effective design, improvements and refinements known to the industry. In the new 12-cylinder engines, with 398 and 429 cubic inches displacement, the Pierce-Arrow engineers have achieved their highest objective. Comparative tests show them to be the most powerful, most flexible, smoothest and quietest 12-cylinder engines on the market. Thermostatic heat control on intake manifold.

8 Custom-Built Bodies, by Pierce-Arrow artists and engineers, combining the maximum of comfort and luxury, with beauty of line, of color, of appointment and style. Bodies are longer, lower and larger, with luxurious added roominess, wider rear seats and wider doors.

9 Other Important Advancements. The new front is a modified V-type, deep, slender, patrician. Box girder chassis-frame for greater stability. Wheel tread widened to 61½ inches. Electric clocks in all models. Velvet-action brakes. Demountable wheels are standard equipment for all models.

DIABETES CURBED BY NEW METHOD

Sufferers Report Amazing Relief Through "Kidney Laxative" Discovery

New Way to Eliminate Poison Wastes Increases Sugar Tolerance

"About nine months ago I was advised I had diabetes and got steadily worse, finally going into a diabetic coma. I immediately commenced taking insulin and was put on a strict diet. I started to use Sleepy Water, and within three months was able to discontinue the use of insulin, and began to feel myself once more. However, I still drink my gallon of Sleepy Water daily."

The above is an extract from a letter, absolutely typical of the many letters which are on file in our office. It was from a man who suffered from diabetes—a disease whose origin very few laymen realize.

Doctors are now prescribing a wonderful natural poison eliminator, known as Sleepy Water. They often describe it as a "kidney laxative." It is to be had from only one source—a pair of twin springs in the Arkansas hills. Peculiar natural forces here inject certain mineral combinations which are not to be found in any other water. These natural alkalines neutralize and absorb the acid poisons and body wastes which so often cause and aggravate diabetes. By gently soothing and activating the kidneys, Sleepy Water also speeds up the elimination of these poisons. Not only diabetes sufferers but victims of rheumatism, high blood pressure, arthritis and 25 other serious common diseases report amazing relief, due to Sleepy Water's unique powers.

Tear out and mail the coupon now for particulars of the wonderful thirty-minute test that will demonstrate to you how Sleepy Water works to drive out poisons and purify blood. Let us tell you how you can make this thirty-minute test. If you prefer, simply phone Kedzie 1222, the Chewaukla Mineral Springs Co., 3330 W. Jackson Boulevard, Chicago. EXPERTS START $100,000 SURVEY OF CITY SCHOOLS

Facts About Buildings First on List.

Columbia university's $100,000 survey of the Chicago public school system got under way yesterday when twenty-six experts, under the direction of Dr. George D. Strayer, head of the teachers' college division of field studies, began an inspection of the buildings. This phase of the survey is expected to occupy ten days.

Other divisions of the work are to be begun from time to time in the near future, according to Dr. Strayer, and the entire survey of the educational and business departments is to be completed by June 1.

Survey Is Explained.

Thoroughness is to characterize every phase of the examination of the system, Dr. Strayer said. As an illustration he pointed out that the examination of a single elementary school building requires accurate answers to 512 questions which are summarized under 21 major heads. Still greater detail is required regarding senior and junior high schools. The standard form for examination of buildings of this class occupies 50 mimeographed pages.

The group which began work yesterday is devoting its attention to educational considerations such as location, accessibility, and the surrounding population and the likelihood of shift or change. Technical experts are to go into the questions of architecture, specifications, construction and condition. Still other experts are to examine the heating, ventilation and general operation. Operation costs will be looked into by still another group.

Will Recommend Remedies.

"We cannot forecast what our work will reveal," said Dr. Strayer, "por are we here to fix any blame. But we will make it our business to ascertain the facts. Out of our years of experience in this work we will recommend remedies for any waste, inefficiency or abuses we may find. Nor have we anywhere found a school system, large or small, so efficient that it could not be improved."

Ohio Educator Says Land Grant Colleges Are Falling Down on Job in Time of Need

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Land grant colleges and universities, started by the nation in Lincoln's day and now having an enrollment of 160,000 students, are not fulfilling their obligations in the fields of citizenship teaching and in economics, President George W. Rightmire of Ohio State university said yesterday at the opening session of the forty-fifth annual convention of this association which is being held at the Hotel Stevens.

G. W. RIGHTMIRE. [Tribune photo].

After tracing the history of this educational movement and declaring that it had justified itself by lifting the agricultural and industrial workers above the levels that other civilizations offered, Mr. Rightmire came to consideration of the problems presented by the present economic upheaval. He said:

"Acute conditions in business, in government and in society, progressively developing during recent years and of world-wide prevalence, prompt us to study anew the applicability and efficiency of our educational ideals and system.

Civic Pride at Low Ebb.

"We see enthusiasm for civic righteousness and individual civic responsibility at a low ebb, and effective understanding of the operation of economic principles, even of their identity, near zero.

"The world is beset with palliatives and there is much economic quackery coupled with much inert ignorance.

"Since democracy must be built upon education, we must consider what the colleges should be doing to stimulate knowledge and thought and action about these things.

"In these days of stress we hear many proposals for business improvement, most of which are intended to give quick relief and most of which violate all recognized principles of economics. They take no note of the future; they are plans only for today.

Experience Is Forgotten.

"We are prone to forget the wisdom of the fathers and the teachings of experience and with great elation and assurance think we have found a remedy for depression in inflation, or the 'dole,' or stripping capital to pay governmental expense.

"We ship our anchor and lose our rudder in the winds of business adversity. The institutions which we trust in normal times we now suspect, and are seized with the fright of panic and demand our savings not for use but for hoarding. The simplest teachings of economics are discredited, not only in the frenzy of financial preservation, but in the eagerness of speculation. We expect something for nothing and are a gullible people.

"The colleges have been sending their students back into the workaday world for many years. There is a considerable sprinkling of college trained people in the world's business, and yet these economic excesses and aberrations were never more numerous or more dangerous than today.

Is College a Failure?

"Is the college system a failure at this point? Have the land grant colleges, dealing primarily with the basic wealth creating businesses of the world, made the expected contribution to proper appreciation of economics and business sanity? Has this type of training been engrossed with technical proficiencies and the accumulation of specific knowledge, so that we have not implanted a generous conception of society or the principles underlying industrial development?

"We do not take democracy seriously enough. We profess confidence in our own conditions, but do we at the same time remember that in the last year the South American republics have all met economic depression by political revolution, and that in Europe today there are eight dictatorships?

"The relation between economic catastrophe and the abnegation of the responsibilities of citizenship is frightfully close and may be here. Are our land grant colleges carrying their entire educational obligations in these fields? I do not think so. A renewed study of what the land grant college owes to a supporting public would be fruitful.

"This is not the age old battle between the 'practical' and the 'cultural.' It is merely a recognition of our duty as publicly supported institutions to train for citizenship as well as for production and conservation of wealth."

Farm Board Chief Speaks.

James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, spoke on the part the colleges play in the agricultural marketing program. He made a reference to the present agitation for ending of the farm board. What is really meant by this cry to take the government out of business, he said, is that it is to be taken out of the other fellow's business and left in one's own.

He cited the action of a chamber of commerce of a river town which adopted a resolution favoring the retirement of the government from business and the next day adopted another thanking the government for sending the barge lines to its doors.

"A review of the activities of the farm board under the agricultural marketing act," said Mr. Stone, "leads to the inevitable conclusion that the restoration of agriculture on a basis of equality with industry is not a task to be accomplished by temporary expedients or by the application of any magic formula. On the contrary, the experience of the board has convinced it that the world has only just begun and there remains much to be done in the development and execution of a long time program that will affect the very foundations of the industry.

A Word to the Farmers.

"American farmers need to know how important is the support which they themselves must give to the national coöperative effort if it is to succeed. They must learn more and more of the true purpose of coöperation. They need to appreciate the value as well as the limitations of coöperative marketing. They must be brought to realize that unregulated production without any relation to market requirements is not economy but wastage."

Dr. A. T. Woods, director of the scientific work in the United States department of agriculture, took the place of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde on the program. He stressed the need of social planning and coördination in order to make better use of all that science has put at the disposal of the people.

Fire in Hammond Store Causes Loss of $10,000

Fire which broke out in the basement of Millers', Inc., a ladies' ready to wear shop at 5127 Hohman street, Hammond, did damage estimated at $10,000 last night. The flames broke through the floor and damaged a cigar store, a jewelry store and a candy store in the same block, at Hohman and State streets.

D. A. R. LEADER IS 'THREATENED' BY COMMUNISTS

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—"Numerous threats by communists and Reds against whom she has been talking" caused Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, national vice president of the Daughters of the American Revolution and daughter of the late Jay Gould, to cancel a speaking engagement here today, according to the Albany Evening News.

Mrs. Shepard was to have addressed a meeting of the Gansevoort chapter, D. A. R.

The news said that due to threatening letters she had received she decided to remain in the seclusion of her home at Roxbury. An excerpt from the newspaper's version of the canceled speaking engagement read:

"It has been reported that as a result of many speeches throughout the state recently, Mrs. Shepard has been sent numerous threats by communists and reds, against whom she has been talking. It was learned also that she had received the same threats against her life over the telephone."

Inquiry at the Roxbury home of the former Helen Gould, however, brought forth the statement the cancellation of the engagement was due to other reasons not specified.

How Do Women in the Movies Manage?

Filming a picture means weeks of work without a pause. The star can't stop because she is "indisposed!" Monthly sickness does not excuse her. If you know some woman who is in pictures, she will tell you how Hollywood women manage on days they menstruate. Try to find even an "extra girl" who doesn't carry Midol with her!

Midol is a marvelous discovery. It isn't harmful. It isn't a narcotic. But it acts in seven minutes—ends all menstrual pain or discomfort for hours at a stretch! Just ask for Midol at any drug store.

This sugar package really closes TIGHTLY

2-lb. and 5-lb. pouring packages wrapped in waxed paper to prevent caking. The staunchest, tightest sugar packages on the market!

...and protects your C and H MENU "Berry" until all of it is used up

THE little slide which opens to let you pour your MENU "Berry" can be closed each time after you use what sugar you need. Protects it to the last fine grain. What economy!

And every grain of C and H MENU "Berry" sugar is well worth treasuring. It's so ideal—for every menu use. Unlike ordinary granulated, "Berry" Granulated dissolves with a stir of the spoon in hot drinks or cold. It melts instantly on fruit, mingling its sweetness to form delicious syrup. MENU "Berry" Granulated needs no sifting for cakes (unsifted it's far finer than many an ordinary granulated that has been sifted). It creams butter in a jiffy. And the meringues it makes simply melt in your mouth. Pure cane? Yes, indeed it is. You'll love it!

C and H MENU "Berry" also comes in 2-lb., 5-lb., 10-lb. and 25-lb. cloth bags. Buy it in its original container and be certain you're getting C and H MENU Sugar—pure cane.

Brown Sugar, Confectioners Powdered, Dessert Sugar, Crystal Tablets, and Cubelets—in fact all the C and H MENU Sugars (as the name implies) offer endless opportunities for varying the menu. Mail coupon below for recipe booklet.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

SAYS FARM ACTS MAKE CONGRESS A SOUP KITCHEN

Bar Association Report Was Shelved.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Why, it is frequently asked, if the farm board legislation represents a departure from the fundamental principles of the government, has its constitutionality never been attacked in the courts?

Organizations of old line dealers in agricultural products—the middlemen whose elimination, according to the farm board, is contemplated by the agricultural marketing act—have filled their trade publications with legal disquisitions designed to prove the legislation invalid and have talked of appealing to the courts, but nothing has come of it all.

Rely on Welfare Clause.

The farm board has been legally advised that an attack on the constitutionality of the act would be futile. It is conceded that it might not be possible to maintain its validity under the commerce clause of the constitution as the framers of the legislation evidently intended when they declared a use to promote the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities in interstate commerce." The Supreme court decision holding unconstitutional the law to regulate child labor through the medium of commodities in interstate commerce indicates the instability of such a basis for the legislation.

It is upon the general welfare clause that the farm board chiefly relies for the validity of the act. The board thinks the act as safe from successful attack and for the same reasons as the legislation to control Mississippi floods, to relieve drought victims, and appropriate funds for Russian famine sufferers.

Opinion of Lawyer Group.

Last year a committee of the American Bar association prepared a report pronouncing the act "the first step toward a socialistic, soviet government," but the report was pigeonholed at the annual meeting of the association.

"This is the first step," said the report. "It is defended because growing wheat, they say, is a 'basic industry.' Very well. The production of coal is a 'basic industry.' The coal business is languishing. The stimulus of war opened too many mines, engaged the services of too many miners, the competition of crude oil and natural gas has cut down the consumption of coal, until now hardly a mine is running at a profit, many are closed down, and miners generally have employment for only two or three days in the week.

"What shall we do? Following this example the government should engage in the coal business, appropriate as much money as is necessary to buy all the surplus coal, store it until such time, if ever, as a coal board decides to unload it, and thus make the miners and mine operators prosperous at the expense of the rest of the people.

Oil and Other Industries.

"The oil business, so the oil men say, is a losing proposition; crude oil is too low. Let the government go into the oil business, buy all the surplus oil, store it, take it off the market, at the expense of the people. Certainly the production of crude oil is a 'basic industry.' If one crew of mendicants can come to the door of congress and with a threat of votes loot the treasury, other groups will follow the example. These groups will combine to aid each other, trade and swap votes until each one gets its dole out of the public funds.

"Following this example, with the wheat growers, coal men, oil men, the woolen industry, the shop industry, which is now in a slump, and all the other industries when there is a depression will receive this dole out of the treasury.

Congress a Soup Kitchen.

"Congress has become a national soup kitchen where every mendicant industry, every greedy, begging group brings its empty bowl to receive its treasury soup directly or indirectly. A step further, if the wheat grower is entitled to a fixed price and purchase of his surplus to hold up the price so that he may not only have a return upon his investment but a fair pay for his toil, what becomes of the laboring man out of employment?

"The next step in this Russianization is a dole to the unemployed. Where is the dead line? Where is the constitutional limitation between a subsidy to the wheat farmer and a dole to the workingman? But presently comes something else. When the other industries begin to get their dole the farmer will have to pay his share of it, pay his share of the dole to the coal man, the oil man, the steel man, and all the rest of them, and they, in turn, will pay their share of his dole, and so the country which once contained the most independent, self-reliant, self-respecting, self-supporting people of the civilized world will be reduced to the condition of that happy community where all the inhabitants make a living doing each other's washing."

OIL SOAKED CAT GIVES CLEW IN MILK WAR FIRE

Proves Incendiarism, Says Prosecutor.

A big gray cat named Hannibal, belonging on the farm of Isaac Lantz, near Plainfield, turned up yesterday to provide a clew to the fire which destroyed Lantz's dairy herd in the outbreak of a milk war in Will county last Friday.

The farmer's youngest son, Noel, 16 years old, discovered Hannibal prowling among the ruins of the dairy barn at noon. Hitherto the family had assumed that the cat had met the same fate as the forty-three milch cows, two horses, and a mule, which perished in the blaze.

Cat Soaked with Oil.

The boy's mother set a saucer of milk beside the kitchen door. Stooping to pet the cat, she discovered that its fur was matted with oil. "It smells like kerosene," she said.

Lantz had an appointment with State's Attorney Hjalmar Rehn of Will county at 2:30 p. m. When he and his wife left for Joliet, Hannibal went along. Mr. Rehn examined the cat and called in a chemist.

The chemist snipped a bit of fur from Hannibal, took it to his laboratory and returned with the announcement that Hannibal had been drenched with coal oil.

"The clew may develop something and it may not," said Mr. Rehn. "At least it proves that the fire was incendiary and was not due to spontaneous combustion as some persons pretended to believe."

Tells of Milk Fight.

In a statement to Prosecutor Rehn, Lantz set forth a detailed account of the troubles he had experienced since he and his brother, Carlos, quit the Pure Milk association last March.

He was aware that his action would arouse resentment among the other members, Lantz said, but he entertained no thought of danger until one evening ten weeks ago when a stranger telephoned him a warning to guard his place that night.

"He wouldn't give his name," Lantz said. "He said he was one of a crowd of farmers at a protest meeting where they talked of burning me out. He said he didn't believe in that sort of thing and left the meeting to give me fair warning. I telephoned some of my neighbors and notified the sheriff, who sent two deputies. Nothing happened."

Again, two weeks later, Lantz went on, a neighbor stopped him on the road and advised him to hire guards if he proposed continuing shipment and delivery of milk to the retail trade in Aurora. A plan was afoot, the neighbor told him, to kidnap his drivers and ditch his trucks. Again the sheriff furnished guards, but nothing happened.

Lantz refused to accuse directly members of the milk association. He agreed with Mr. Rehn that no farmer would be likely to fire a barn, knowing the live stock within would be burned to death. He reckoned his loss would run between $35,000 and $50,000.

KID WEIL, NOW A 'BANKER,' WINS WAY FROM CELL

Yellow Kid Weil, for years a confidence man but now, by his own admission, a banker, gained release from a detective bureau cell yesterday after a night of meditation. "We've no complaints against him—now," said Chief of Detectives Shoemaker.

The chief booked the Kid, however, charging him with disorderly conduct, taking $75 of the Kid's $90 for bail. The size of this sum amazed his searchers, for Mr. Weil is generally possessed of little more than a thin dime, for all his lordly attire. He will appear before Judge McKinlay in the 11th street police court this morning.

The Kid had been pinched while addressing a motley group at the Dill Pickle club. "This is an outrage," he said, as usual.

"How's tricks, Joe," Sergt. David Burke asked. "What's your racket now?" The policeman surveyed the Kid's immaculate dress, a symphony in brown.

"A banker," Weil said shortly, and this so flabbergasted Burke that he hustled his captive into a cell without another question.

Never parched, never toasted—

"You needn't tell me —I know Camel is the fresh cigarette!"

CAMELS are FRESH

with natural freshness!

IN THE last eight months the smokers of the world have tasted for the first time the flavorful delights of a fresh cigarette.

You can thank the Camel Humidor Pack for that, but even more you can thank the fine Turkish and mild sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended.

Tobaccos of this choice and costly kind are naturally smooth, cool, palatable—violent processing could only rob them of their delicate fragrance and aroma.

So we never parch or toast these fine tobaccos, but vigilantly safeguard their every goodness—hence they retain natural moisture and flavors that otherwise would be lost.

The Camel Humidor Pack means much to Camel smokers because it insures that this fine and fresh cigarette is kept always fine and fresh, and comes to you in prime smoking condition.

To see how greatly natural freshness adds to smoking pleasure, switch to Camels for just one day—then leave them, if you can!

PUPILS INSIST ON WORKING FOR THEIR FREE FOOD

They Eat, Then Clean Up School Lunchroom.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4189 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Bobbie and Harvey are alert, ambitious boys, eight and nine years old, pupils in a public school in the South Chicago steel district. Both need food but they refuse steadfastly to accept a bite unless they are permitted to earn their meals. So at the dismissal bell each afternoon, they pop into the lunchroom for a regular routine of sweeping and scrubbing before setting out for home.

Bobbie comes from a family of eight children, while Harvey is one of seven. One is fatherless and the other might as well be as far as any financial support is concerned, for his father has had no work in many months. Mrs. S——, head attendant at the school lunchroom, knows both boys well, and their home circumstances. She frequently hands them out gratuities in the form of a few crackers, a loaf of bread left over at the close of the day, or a bit of pudding that wasn't needed.

Last Friday it happened that the only left over from the school lunch was a single loaf of bread. Mrs S—— went into conference with the boys about it.

"There's only one loaf, boys," she told them. "What shall I do? I can either give it to one or the other, or I can cut it in two. You decide."

Two pairs of eyes fastened on the loaf, and two youthful minds reflected an instant on how welcome it would be in their own particular domiciles. Then Harvey spoke up, quickly;

"You give it to Bobbie, Mrs. S——, because his mother's got more kids than mine, and they're littler. I'll take the next loaf you have over."

"Aw, gee!" said Bobbie in protest. But in the end he took the loaf.

Fed By Children's Fund.

Such poverty as Harvey and Bobbie are experiencing is the main reason for the Hungry School Children's Fund, from which these two boys, with approximately 7,000 others throughout the school system, are being fed each noon. Except for the fact that their strength is being maintained by one square meal a day, these two undoubtedly would lose their energy and exhibit the same lassitude and dullness that so many pupils have developed since the depression swept away the jobs of the heads of many families.

Readers of this newspaper already have contributed $23,070 to the fund, which is being administered by Miss Frances Swain, head of the household arts department of the board of education. Meals provided for the children by this service are averaging only five cents each for the small children, ten cents for junior and fifteen cents apiece for senior high school students, and the boys and girls are assured of a correctly balanced diet.

Can Use Whole Wheat.

Farmers who have a surplus amount of wheat and are willing to donate a few bushels to provide breakfasts for these students who come to school hungry are asked to get in touch with Miss Swain at 460 South State street, board of education headquarters. A Chicago mill has offered to crack the wheat at cost, and it has been found that this food, well cooked, makes an almost perfect meal. It is estimated that 500 servings can be had from a single bushel of wheat, at a cost of about 65 cents a bushel.

Gifts for the Hungry School Children's Fund may be directed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE.

Seize 22 Men, 11 Women in Near North Side Raid

Capt. Gregory Moran of the Chicago avenue police led a raid yesterday afternoon on a gambling house at 238 East Erie street, where twenty-two men were arrested. Eleven women found in the place were released. Harold Coler of the McCormick hotel, Harold Carron, 2509 South Turner avenue, and Martin Filmore were booked as keepers.

TEACHER GROUPS TO GET TOGETHER ON RELIEF PLANS

Three of the larger teacher organizations yesterday agreed to have their legal representatives confer with the lawyers of other school board employe organizations for the purpose of effecting an agreement on desirable remedial legislation.

The idea was suggested by delegates representing 153 south side schools. Those who accepted the invitation yesterday, according to Robert P. Russell, executive secretary of the group, are the Men Teachers' union, the Chicago Teachers' Federation and the Chicago High School Teachers' association. Other organizations are expected to do likewise within the week, according to Mr. Russell, as soon as a majority of the groups have had an opportunity to cooperate, and meeting of the lawyers is to be arranged. Meantime there is to be another meeting of the delegates at Hyde Park High school tomorrow afternoon.

Something NEW CRANBERRY ZWIEBACK PIE

Just watch your family's eyes pop open when you set this pie on the table! It's delicious. And very easy to make this way:

CRANBERRY ZWIEBACK PIE

1 box (24 pieces) Zwieback
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅔ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cold water
Meringue
½ cup butter
Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce
1 tablespoon Cornstarch

Mix finely ground Zwieback with sugar, cinnamon and butter. Line pie plate with mixture, patting down firmly. Then fill with Ten-Minute Cranberry Sauce, thickened with cornstarch dissolved in 1 tablespoon cold water. Spread top with very stiffly beaten meringue made from whites of 4 or 5 eggs, to which has been added 2 tablespoons sugar. Sprinkle on meringue a little of the Zwieback mixture and bake 20 minutes in a very slow oven.

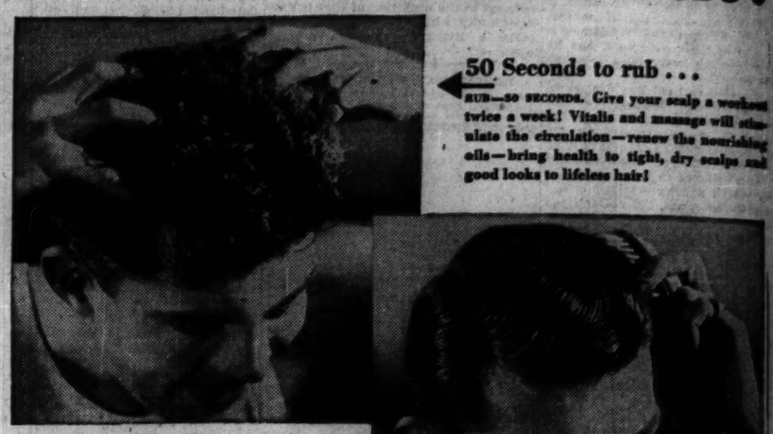
Give your HAIR the 60-Second Workout!



50 Seconds to rub . . .

RUB—50 SECONDS. Give your scalp a workout twice a week! Vitalis and massage will stimulate the circulation—renew the nourishing oils—bring health to tight, dry scalps and good looks to lifeless hair!

10 Seconds to comb . . .

COMB your hair and brush it—ten seconds more for this and your Vitalis workout is done! Notice how lustrous your hair has become, how full of life it is, how much better-looking you are!

Time up!

TIME UP! Your scalp is a-tingle with vigorous health. Your hair looks fine and attractive! You're ready now to step out. You know your hair won't spoil your appearance. It's well-groomed, rich-looking, handsome as never before.

GOOD-LOOKING hair grows only on an active, healthy scalp.

You can comb your hair and brush it, but unless your scalp is active, healthy, doing the job it's supposed to do, your hair will be dull, lifeless and unattractive!

Tight, dry scalp shuts off the nourishing oils — keeps your hair dull, difficult to comb! Your scalp ought to get this 60-second Vitalis workout twice a week.

It's a simple schedule that will work wonders for your hair! A brisk, quick rub—and the circulation quickens, the natural oils are restored, the hair comes to life, looks rich and attractive, and is easily groomed. Not a trace of that "patent-leather" look, though. You'll avoid the menace of loose dandruff and its twin evil, falling hair.

Start your first 60-second workout today and keep it up regularly. All druggists and barbers have Vitalis—it's a pure vegetable oil preparation. It's what your hair needs. Get it today.

Ask your Barber . . .

Your barber gets a close-up of your hair every time you go to him. He sees what it looks like—and he knows what it needs. When he suggests Vitalis, listen to him! He's giving you sane, sound advice—and you'd better take it!

KEEPS HAIR HEALTHY AND HANDSOME

Put SPARKLE into your LIFE!

Rid your system of poisons . . wake up to the joy of life!

HEALTH

Life's no fun when you're only half-awake. If you really want to feel fine, sweep away the poisons and wastes—and your clean, poison-free blood will go coursing through your veins and give you a new pep and brightness. Keep internally clean with Sal Hepatica; you'll get a new pleasure out of life.

BEAUTY

Dull skin—dull eyes come from poisons in your system. Bright eyes, a clear, fresh skin, come naturally when you are internally clean! You have sparkle, life, charm—you are no longer a person half-awake. Start Sal Hepatica now! Note: Sal Hepatica is a great help in the reducing diet.

Start in today with SAL HEPATICA!

If you don't "feel very well"—if you've been sitting on the side-lines while other people had all the fun—find out now about Sal Hepatica!

When your body is clogged with poisons and wastes you can't possibly get any joy out of life. To feel alive and fit, you have to be internally clean.

Instead of watching other people have all the health and sparkle, take the Saline Treatment with Sal Hepatica.

You'll get back your old zest! You'll feel better and you'll look better!

All you have to do is to get a bottle of Sal Hepatica from the drug store. Tomorrow morning when you get up, pour a teaspoon or so of the sparkling salts into a glass of fresh water—and drink down the bubbling mixture.

Sal Hepatica is not simply "another laxative." Sal Hepatica is a saline of carefully blended ingredients. It contains the same salines as wealthy Europeans drink in the health waters at the famous spas where their physicians send them to find new vitality, new health.

Sal Hepatica does far more than any ordinary laxative can possibly do. For it clears away the poisons from the bloodstream. It tones up the system. It gets at the causes of headache, rheumatism, digestive disorders, colds. It never has a tendency to make its users stout. It wakes up the body to a new sense of the joy of living! Get a bottle today.

THE TRUTH ABOUT SALTS IN THE REDUCING DIET!

Salines are valuable to women seeking to reduce. But, of course, correct diet is the first essential. See your doctor, get the right program for you. The best medical opinion here and abroad highly recommends a dependable saline like Sal Hepatica as an aid in the reducing diet.

CONSTIPATION

Whenever you wake up in the morning with any of the symptoms of constipation—take 2 teaspoonfuls of Sal Hepatica in a glass of water. Promptly, gently the wastes that are clogging your system will be flushed away. You'll feel fine!

HEADACHE

To relieve the intestinal congestion which causes so many headaches, take a teaspoonful of Sal Hepatica in a large glassful of warm water and repeat this saline treatment in 15 minutes if not relieved. Sal Hepatica helps a lot.

COLDS

The very first step in clearing a cold is to flush out the system with 2 to 4 teaspoonfuls of Sal Hepatica in a large glassful of water. Then continue the use of Sal Hepatica each morning before breakfast to keep your system free of congestion.

BAD COMPLEXION

To keep the bloodstream clear of those impurities that so often cause blemishes and skin eruptions, take 1 tesspoonful of Sal Hepatica in a large glass of water upon arising—for a week, or as long as you may find it necessary.

PARLEY ON INDIA PEPPED UP AFTER BRITISH SCOLDING

Delegates to Stay; Cancel Passage Home.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The round table conference on India was pulled out of the fog of confusion at the last moment today and was given a new lease on life. Instead of closing in failure on Wednesday, as it was feared, it will now last probably a couple of weeks longer, with a fair chance of accomplishing something.

The change is due to a speech by Lord Sankey, the lord chancellor and chairman of the federal structure committee, which met this morning for what was expected to be the last meeting in St. James' place. The week-end had been spent in a vain effort to bring about some sort of a settlement of the religious differences of the Hindus and Moslems, without which both declared it was useless to continue.

Sankey Criticizes Delegates.

Lord Sankey reminded the Indians that Great Britain had brought the delegates 6,000 miles to ask their advice and not to tell them what Britain proposed to do. At the same time he pointed out that it was only advice that Britain wanted, and that in the end a settlement would have to take the form of an act of parliament and passed through the British houses.

Many subjects had been discussed, he said, and a large measure of an agreement had been reached, but that the three most important questions had not been touched upon because of the failure to agree on something quite different. The British government, the chairman continued, wanted to hear the Indian views on the question of the control of the army and external affairs, on the question of finance and on the question of commercial discrimination.

Halt Religious Dispute.

He proposed that instead of adjourning the committee it should proceed to discuss these problems leaving the religious dispute aside for the time being.

So in the afternoon the committee began the discussion of the control of the army. Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader, sat silent through the discussions, but his son later announced that his father was "resigned" to remain in England ten days or two weeks longer.

Today's discussion only opened the question of the army and other important questions are expected to take several days each. The delegates believe that the delay may also afford an opportunity of arriving at some communal settlement.

M'LEAN ORDERED TO DESIST FROM ANY DIVORCE PROCEEDING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The District of Columbia Supreme court on the petition of Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, today issued an order restraining her husband, Edward Beale McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, from prosecuting divorce action in Latvia or any other foreign country, McLean, according to Mrs. McLean's attorneys, has taken residence in Riga, Latvia, for the purpose of filing divorce proceedings.

The order issued today is based on McLean's American citizenship. Should the publisher continue his divorce proceedings in Latvia, it was explained by Mrs. McLean's attorneys, he will be liable to contempt proceedings upon his return to the United States. McLean was previously restrained in the same manner from obtaining a divorce in Mexico.

SIX RAILWAYS CITED IN CITY'S DRIVE ON SMOKE

13 Violators Are Given Warnings.

In the campaign to abate smoke, Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, has assigned smoke observers to watch for violations of the smoke abatement ordinance by the railroads. As a result representatives of six railroads have been summoned to appear at Chambers' office on Thursday.

Eight violations of the smoke ordinance were reported by the observers. Six of the violations are charged against the Illinois Central, and one each against the Rock Island, Chicago and Western Indiana, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Wabash and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroads.

Thirteen persons and business concerns have been summoned to appear today at Chambers' office to explain first-time violations of the ordinance. They are:

Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, pile driver No. 29.
Material Service corporation, crane No. 4.
B. Kuppenheimer & Co., 415 South Franklin street.
E. H. Johnson, 1407 Wicker Park avenue.
Stanley Miller, 4951 Belle Plaine avenue.
McKay & Pearce, 6124 Ingleside avenue.
Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, 2949 Grand avenue.
A. W. Swain, 421 Melrose street.
Harpercrest hotel, 5345 Harper avenue.
Chancellor hotel, 5236 Lake Park avenue.
Henry Wink Cleaners and Dyers, 2546 South Park way.
Balaban & Katz, 2230 North Clark street.
Board of education, the Irving school.

Representatives of nine loop buildings appeared yesterday at Chambers' office in response to summonses. Each one was told that if a second violation was noticed within the next thirty days a suit would be started by the city against them in the Municipal court.

BRITAIN TO STOP DUMPING BY 100% TARIFF BARRIER

Emergency Law Will Last Six Months.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The new national government's plan to stop the dumping of foreign goods in Great Britain was revealed in the house of commons tonight by Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade.

The board of trade will be empowered to impose duties up to 100 per cent of the value of each article in a wide range of manufactured and partly manufactured goods, the largest class of imports next to foodstuffs. They include pens, knives, surgical instruments, sheet glass, vacuum cleaners, typewriters, colored cottons, sewing machines, vehicles—including locomotives, ships and aircraft—oils, fats, and resins, leather and its manufactured products, hardware, electrical goods, machinery, silk and silk manufactures, chemicals, drugs, dyes, and iron and steel in some forms.

Food Imports Not Affected.

Food imports are not affected by the proposals of the new measure, but it is understood they will be the subject of special legislation to be introduced later by the minister of agriculture, Sir John Gilmour.

The measure, which was also introduced in commons tonight, is expected to become a law by Friday. It will be in operation for six months.

"It is no good doing things by halves," President Runciman declared in outlining the cabinet's plans. "We need immediate action. The financial crisis is still present, and as long as the pound sterling is in danger a balanced budget is menaced."

Not a General Tariff.

Runciman then called attention to the recent abnormal imports of which there have been some remarkable increases, in some cases as high as 80 to 100 per cent.

"This must be stopped—and effectively so as to reduce the strain on our purchasing capacity and without injuring any of our people or industries," he said.

The measure, it is pointed out, is not, in a true sense a general tariff, nor is it said to be even the beginning of a protection system. It is an emergency measure conferring special powers on the board of trade for half a year only to prevent dumping.

Simultaneously with the introduction of the bill, which is a 100 per cent barrier against imports, except foodstuffs, the prince of Wales issued an appeal to the nation and empire to "buy British goods," inaugurating the "buy British" campaign. The prince appealed particularly to the housewives.

TWO CAPTURED AS THEY PLACE BOMB FACE NEW CHARGE

A new indictment, carrying a charge with a more severe sentence, will be sought against Joseph Siegel, 29 years old, and Leroy Rapp, 37 years old, alleged bombers, Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks revealed yesterday. Both men pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Walter Stanton in the Criminal court.

Siegel and Rapp were found on the roof of the nonunion bakery of Joseph Becker at 1502 South St Louis avenue on Nov. 7 with six sticks of dynamite. They are charged with attempted bombing, which carries a sentence of 1 to 20 years. A charge in the new indictment, according to Prosecutor Brooks, will be the illegal transportation of explosives, which carries a penalty of from 5 to 20 years.

ATLANTIC GALES LASH AND DELAY INCOMING LINERS

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—At least a dozen vessels bound for New York are in the teeth of a westerly gale and are being washed by tempestuous seas in the north Atlantic steamship lanes, shipping men here reported today.

The storm raging for the last five days from the Grand Banks to the English channel has already played hob with incoming liners. The Ile de France which arrived on Thursday, two days late, experienced the worst crossing of her career.

Practically all ships headed for this port are expected to be at least forty-eight hours late.

The Minnewaska of the Atlantic Transport line, due today, will not arrive until tomorrow. The Bergensfjord of the Norwegian-American line, also due today, is expected tomorrow.

BLUEBEARD ASKS CHANGE IN VENUE; CITES HOSTILITY

Says He Can't Get Fair Trial at Home.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Harry F. Powers, charged with five murders and slated for trial Dec. 7 at Moore's opera house, cannot get a fair trial in Harrison county, it is alleged in a petition submitted to the Criminal court here today by the slayer's attorney, J. E. Law.

The petition charges, among other things, that—

Newspapers, magazines and other publications have assumed the guilt of Powers and have worked up a tremendous public frenzy against him, causing one attempt to mob him and other untoward happenings.

Powers was brutally beaten and abused by officers while under the "supposed protection" of Sheriff W. B. Grimm and was forced to sign a confession, without realizing its meaning.

Charges Strong Prejudice.

Public opinion is so strong against the prisoner that citizens, fearing to endanger their standing in the community, will not sign affidavits that such a prejudice exists.

The proposal to hold the trial in a "showhouse" makes it merely a "sight seeing entertainment."

A document of twelve legal sized pages, the petition goes into considerable detail concerning the treatment to which Powers is alleged to have been subjected following his arrest and the supposed effect of stories carried in the Clarksburg newspapers.

KILL GRIEVING EICHER DOG.

A black bulldog, left behind by Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher when she and her three children left their Park Ridge homestead on their fatal trip to West Virginia with Harry F. Powers, was killed yesterday by Oak Park police. The animal had been pining away ever since the disappearance of the Eichers, and it was considered humane to put it to death.

Mrs. Eicher had turned over the pet to Mrs. Adeline Newell, of Park Ridge, and the latter gave it to her niece, Mrs. Ralph E. Fraser, of Oak Park. Yesterday Mrs. Fraser took the animal to the Oak Park pound, and police put it to death with carbon monoxide.

INDICT DREISER, AIDS ON CHARGE OF SYNDICALISM

Author and 9 Others Accused.

Pineville, Ky., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Theodore Dreiser, novelist, and nine others who accompanied him here on Nov. 5 to investigate and comment on conditions in the coal fields were indicted today by the Bell county grand jury on charges of criminal syndicalism.

Among those named in the true bills are Marie Bergain, who with Dreiser has already been indicted here for adultery; John Dos Passos and Charles Rumford Walker, authors, and Mrs. Adelaide Walker, wife of the latter; Samuel Ornitz and Celia Kuhn.

Ready to Extradite Them.

Commonwealth's Attorney W. A. Brock announced that he would take immediate steps to have the alleged criminal syndicalists returned to Kentucky for trial.

The statutes of the state define the crime of which they are accused as "the act of committing, aiding, or counseling crime, physical violence, or other unlawful acts as a means of accomplishing political ends or as a means of bringing about political revolution." Conviction carries a penalty of not more than twenty-one years imprisonment, a fine of $10,000 or less, or both.

Resistance Counsel Charged.

The indictment charges that the committee of outsiders, in meetings held in coal camps in Harlan and Bell counties, sought to "promulgate a reign of terror" and had suggested disorders and resistance to the state and federal governments.

Dreiser and his friends came here under circumstances that irritated the constituted authorities and many local residents. They prefaced their trip by a request that the governor of Kentucky guarantee their safety.

Charges of criminal syndicalism have been brought against miners and organizers in the past, but none have been prosecuted. The custom has been to release those arrested on promises not to violate the statute.

Plans to Engage Counsel.

New York, Nov. 15.—[Special.]—Theodore Dreiser, author, after being informed he and nine companions had been indicted in Bell county, Ky., for criminal syndicalism, said he would engage legal counsel at once, and fight extradition.

CORONER'S JURY ENDS QUIZ INTO GANG MASSACRE

The coroner's inquest into the St. Valentine's day massacre of 1929 was officially closed yesterday. Members of the business men's jury headed by B. A. Massee met in the office of Coroner Bundesen and returned a verdict that the two Gusenberg brothers and five other Moran gangsters came to their deaths "at the hands of a person, or persons, unknown."

The jurors recommended that the police seek the slayers.

The same verdict was returned by the same jury in the cases of John [Dingbat] Oberta, stockyards beer boss, and Sam Malega, his chauffeur, who were slain on a gang ride on March 5, 1930.

No new evidence has been turned up for many months in either crime, nor is there much possibility of any being found, Coroner Bundesen said. The verdicts were returned to clear up the records of his office.

BREAKS WAY INTO JAIL, SO JUDGE SETS HIM FREE

John Kazloski of Escanaba entered the Deering street police station Saturday and demanded a cell. He explained he had only 25 cents, not enough for lodging and breakfast. "Get out," ordered Desk Sergeant William Fern. John left, but returned later with a rock in his hand. "If you don't let me in jail, I'll bust a window," said John. Fern led him to the lockup. John appeared before Judge Edward B. Casey in the Stockyards court yesterday to explain that he was tired of jail. "It's usually easy to get in and hard to get out," said Judge Casey. "It was so hard for you to get in, we'll make it easy for you to get out. You're discharged."

MRS. JUDD SAYS NOT GUILTY OF DOUBLE MURDER

Trial Is Set for Dec. 15; Defense Objects.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, confessed slayer of Mrs. Agnes Ann Leroi and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, answered a plea of not guilty on both murder charges when she was arraigned before Judge Howard C. Speakman of the Maricopa county Superior court today.

WINNIE RUTH JUDD [Acme Photo.]

Judge Speakman, after questioning Herman Lewkowitz, member of the Judd legal triumvirate, set Dec. 15 as the date for the trial of the clergyman's daughter. Lewkowitz protested bitterly against the early date, pleading that the defense would not be prepared in such a short time.

Objects to Speedy Trial.

County Prosecuting Attorney Lloyd J. Andrews demanded that Dec. 15 be left as the date for the trial, declaring the Judd attorneys already had had ample time in which to prepare their case. When the court concurred with the prosecutor's request, Lewkowitz asked that the record show the defense objection to the date in both the Leroi and Samuelson cases.

Mrs. Judd and her attorney did not qualify her "not guilty" plea in any way. Attorneys for the prosecution envinced mild surprise when Mrs. Judd did not add a self-defense clause to her plea.

Father Greets Mrs. Judd.

Mrs. Judd was attired in a tight fitting all black dress in court today. The drabness of her appearance was offset somewhat by a muff-colored sash drawn tightly about her waist and accentuating her slender and lithe figure. Her father, the Rev. H. J. McKinnell, white haired Darlington, Ind., preacher, met her at the courtroom door as she entered and kissed her lightly upon the forehead.

Mr. McKinnell started to speak while the prosecutor was addressing the court. "I am her father," he said, but sat down as Lewkowitz went to his side.

MISSING ENGLISH GIRL IS TRACED AS FAR AS SPRINGFIELD

Wellesley, Mass., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Rosemary Pamela Gilding, 17-year-old daughter of a London banker who disappeared from the home of Prof. Hamilton Crasford MacDougall of Wellesley Saturday afternoon, spent the week-end at a hotel in Springfield, read of the search being made for her and then checked out shortly before a train left for New York.

She registered at the Clinton hotel at 6:25 p. m. Saturday, signing her own name and Prof. MacDougall's Wellesley address. This morning she left at 10 o'clock, apparently to take the 10:30 train for New York.

At the hotel, it was said that she sat alone in the lobby for three hours Sunday afternoon and again today was in the lobby for two hours. She talked with no one.

Discovery that the British girl apparently went directly from Wellesley to Springfield startled investigators who had learned that in a letter postmarked in Boston Sunday, she told Prof. MacDougall she was unhappy in America and planned to return home.

Life looks rosy for him

Health worth more than fortune

THE baby to be envied is the one who is born with an inheritance of perfect health, to begin with. And who's lucky enough to have a mother who knows how to build up this fortune.

"Perhaps I'm old-fashioned," she'll say to the doctor who pronounces her child physically 100% at a baby show, "but this health certificate means more to me than all the stock certificates in the world. If my baby grows up strong and well, I'm willing to leave it to him to make a career and fortune for himself.

"Already I'm teaching him the value of regular habits. Regular sleep, regular meals, regular functions. He's never once been off schedule, not even when he was cutting teeth or traveling to the country. I make sure of that by giving him Nujol regularly. He has his own bottle in the nursery."

Nujol works so easily and naturally that it won't upset a baby under any conditions. It keeps everything functioning properly. It not only prevents any excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but aids in their removal. It is safe and sure, Nujol was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

Just try Nujol for your baby. Give it to him regularly for the next three months. See if it doesn't make things much easier for both of you. See if he doesn't thrive on this new schedule—(children themselves much prefer living by regular routine).

Heir to millions

Here's another thing: nurses are advising mothers to give their babies an oil rub with Nujol after the daily bath, instead of using powder. Just saturate some cotton with Nujol and rub it gently all over your baby's body. It keeps him from getting chapped and chafed. And leaves his skin as soft and smooth as velvet. Use it when you change his clothes. Whenever his skin has been exposed to irritation.

A bottle of Nujol costs you no more than pink ribbons on the baby's bonnet. And it's worth a lot more to him! Try it. Certainly it could do no harm—for Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. Your druggist carries it. Be sure you get the genuine. Sold only in sealed packages, never in bulk.

A REAL EDUCATION IN COOKERY

ELABORATE STAGE ATTRACTIONS

HUNDREDS OF FREE PRIZES

A GOOD TIME FOR EVERYBODY

HOUSEWIVES! Today the Chicago Tribune School of Cookery opens its doors to the women of Chicago's great West Side.

Thousands of women living on the South and North Sides have attended this new and different cooking school, conducted by Ida M. Chitwood, nationally known home economics authority, in co-operation with Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune cooking editor.

This week it's the West Side's turn. At 1:45 this afternoon at Guyon's Paradise Ballroom, 4000 Washington Blvd., the West Side division of the Tribune School of Cookery will start.

You'll enjoy every minute of it. The lectures and demonstrations will give you a wealth of new knowledge about cooking and baking. Famous artists of the stage, screen, or radio will be on hand to entertain you. Noted choral conductors will direct the community singing. In addition, hundreds of valuable prizes will be awarded to women who attend.

It's all free! There is no charge for admission. You don't need any ticket or coupon. No collections are taken inside. Just come and you will be shown to comfortable seats by courteous ushers.

Come alone or with a party of friends. You DON'T have to live on the West Side to attend the West Side sessions. You are invited no matter where you live. Come early. No one will be admitted after the session gets under way.

Learn the secret of PERFECT LEAVENING for your baking

FOR ideal results in baking you need a baking powder which applies two-thirds of its leavening power during the mixing and the remaining third in the oven.

Fifty-two scientific tests in the process of manufacture make absolutely certain that Rumford Baking Powder gives you the advantage of this perfect leavening proportion in every baking. That's one important reason why Rumford is preferred by cooking experts and authorities on food.

Another vitally important reason for the choice of Rumford is the fact that Rumford adds real food value to cakes and hot breads. For Rumford contains in substantial quantities the food Calcium and Phosphate so necessary to the proper growth and development of bones, nerves and teeth.

Learn more about the value of this remarkable all-phosphate baking powder.

M stands for Morning Daily; E for Evening Daily

a 36-year record of a Newspaper's Progress

IN 1895—the smallest of Philadelphia's thirteen newspapers, with the circulation of an average rural weekly: That was The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin when purchased by its present owners.

In 1930—the outstanding leader in its City, one of the largest newspapers in America, in circulation and in advertising volume.

From 6,317 daily to 560,855—a great growth! An enormous increase! Yet a careful, unhurried one, spread over thirty-six years.

For The Bulletin does not deal in sensational treatment of news, gives no prizes or premiums, runs no circulation contests.

It has grown by making a newspaper that reflected Philadelphia, that won the confidence of the home by careful, accurate editing, that merited the trust of advertisers by a sound business policy.

Today, in this greatest City of individual homes and home owners....in this billion dollar market in retail sales—The Bulletin reaches ninety-one per cent. of Philadelphia homes, at sixty-five cents a line*—

Giving to advertisers, not only thorough coverage of a great market in one newspaper, but at the lowest cost of any newspaper in America, as well.

*The milline rate of The Philadelphia Bulletin is $1.18, far lower than any other single newspaper in America. Milline is a term denoting the cost of a line of advertising (one-fourteenth of an inch) printed in one million copies of any publication. It gives a basis upon which to compare publications with different rates and circulations. It is computed by dividing the circulation into the rate, multiplied by one million.

OFFICIAL SURVEY OF STREET LIGHT WORK DEMANDED

Citizens Ask Search for Contract Violations.

In the bulletin issued last night the Citizens' association called on city officials to make a complete survey of all the work performed by the Electrical Contracting company under the last administration on its contract for the installation of 6,905 street lights.

Only by a complete survey, the bulletin says, can the extent of the replacements for which the contractor is liable be definitely determined. A partial survey has already shown, according to the Citizens' association, that 105 of the lamp post foundations do not conform to the specifications in the contract.

Charges $211,284 Excess Profit.

The contract was let by Michael J. Kennedy, commissioner of gas and electricity in the last administration. After an investigation Shelby M. Singleton, secretary of the Citizens' association, declared that there was an excess profit of $211,284 in the $1,063,000 contract.

Kennedy, J. A. Muerling, city engineer in charge of the work, and H. A. Jackson, president of the contracting company, appeared before the October grand jury to explain the alleged violations of the specifications.

"Their main point," says the bulletin of the Citizens' association, "was that a 'mistake' had been made in drawing the plans. That grand jury found no evidence except their statements. In our opinion their attempted explanations lack credibility."

Asks Action Against Inspectors.

The association requests that action be taken before the civil service commission against a number of city inspectors and other employes who permitted faulty foundations to be installed.

In commenting on the cooperation obtained from the present commissioner of gas and electricity, William A. Jackson, the bulletin says:

"Commissioner Jackson has served notice upon contractors through the press that the city 'must get what it pays for' under all contracts let by his department. This action is perhaps timely because the department of gas and electricity has notoriously been a 'soft spot' for favored contractors during successive administrations."

YALE GIVEN TWO MILLION BY WILL OF C. M. DEPEW JR.

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Chauncey M. Depew Jr., son of the late Senator Depew, left a gross estate of $6,144,291, and a net taxable estate of $1,643,743, according to a transfer tax appraisal filed today.

The actual net estate amounted to $5,795,430, the tax authorities listing $4,329,813 as not liable to tax because it previously had been taxed as the estate of Senator Depew.

Under Mr. Depew's will Yale university received a bequest of $1,931,510. Four cousins were given bequests of $965,905 each. They are Anna Depew Paulding, Charles C. Paulding, Elsie Strang L'Esperance, and May Strang.

The principal asset of the estate was in securities appraised at $2,512,639.

Mr. Depew died on Jan. 29, 1931.

Included in the list of securities were 1,110 shares of Chase National bank stock, appraised at $112,249; 5,250 shares of National Biscuit company, $414,093; $343,062 in New York city corporate stock; $520,275 in New York state bonds, and $102,125 in municipal securities of Westchester county.

There was also a total of $144,742 represented by a deed of trust set up by Senator Depew in 1901 for his son, with the power of appointment. Mortgages on notes totaled $138,489.

ZOUAVES DRILL TEAM VETERANS HOLD REUNION

Sixty business men, most of them 60 years old and more, met at dinner last night at Ireland's Oyster house, 636 North Clark street, to recall good times of forty years ago when they formed the once famous Chicago Zouaves, a crack drill team commanded by the late Capt. Thomas J. Ford. The team held the national championship for thirteen years.

Formed in 1882 by Capt. Ford, who for many years was drill master of the Chicago police, the drill team traveled to all cities in the country to establish its supremacy. In 1886, the team formed Company E, of the 4th Infantry, Illinois National Guard, and passed out of existence in 1904. During the world's fair in 1893 the team gave many exhibitions.

J. Howard Ireland, owner of the restaurant where the former zouaves met, is president of their veterans' organization. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, a director, presided.

Shoots Self in Foot When Cigaret Burns His Finger

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—A cigaret burning too close to his finger caused J. S. Stutte of Birmingham, Mich., to send a bullet from his deer rifle through his foot. Stutte was shooting at a bottle on a fence near here yesterday afternoon when the cigaret burned his finger. As he shook his hand his rifle discharged.

QUICK-HEATING 4-PILLAR TUBES AT NEW LOW PRICES ★

WHY be content with old-fashioned slow-heating tubes in your present radio, when you can buy new quick-heater tubes such as Eveready Raytheons at new low prices? These tubes bring out all the clear, lifelike tone that is built into your radio set. When buying a new radio set avoid the old slow-heater type tube, with which the market is flooded. Make sure it is equipped with new quick-heater type tubes—play safe—ask your dealer these questions:

(1) Is this a new-type tube? (2) Is it a quick-heater?
(3) How quick? (Should be under 10 seconds.)

"Almond Tree" Story of Three Selfish Sisters

Daughter of One Offers Some Contrast.

"The Almond Tree," by Grace Zaring Stone. [Bobbs-Merrill.] Published Oct. 2.

THIS latest novel by Grace Zaring Stone, author of "The Bitter Tea of General Yen," is the November choice of the Book League of America.

The plot of "The Almond Tree" deals with the conflict of three sisters, different in their temperaments and their demands on life. Despite their conflict there is nevertheless a tie of habit and background that unites them.

GRACE ZARING STONE.

Leda, the youngest; who has lived abroad, at the opening of the story has just been widowed and forced to return to America with her 16 year old daughter. She, living a life of love and adventure with her handsome husband, has thought of nothing but herself, of him, and their love since she married; even her daughter never comes very close. So when her husband dies, leaving her without money, she is peculiarly unsuited to a commonplace existence.

Susan, the next eldest sister, divorced her husband, whom she loved intensely, when he ran off with another woman. Since then she has lived the life of a fashionable modern seeking an escape from life. May, the eldest sister, is an old maid who refuses out of pride and stubbornness her steady and long-suffering suitor.

Each sister, in her way, represents a fantastic demand on life. When the story opens the sisters seem to have conquered destiny, but as time goes on it becomes more and more apparent that destiny is only deferring its inevitable sentence. Susan, with her cowardly evasion of emotion, is repaid in a bitterly ironical way for her pretentious desire to escape reality. May, a living symbol of possessiveness, loses her soul very suddenly and in terror, and Leda, selfish to an extreme, made for love and madly clinging to it, is unmercifully dealt with by fate.

The symbol of Marise, the young, beautiful, sensitive daughter of Leda, appears throughout the book, first as a part of the avenging destiny that pursues the selfish sisters, and second as a contrast, in her youth and supreme indifference, to the turbid emotions of these ageing women.

Symbolically used, the almond tree itself underlines the main theme of selfishness, because the almond, covered over with numerous soft layers of substance, presents on examination a hard, bitter kernel.

The moral lesson implied in this book is that selfishness destroys itself and is denied fruition in happiness. The lesson is not taught, however. For Leda, who is the supreme example of selfishness in the novel, one feels, when all is said and done, is the only one who attains happiness.

The plot is skillfully woven; the differentiation between the sisters' three levels of emotional intensity is delicately indicated.

The dialogue, however, is awkward-y time, seeming stiff and unnatural. The transference of emphasis from one character and event to another in the narrative is not effected with ease, and unfortunately the style does not rise to the brilliance of the conception and the characterization. But despite its faults "The Almond Tree" is a moving book.

SABER TOOTH TIGERS FOUGHT IN CALIFORNIA, TOLD BY SCIENTISTS

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 16.—(AP)—A climax in evolution, an extinct tiger with stabbing weapons, was described to the National Academy of Sciences here tonight at Yale university.

Speaking on the cats of Rancho La Brea, Dr. John Campbell Merriam, president of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, interpreted the story told by bones of great, predatory cats, some bigger than modern lions, which once lived in California.

Discoveries in quite a different phase of evolution were reported by Dr. Ross G. Harrison of Yale university. His laboratory has traced the source or close to it, of production of legs by salamanders.

Asphalt pits on Rancho La Brea at Los Angeles have yielded bones of 1,500 saber tooth tigers. Battle scars on the bones tell almost the life story of one such tiger. Details of their fighting apparatus and even of the structure of their inner ears, have been developed by Dr. Merriam with collaboration of Dr. Chester Stock.

This tiger was an "acme" of offensive animal, specialized for attack probably upon sluggish powerful beasts with thick hides. He was about as big as modern tigers with body closer to the ground. The fore quarters were overemphasized, the hind quarters slender. This tiger was not built to run away.

"With small brain and powerful body," said Dr. Merriam, "and with ferocity born of both, this cat was more insistent on reaching and closing with its prey than probably any other predatory mammal. Its truculence is further suggested by the many evidences of disease resulting from injury and seen in elements of the skeleton and to a less extent in the skull.

"In consummating an attack the head would be drawn back by the powerful muscles lodged in the neck and attached to the occiput, while the lower jaw, moving through a wide arc, permitted the saber-like upper canine teeth to function as stabbing weapons."

One tooth found, although broken, was eight or nine inches long, indicating an original span of nearly a foot. The teeth had serrated borders, which Dr. Merriam said undoubtedly were used for tearing and ripping. Although other animals have developed saber teeth, none was backed by so "many coördinating structures as in this culminating stage of the cats."

A lion much larger than any known lion of the present was also found in the Rancho La Brea asphalt. There were pumas somewhat like modern forms and a wild cat practically identified with a California species.

Bishop Stewart Ordains the Rev. Oscar M. Langley

Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago yesterday ordained the Rev. Oscar Malcolm Langley, assistant at St. Chrysostom's church, 1424 North Dearborn street, to the priesthood. The Rev. Mr. Langley has accepted a call as pastor of Christ church, Bensonville, Minn. He will take up his new duties there at once. There again he will place himself under the leadership of Bishop Stephen E. Keeler of Minnesota former rector of St. Chrysostom's.

Edna May Oliver Stars in This Talkie.

"FANNY FOLEY, HERSELF."

Produced by Warner Brothers.
Directed by Melville Brown.
Presented at the Palace theater.

THE CAST.

Fanny Foley ..... Edna May Oliver
Seeley ..... Hobart Bosworth
Lenore ..... Helen Chandler
Teddy ..... John Darrow
Carmen ..... Rochelle Hudson
Lucy ..... Florence Roberts
Burns ..... Robert Emmett OConnor
Crosby ..... Harry O. Stubbs

Good morning!

Edna May Oliver's been made a star—and she deserves the honor—for this droll person with the equine grimaces that, unfailingly, send audiences into hysterics, is of the dust that stars are made of.

"Fanny Foley, Herself," Miss Oliver's first stellar vehicle, is an all colored, agreeably produced program picture that depicts a story from the pen of Juliet Wilbur Tompkins. Edna May is a knockout in the title rôle! She plays with humor, restraint, and a queer, gaunt dignity that is peculiarly her own, a popular vaudeville artiste who, by making herself grotesque, earns a handsome living for herself and her two fatherless daughters—and lives to see the girls ashamed of their mother. Fanny fixes that all right, but considerable water runs under the bridge before she succeeds in getting all values properly adjusted.

Rochelle Hudson is adorable as the slim, dark, warm hearted daughter. Helen Chandler plays successfully the frosty Lenore, built after the pattern of her aristocratic grandfather who had disowned his son when he took Fanny Foley to wife. Hobert Bosworth is believable as old Mr. Seeley and Florence Roberts does a nice job as Lucy, Fanny's comfortable, understanding, companion-maid. Situations and lines hold your interest intact.

The action is a bit soppy in a couple of places, but Edna May Oliver's technique glosses over all defects. This actress, like Marie Dressler, is in a class all by herself.

See you soon!

Mayor Reserves Box for Charity Play on Dec. 9

Mayor Cermak received a group of prominent Jewish women yesterday in his offices at the city hall. The mayor reserved a box for the B. M. Z. Junior revue, to be presented Dec. 9 at the Aragon ballroom. Proceeds from the show will go for the benefit of the Jewish Old People's home. Mrs. Moe Rosenberg headed the committee which called on the mayor.

THE STAGE

"THE VINEGAR TREE."

A farcical comedy by Paul Osborn; given at the Selwyn theater Nov. 16, 1931, with Mary Boland as star, under the management of Dwight Deere Wiman.

THE CAST.

Max Lawrence ..... Frederic Worlock
Augustus Merrick ..... H. Reeves-Smith
Winifred Mansfield ..... Jean Shelby
Louis ..... Walter Colligan
Laura Merrick ..... Mary Boland
Leone Merrick ..... Helen Brooks
Geoffry Cole ..... Alan Campbell

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THIS play of the strange botanical title, a tidbit from the past season on Broadway, came to the Selwyn theater last night to provide intelligent laughter for the so-called sophisticates. It is a bright, fantastic burlesque of the sexy ideas that have been knocking around in the minds and conversation of these same sophisticates for several years. It is, indeed, much like the light ironical skits that have made the New Yorker a popular magazine among the people who are afflicted with New Yorkish yearnings.

All the patter that passes for a "line" of worldliness at studio parties and high school sorority meetings is shrewdly used with satirical intent in the fluttering dialogue of "The Vinegar Tree." All the rubber stamped twaddle about the superiority of loose conduct, new style, overtight morals, old style, is merrily twaddled and twittered over again, tongue-in-cheek. For example, a comic situation of crisp value is developed out of the prevalent use of the word "virgin" as a term of contempt and an accusation of shame.

If I were sure that the great mass of alleged sophisticates would recognize this play as a satire of themselves, I would hail it as a work of decided moral value. As matters stand, however, I fear that they will merely enjoy it as a bit of clever impishness—"just too modern for words, my dear!"

"The Vinegar Tree" is, on the surface, one of those house party comedies in which the couples are shuffled several times with ensuing embarrassments, and finally find themselves paired off in a way that makes a happy ending. It is so much a house party play that it devotes a large portion of its second act to the parlor game called "Twenty Questions," or "Animal, Vegetable or Mineral."

However, it differs from its countless forerunners by having a snarling host who always is reminding his guests that the next train for town leaves at 9:40; and a hostess who is as irresponsible, irrelevant, daffy and generally flighty as a vinegar tree.

[You will have to take the word of the author about the habits of vinegar trees. I cannot testify as to the aptness of the symbol. For further information on this point, apply to the curator of botany at the Field museum—and if he never heard of the vinegar tree, mention the staghorn sumac.]

Mary Boland is the vinegar tree lady of this frolic. She gives a brilliantly overacted characterization of a dizzy and spectacular matron who can gush like a geyser, flutter like a sheet in the wind, and chatter like a cageful of cockatoos. Miss Boland is past-mistress of the trick of acting high and handsome fantastics of comedy, and here she has created a somewhat gaudy masterpiece. The extravagance of her style holds the play firmly in the key of farce.

The other members of the cast are adept, and therefore "The Vinegar Tree," as a performance, is a distinguished affair. H. Reeves-Smith, veteran of many comedies, puts his ingratiating past behind him and plays Miss Boland's husband with a magnificent grouch. Helen Brooks gets vivid reality into the rôle of the flapper who weeps in hysterical shame over her innocence.

Billy Bryant's show-boat company from the Ohio-Mississippi valley will come to the Studebaker theater next Sunday night with "Ten Nights in a Barroom" as a starter. It also threatens to give "Hamlet." . . . "The Weaker Sex," formerly called "Bundy," will be staged at the Cort theater Nov. 29. . . . Mme. Schumann-Heink will appear at the Grand Opera house Nov. 30 in "The Mikado," for one week only. . . . "Grand Hotel," with the New York cast, will begin a run at the Grand Opera house Tuesday night, Dec. 8.

Postal Workers Add $100,000 Relief Pledge

Pay $18,780 of That; Radio Stars Will Help.

A pledge of $100,000 from Chicago postoffice employés led contributions yesterday to the joint emergency relief fund. Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder delivered a check for $18,780, the first of six monthly installments on the pledge, to B. J. Mullaney, chairman of the public departments division of the relief drive.

Last year the postoffice employés raised an independent fund and carried on their own relief activities. Mr. Mullaney urged that other departments of the federal, state, city, and county governments join them this year in participating in the joint relief plan.

Their contributions and additional pledges of $14,100 received during the day raised the total pledged to the fund to $6,217,906.

Chicago radio stars, including many of nationwide reputation, will appear Jan. 8 in a performance at the Chicago Stadium for the relief fund.

J. Russell Forgan, chairman of the benefits division of the drive, announced that yesterday.

Members of the Chicago Broadcasters association had previously indicated their desire to assist in the relief work, and Sidney Strotz, president of the stadium corporation, offered the use of the giant hall for the benefit performance.

The details will be arranged by a committee appointed by Mr. Forgan, of which Niles Trammell, vice president of the National Broadcasting company, is chairman. Other members are Quin Ryan, director of W-G-N, The Tribune station; H. Leslie, Atlass of the Columbia Broadcasting system, Homer Hogan, Ernest Byfield, J. C. Stein, Morgan L. Eastman, William S. Hedges, and Mr. Strotz.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

The stars of contract bridge, so far as the declarations are concerned, are the major suits and every good player seeks a major declaration if it is at all playable. But when the partnership is unable to agree on a major it is very pleasant, indeed, to have a nice strong minor to rely on.

In yesterday's play-a-problem South dealt the following hands:

NORTH
♠—J,10,9,8
♥—8
♦—A,10,9

WEST
♠—A,K,Q,7,6,5
♥—None
♦—6,5,4

EAST
♠—4,3,2
♥—A,J,9,7,6,5,4,3
♦—3,2
♣—None

SOUTH (Dealer).
♠—None
♥—K,Q,10,2
♦—K,Q,J,8,7
♣—10,6,5,2

He opened the bid with one heart. He could have opened either the heart or the diamond. However, I prefer to bid a four card suit at the earliest opportunity if I am going to bid it at all. Holding South's hand, I would certainly want to bid the heart suit.

West overcalled with one spade and North, holding four high card tricks, made a jump shift game demand bid of three clubs. East could hardly be expected to refrain from showing his heart suit, particularly as his partner bid one spade, and so overcalled North's three clubs with three hearts. South (so he told me later) was undecided whether to support the clubs or to show his diamonds. It is a nice question. I believe, however, that the diamond bid has a shade the preference since a game demand desires information above anything else.

South bid four diamonds. West passed. North bid five diamonds, and the others all passed.

West opened the ♠ K, North played the 8, East the 2, and South trumped with the ♦ 7. South now led the ♦ 8, West played the 4, North the 9, and East the 2. Dummy returned the ♥ 8, East went up with the A, South played the ♥ 3, and West discarded the ♠ 5.

East now led the ♠ 4, dealer trumped with the ♦ J, West played the ♠ 6, and dummy the ♠ 9. South now led the ♥ 10, West discarded the ♠ 7, and dummy trumped with the ♦ A. East playing the ♥ 3.

Dummy now led the ♦ 10, East played the 3, South overtook with the Q, and West played the 5. Next South led the ♦ K, West playing the 6, dummy discarded the ♠ 10, and East the ♠ 3. South now led the ♥ K, West played the ♠ Q, dummy the ♣ 3, and East the ♥ 4.

And now for the final development of our old friend, the squeeze. South led the ♥ Q and West must choose between throwing his ♠ A or discarding a club. If West throws the ♠ A, dummy discards a small club and dummy's ♠ J and three high clubs are good. If, on the other hand, West discards a small club and keeps his ♠ A dummy will throw the ♠ J and the four clubs will all take. Either way South makes his bid of five diamonds and one extra. Without the squeeze, however, South can always make his five diamonds.

At one table where this hand was played the contract was defeated by an unusually brilliant defense by the player sitting West. Only a remarkable ability to read North and South's holdings from the bidding, combined with an exceedingly lucky guess, enabled West and East to stop the game.

At this table West opened a club, which East trumped. East then led back his ♥ A, which West trumped. West returned another club. East trumped it, and North and South were all through.

I don't know whether this play by West gave him a top score for the evening or not. He certainly deserved it.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Mixed Grill Secrets Yours at Guyon Hall

Tribune School West Side Branch Opens Today.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

THE green, cream and salmon kitchen which has turned out more than eighty food delicacies before the eyes of 40,000 women in the last two weeks was in its place on the stage of Guyon's Paradise ballroom, 4000 Washington boulevard, last night, waiting for the curtain to rise on the third session of The Tribune School of Cookery this afternoon.

Every frilly curtain was in place. So were the cabinets and white refrigerators and porcelain tables. In an improvised kitchen for the helpers backstage the pots and pans and mixing bowls selected for the preparation of today's recipes were in waiting and the shelves stored with foods.

Out on the ballroom floor thousands of chairs have been grouped ready for the 5,000 west side housewives who are to be the first day's guests. The temporary stage has been erected for the entertainers and the white uniforms with the white starched caps of the chefs de cuisine ready for the ushers. There are stacks and stacks of large business-like envelopes. These contain today's recipes and program and pamphlets which will be given to every housewife upon her arrival.

Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, known all over this country as a food expert and dietitian, conducts the school in cooperation with Mary Meade, Tribune home economics editor. She gives two lectures each afternoon, preparing on the stage some of her favorite recipes and giving the housewives the benefit of her knowledge and skill toward shortcuts to successful cooking. Mrs. Chitwood stole a few minutes from her last minute preparations to describe some of the recipes she will prepare today.

"When husbands taste the mixed grill that I'm going to show the women how to make tomorrow, they're going to ask for more," Mrs. Chitwood said. "Here's a recipe that is easy to make, and the flavor—well, listen to this:

"Veal chops dusted with salt and pepper, broiled with small sausage links, tomatoes, mushrooms, bacon and sweet potatoes. I'm not going to tell just how you do it now. You'll see tomorrow. Then I'm going to make a breakfast surprise, and cabbage delmonico, potato puffs, cheese sauce, sunset cake, Spanish steak, sunshine special, snowball salad and hot chicken ring.

"A word about the Spanish steak. It's another dish men will be particularly fond of because you use a nice tenderloin steak, macaroni, onion, green pepper, and tomatoes. Some of the dishes I'll make will be nice for a luncheon or bridge, and of course I'll show how to do some fancy decorating. That always makes a dish unusually attractive."

Mrs. Chitwood's opening lecture will follow fifteen minutes of entertainment by musical and dancing stars. She will be introduced by Miss Meade.

The program will start at 1:45 p. m., although the doors will be open long before that. Phil Maxwell will act as master of ceremonies. Frank Bennett will lead the women in community singing, with Mrs. Cathryn Bennett at the piano. The performers during the afternoon will include Delos Owen, W-G-N pianist; Sylvia Loder Stone, contralto; Emery Darcy, baritone; Gayle Hinton, collegiate blues singer, with Lester Podewell and Art McConnell, all of the Chicago conservatory, and the Cecille Barnett dancing students from the Chicago Musical college.

Wise Parent Avoids Being Adamant and May Reverse a Rule

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"Except" is one of the hardest worked words in the vocabulary of a writer about parents and children. No sooner do you set down a generalization about obedience, or eating, or keeping your word to your child, than your hair begins to stand on end when you think that perhaps some mother who is expecting perfection of her baby son or growing up daughter may take it in an absolute sense. So at once you drag out your old standby "except," to try to restore a balance of common sense.

Last week when the advice was written about sticking to your guns to prevent your child from developing the teasing habit, we hadn't space for every exception we wanted to list. When you say no to your child you should stick to it, of course, always—except! Except what? Except when? Except when there is a good reason for changing the "no" to a "yes." Nine times out of ten you must stick to your decision. The tenth time you may reverse it.

Suppose your girl or boy of 11 or 12 has a certain time for going to bed, and really needs lots of sleep. Then, suppose one night he says to you, "Can't I stay up late tonight, Ma?" and you, from habit, say "no." Then, suppose he begins to tease about it. "I don't see why I can't—other boys don't go to bed as early as I do," and so forth, until he winds up with, "There's a swell thing on the radio tonight beginning at 9 o'clock that I want to hear."

"Why didn't you say so in the beginning?" you ask him if you're reasonable, and "okay" the plea.

Or you may have a daughter who some evening is painting or drawing or writing plainly under inspiration. Her "Mother, please can't I finish before I go to bed?" should not always be met with refusal because of a rule that she shall be in bed at a certain hour. There are occasions that are exceptions and this may be one of them.

A rare visitor that the children especially enjoy may be the cause of another exception—or one more chapter in a book.

You must be firm and definite. But you don't have to be adamant. Knowing when to make the exceptions and when to reverse your own decisions is a sign of your wisdom and humanness.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

In the Detectives' Hands.

I work in an auto supply store. One day our best customer entered, slightly intoxicated. He explained that his car was on the corner and that he had run out of gas and wished me to refill the tank. We do not carry gasoline or oil, but since the fellow was in the condition that he was I went to the corner and stopped at the expensive car he had pointed out as his, and opened the door. No sooner had I done this when two serious looking gentlemen wheeled about in my direction. I thought nothing of this and went ahead to see what the gasoline gauge on the dashboard registered. I was surprised to see that there were 16 gallons of gas in the tank. Maybe something is wrong with the motor was my next thought. I had just put my foot on the starter when the mysterious gentlemen came running up and dragged me from the car.

"O, no, you don't," said one. He turned to the others and said: "I have never seen the likes of this kid. Of all the cars on the block, he tries to steal a detectives' car."

I never had been so embarrassed in my life. A crowd began to gather and I don't know why I didn't burst into tears. I asked the detectives to stop at the supply store. They did and matters were cleared up. Later I asked the intoxicated man where his car was. He told me on the corner two blocks north. After this I think I'll take no more orders from intoxicated people. A. R.

Sports Coats Observe Three-Quarter Length

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Sports styles for Palm Beach and other winter resorts have been getting the o. k. of Paris at Biarritz during the season just ended. The three-quarters length redingote received the heavy indorsement of the smartest members of the younger set, being worn impartially over sports dresses, suits, or knitted pajamas.

White is one of the preferred colors for the sports coat, particularly if it is made of tricot or camel hair. Brown, in any of the rusty tones, is also a chic choice, and it blends perfectly with the light reds and the bright greens that are the preferred shades of many sports frocks and suits. The r[illegible]ote in vivid king blue was worn effectively with white dresses by certain fashionables at Biarritz, and one or two women wore [illegible] sports coat over [illegible] white frocks.

The sports coat, whatever its color, is cut on the lines of the Paul Poiret coat shown in our sketch, with big revers and capacious pockets, with a neatly belted waistline and with a narrow lower part, so that the bit of skirt which shows below looks like a ruffle, since sports skirts are invariably wide around the bottom.

This coat is made of brown diagonal wool, belted with a brown leather belt, and trimmed with brown leather buttons. It is worn over a green knitted dress and has a scarf of brown and green knitted wool that is worn like an ascot tie.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Postpone Marriage.

"Dear Miss Blake: Went with a young man two months. He proposed. I don't love him. He says I'll learn to after a while. Please advise.

"MOLLIE."

Don't marry until you are sure of your love for the man.

Husband's Roving Eye Makes Wife Sign Herself "Disgusted"

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Varied and many are the trials of the modern wife [and her husband, it should be added in all fairness], but this seems to me one of the lightest forms. What is your reaction?

"Disgusted" is married to one of those individuals, as she explains, who can't "keep his mind and eyes off women." He is continually commenting on their appearance. When they are out, husband seems always on the lookout for some attractive woman, just so he can talk about her.

To date "Disgusted" has managed to hold her temper, but peace in the household is due for an early demise, from her threats. She says she is not jealous. [Ed. Note—Did you ever know a woman who admitted she was?] She thought of retaliating with the same tactics, but that seems too cheap and childish. What makes her sore is to hear other women being admired all the time, and nary a word of praise for the immediate one.

Well, that last phrase has a sting in it, all of our sex will agree. The man lacks technique, it is true. If he would slip a good big one, every now and then, to "Disgusted" and blame her attractiveness for making him conscious of other women——

That's just a hint for the men who can't keep their eyes from following a neat silhouette. If you must look, do for peace sake, give your wife the first long, admiring glance. Then everything will be forgiven you—maybe.

But speaking as woman to woman, isn't the general reason for all this beautifying that's going on among our sex to—well, to catch the coveted glance? Aren't you a party to the wandering male eye, and you, and you? And isn't it enough for your vanity that you draw the eye? You go home singing that all was not spent in vain, and that's about all the damage you have in mind.

Personally, I think women are silly to raise a fuss over an eye that must drink in its quota of feminine charm. There are so many good lookers on the street, these days. So long as the man is rigging you out in all the glory he can afford, why not let him have his fun? It's a pretty harmless vice, if you don't exaggerate its importance. Take it as a compliment to your sex and to you, his inspiration. Better take it that way, anyway. It's the most comfortable.

GIRL'S DRESS.

This smart frock with a prettily shaped yoke and a peplum will be certain to win instant approval from the younger generation. A wool challis print in rich brown tones with vivid red for the tab collar and cuff bands, also plain red for the belt made the original. Flecked wool voile and sheer worsteds are smart materials.

The pattern, 3291, comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully], for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, New York City.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

Try New Coiffure Just for Fun of It, Says Antoinette

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The woman said, as she seated herself in the adjoining booth: "I just stuck my hair up this way because I knew I was coming over here, and John said: 'Why don't you wear it that way? It's most becoming. Aren't men the nuts? I think it is awful.'

"No," responded the salon assistant, "I think he's right. You caught just the right line. It is becoming."

So, mebbe papa knows best, too, sometimes, although the poor dears will never be led to suspect it by his better half.

But about this coiffure business. You can't just go on twisting it up in the same old way, or brushing it out in the same old way. You must try a new line, just by way of injecting a bit of new life into the old head, as well as the old girl.

Did you ever see so many suggestions afoot for hair dressing? I never did. Given a few inches in length in the back, you can swirl it over to one side or the other, leave it neat, or let a rakish curl tickle the neck behind and below the ear. Or you can try a tinier pencil roll across the back, although those rolls give a square headed look that is only successful on the very slender necked girl. You can divide your head into wave and curl combinations. That is, the sides may be left long and loosely waved, with ringlets finishing off the back of the neck.

Incidentally, the one note that sounds loudest in coiff commands is to have that back hair raised higher on the neck than you've been wearing it. The better to tuck under the hats, my dear. Some one advises the side lengths to reach a line on a level with the mouth, the back to be a bit higher.

The chief thing, however, at the moment, is to realize that there may be more youth and beauty in that hair of yours than your present mode of dressing it tells the world. Get yourself a few illustrations from magazines, set yourself down before the dressing table, and see if you can evolve a surprise for John when he gets home.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Veteran's Wife Asks Aid.

"The government is sending my husband to rehabilitation school and I must support my family with my salary. It isn't sufficient to buy all the things we need because there are five children to care for and my husband needs so many things at school. Do you think you could get us some warm clothing? The girls, 11 and 8, are especially in need of underwear and shoes, the boys, 11 and 6, have no warm trousers or shoes. The baby girl, 20 months old, needs everything except dresses. My husband needs a suit, size 37. If you can get these for us it will mean so much help to us.

"Mrs. B. F."

An ailing husband and a large family to support have provided this woman with a greater burden than she can possibly shoulder. Will you make things a little easier for her by sending any clothing you no longer want?

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

O. C.: MASSAGING OF THE scalp is not as effective as brushing the hair, but it is an excellent practice to acquire. It lacks the advantage of removing dirt and grime that brushing has. However, it stimulates the circulation, which is helpful.

Y. B.: WHEN ON A DIET LEAN meats are allowed. Lean fowl and fish may be taken, too. Among the lean meats you have beef, lamb, mutton, veal, liver, meat balls, corned beef, and sweetbreads. Chicken and turkey are lean fowl.

"YOU, YOU & YOU SEE THIS TRULY GREAT PRODUCTION" wrote Rob Reel, American—

—And RKO, for the first time in its history, adds its PERSONAL RECOMMENDATION. Like all of Chicago's critics, we know this is a tremendous picture—fearless, powerful, almost shocking in its reality—yet great entertainment!

"ARE THESE Our CHILDREN"

"The best younger generation, jazz age picture to be produced—

"IT GETS YOU!" said Mae Tinee of the Tribune.

"Dreadfully convincing story of one boy's fate, but—

"NOT A PREACHMENT" said Genevieve Harris of the Post...

SYNOPSIS.

It was Kit Lenoure's twenty-sixth birthday. She'd worked four years as receptionist in a London family hotel and she felt herself in a groove.

INSTALLMENT II.

KIT GETS HER CHANCE.

Three years had gone by since Kit had seen Theo Sable. They had been years. It was the first year she had been at th Gate House hotel. He and his mother had stayed there for a few weeks. They had been on a trip home from Africa. She and Theo had fallen in love at first sight. It had been a flame, a fierce happiness in which one wanted to drown oneself. Theo, handsome as a young god, brown and strong, masterful and tender. She remembered now, as she thought of those days, how her lips had burned under his kisses, how they had walked through the streets of London, exchanging their passionate vows, and sat hand in hand in the parks, and drunk coffee in tea shops, that tasted like the nectar of the gods. How she had bribed the housekeeper, not the present one, to look after his room and give him the best arm-chair in the hotel and change his mattress for one of the new ones, and made special friends with his chambermaid to smuggle in flowers that she had bought, and inspired the chef, who would do anything for her, to pay special attention to the dishes that were served at his table. All such dear, silly nonsense! But it had made her life glow like a rose!

Then his mother had moved and taken a flat. They still met; he still made love to her. But there was a change. His mother ruled his life. She had known that from the first. Mrs. Sable was a widow and he was her only sons. Mothers are so terribly powerful. Once he had left the hotel, Kit felt he was slipping away from her.

"I suppose you haven't thought much about making a change?"

One day there was a scene. She had gone to the flat to have tea with him. His mother came in unexpectedly. She had a charming manner and hinted harshly on Kit in the most beautiful way. Manlike, her son did not take them in. The girl's pride flashed back in furious indignation. She understood. She was not good enough for Theo Sable. She was a clerk in a hotel. She made out the bills that Mrs. Sable paid.

It dragged on a little. She and Theo met outside. But it was not the same. His mother had done her mischief. He begged Kit to marry him in secret, but she indignantly refused.

All of a sudden, they went back to Africa. She did not see him before he left. He sent a telegram.

He wrote a few times from Kenya. He was bad at writing, but he protested his devotion. He would never change. He would come back for her. Unfortunately, he was entirely dependent on his mother. But he was going to make good on his own. And never would there be any woman in his life. She must wait for him. He would come.

She answered his letters at first; but her pride and her reserve would not let her say what was in her heart. She realized that now. Her pride was an agony. It was she who stopped the correspondence. It seemed so useless. His mother had triumphed; she had got him back.

But Kit had not forgotten him. She knew that now. She had put the memory of those days right out of her life. She had carried on on the surface as if Theo Sable had never existed. But he had been there all the time, in her heart. No good pretending any more. Now that unknown woman broadcaster had made her take a good look at herself. That was what she really wanted—Theo Sable. They loved each other. They were made for each other. His mother had come between them, and Kit's own pride had allowed her to lose him.

Of course, he had loved her. She saw his deep brown eyes alight; she heard his voice talking beautiful nonsense; she thrilled as he took her passionately in his arms. They were lovers from the moment they met.

Somewhere out in Africa, that mysterious land, he was carrying on his existence without her. And here, in the heart of this roaring city, she was making believe that she was living, although he was not there. But it was not real. She was sure he had not forgotten her. Neither of them was complete without the other. She had been a fool; all these last three years she had been only half alive.

Now she knew what she wanted. But, to go out and get it? Ah, that was another matter!

A pained little smile hovered on Kit's sweet lips, dark red as an old fashioned Damascus rose. That was where the lecturing lady fell down. She hadn't told her hearers how to go out and get what they wanted when it happened to be something impossible.

Now Kit was restless. All these carefully hidden feelings, stirred up, burned and parched her like a fever. She could not sit still. She dressed herself to go out. She would take a stiff walk across the park to Bayswater and call on Miss Dacre at her home and tell her the gossip of the hotel. Miss Dacre would be pleased and it would be something to do.

Kit Lenoure always thought Saturday was her lucky day.

On this Saturday Mr. Craig arrived. He was one of the colonial visitors who came regularly to the hotel year after year. He came from Kenya colony and had been in his day a noted big game shot and a pioneer settler in equatorial Africa. He was a man of sixty, young for his age. Kit and he were great friends. The girl had a feeling of real affection for him. There was something so sincere in his burnt face, with the sandy mustache, the light eyes, and the humorous mouth. He was a bachelor, and apparently had made a small fortune out of real estate and building schemes.

Kit met Mr. Craig in the hall on the Sunday morning, just as she was going out to spend the day at home. It was a stormy October day, and in her cigar brown belted raincoat and little helmet, like an airwoman's, she was trim and snug against the weather.

"Could you spare a few minutes, Miss Lenoure?" asked Mr. Craig. "I would like a little chat with you. Will you come up to my sitting room?"

"Yes, Mr. Craig," she answered, more surprised by his manner than by the request. There was something slightly mysterious about him.

"I suppose you haven't thought much about making a change?" he said her, when they were in his room, which was much more homely than most hotel sitting rooms, with rather shabby, old fashioned furniture, flowers, and a bright coal fire burning.

"Changing my job, you mean, Mr. Craig? No, I can't say I have." It was queer, but the very thought set up a tingling of excitement.

"Well, I've got one to offer you," Mr. Craig went on. "I want you to consider it very carefully. It's like this—in Soydoret in Kenya colony—that's the town where I've made my headquarters for the last three years, the best hotel wants just such a girl as you. I'll tell you roughly what's been wrong with the Grand Africa—that's its name. It was started and run by some splendid pioneers, a Mr. and Mrs. Uniacke. They owned it and made it a big success, one of the best hotels in Africa. Then, because of Mrs. Uniacke's health and other family reasons, they sold it, and a company bought it and put in a manager, who let it down badly and took to drink and created a bit of scandal. So it got a bad name, and now I'm interested in it with two other men, and we're pulling it together. We've got a decent fellow for a manager, a fine cook and a good all around staff. And what we want now is you."

Living Pictures Tonight Portray Noted Beauties

At last we are able to publish the news of our own society beauties who are to portray the international beauties in Cecil Beaton's "Book of Beauty" to be given in Tableaux Vivants tonight at Orchestra hall for the benefit of Olivet institute.

Eleanor Holden is to pose as Edith Sitwell, not in a coffin as rumor has it that Mr. Beaton's picture of the poetess is posed, but lying on a marble floor with angels hovering above, more like a Gothic saint than a corpse. Mr. Beaton explained at the dress rehearsal last evening. The lovely young Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson is to portray the oriental beauty, Anna May Wong, and Mrs. Stevenson's sister, Mrs. Robert Pirie, is to be the exotic Tilly Losch of cinema fame.

Greta Garbo will be portrayed by Mrs. Volney Foster, Marlene Dietrich by Miss Marjorie Horton, Marchesa Casati by Mrs. Walter Baepcke, Lady Oxford by Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Tallulah Bankhead by Mrs. Thorne Donnelley, Miss Baba Beaton by Mrs. John Wentworth, Ina Claire by Mrs. Lloyd Laflin, Lady Diana Cooper by Mrs. J. Andrews King, Mrs. Vernon Castle [now Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin of Chicago] by Miss Jane Schuttler, Marion Davies by Mrs. William Mitchell Blair.

Lady Lavery will be portrayed by Mrs. Shreve Badger, Mrs. Clifford Rodman, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, and Mrs. Laurance H. Armour. Mr. Beaton's picture of Lady Lavery does not portray the lady as four headed, but does give four views of her.

Mrs. Howard Linn, indefatigable chairman of the committee in charge of the benefit, last night changed her dinner party for Ruth St. Denis, who will dance tonight, from her Cedar street residence to Orchestra hall so that the rehearsal could run as long as was necessary, and it was a gay party that assembled under the stage for a buffet supper. A carnival atmosphere was given the party by the appearance of the "beauties," for in many of Mr. Beaton's pictures only the profiles are visible, and so, of course, in these cases only one side of the face is made up. Seeing Mrs. Foster, for instance, with one black eye was somewhat of a shock until one realized why the onesided makeup.

An interesting entr'acte feature of tonight's performance, which will start at 9 o'clock, will be the serving of supper in the foyer by a group of ten young men, dressed as French waiters.

Society Women Busy with Shops to Aid Poor.

It isn't the fault of the women who conduct the several shops that are run for charity's sake if society doesn't do its Christmas shopping early, for most of the shops are having special Christmas sales at the residences of some of the women interested in the charities these days.

Yesterday Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen opened her house at 1430 Astor street for a sale of the lovely things made at the Eli Bates Settlement house and sold at the shop at 124 East Delaware place. Mrs. Bowen's daughter, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, and Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins and Mrs. Charles Daniel Frey, who comprise the committee in charge of the shop, were selling at the sale yesterday, assisted by Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr., Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Louise de Koven Phelps and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson.

Tomorrow the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins will have a sale at Mrs. Waller Borden's, 1020 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Goodspeed is to act as saleswoman at this sale also, her associates to be Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. William G. Hibbard, Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, Mrs. Nevins Johnson, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson.

Some of the younger matrons, including Mrs. Franklin G. Clement, Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr., Mrs. Harlan Eldred, Mrs. Stuart Templeton, Mrs. Robert Babcock, Mrs. Richardson Revell, Mrs. Randolph Owsley, Mrs. Charles F. Clarke Jr., Mrs. W. David Owen, Mrs. James R. Addington, and Mrs. W. Calhoun Smith, and Miss Barbara Poole and Miss Jane Hardin will act as saleswomen at the Christmas toy shop to be maintained in Lake Forest for a week, starting tomorrow, by the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids. The Aids are giving a tea this afternoon at the Chicago Lighthouse for the provisional members.

Friends of Opera to Meet; Several Stars Will Sing.

Also on today's social calendar are the annual meeting of the Needlework and Textile guild of the Art institute, the first meeting of the season of the Friends of Opera, the luncheon of the Council on Foreign Relations, and the tea to be given by the Arthur T. Aldises and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rapp at 100 East Chicago avenue to open the Rapps' new art school. The Needlework guild meeting will be held at 3:30 o'clock at Mrs. Potter Palmer's residence, 1301 Astor street, and the Friends of Opera meeting will be in the Drake ballroom, starting at 3:30 also. Herbert Witherspoon will talk and Mme. Noel Eadie, M. Jan Kiepura, and John Charles Thomas will give a musical program.

The Council on Foreign Relations' luncheon will be in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house, and the speaker will be Dr. Harold G. Moulton, whose timely subject will be "Japan and the Manchurian Crisis."

The Alumnae Association of Ferry Hall is sponsoring a bridge-tea today at the school in Lake Forest.

Miss Elsa Armour and W. Irving Osborne Jr., whose wedding on Dec. 2 will be a social event of the winter, made a pilgrimage yesterday that was of great importance to them, no doubt—to the marriage license bureau. The lovely young daughter of the A. Watson Armours gave her age as 19 and her husband-to-be said his was 26.

Mrs. Randall Morgan of Philadelphia will arrive this morning to be the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers. Mrs. Chalmers will have a dinner and box party at the opera tomorrow evening for Mrs. Morgan, who has visited here before and has other Chicago friends.

Lake Forest News and Some About Chicago, Too.

Mrs. Horace H. Martin, who usually spends the winters in New York and the summers in Lake Forest, will be among those missing from that suburb next summer for she has rented her house to the Buford Porters for two years, and she is planning to go abroad next spring. Apropos of Lake Forest; the canine aristocracy of that exclusive suburb, has a new member, a dachshund belonging to the Duncan Hodges. Mrs. George P. Fisher and her son, George F., will not come into town, as is their custom, this winter, but will remain in Lake Forest. They will move, however, from their large house at 660 North Sheridan road to the smaller one on their estate.

Among the recent returned travelers are Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Crane II., of 2350 Lincoln Park West, who landed Saturday from an European jaunt; Mrs. Wilbur F. Goodspeed of 2440 Lake View avenue, also back from Europe, and Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson of 1200 Lake Shore drive, who returned yesterday from New York. Mrs. Wolcott Blair of 2700 Lake View avenue has gone to New York to spend about ten days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Yuille.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster of 2704 Lake View avenue is leaving today for the east to attend to some garden club business and to visit her son, Edward, who is a student at Yale. Mr. Brewster will join his wife and son in New York for Thanksgiving.

The Evanston Junior Leaguers are busy making plans and selling tickets for the football game to be played at Dyche stadium, on Saturday of this week, between the Evanston High school and the New Trier teams, the proceeds to be used by the Junior League for its various branches of charity. Mrs. William Stahl is chairman of the committee in charge.

Word comes from Northampton, Mass., that Ann Parker, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Frank Parker of Fort Sheridan, has been placed on the committee for the Smith college dinner-dances at the Hotel Northampton this winter.

Golden Cards Contest Rules All Are Simple

Twenty large hotels, dozens of clubwomen, many clubs and other organizations are actively working for the success of the Golden Card tournament, to be held all over Chicagoland the evening of Dec. 3.

Bridge players sending in their entry fees are assured that more than three-fourths of the gross proceeds will go to two worthy relief organizations—the joint emergency relief fund and the Hungry School Children fund. Only the actual cost of cards and printing will be charged to expense.

The needs of these funds are great. The goal of the emergency relief fund is $8,800,000, and it is still far short of that amount.

There need be no misunderstanding about the manner of play. Charles True Adams, TRIBUNE bridge expert, will speak tomorrow (Wednesday) evening on the contest over W-G-N at 9 to 9:10 p. m. He will speak later at intervals, and on the evening of the tournament, at 8:15, will give a last moment resume. Play begins at 8:30 o'clock.

The rules:

1. Play will be in four deals, with a pre-arranged pack of special cards for each deal.
2. Cards are distributed by the four players in turn, each acting as dealer for one hand.
3. Bidding and play is conducted in the usual manner. Either contract or auction may be played.
4. Scores are to be placed on the official score blank accompanying each set of four packs of cards.
5. Total score for the four deals determines whether East-West or North-South team at each table wins. The winning team takes the Golden Cards, the specially decorated trophy packs.
6. Scores should be sent to the Golden Card editor of THE TRIBUNE, who will invite players whose scores represent most nearly perfect play to participate in a final contract tournament to be held later. Trophies will be awarded the winners of the final.

Delegates from all parts of the state will gather in Chicago tomorrow for the annual convention of the Illinois League of Women Voters at the Wiedermere hotel. The convention will discuss taxes and tax machinery.

Iva Pacetti Again Triumphs in Opera; Other Musical Events

BY EDWARD MOORE.

IVA PACETTI, whose debut as Aida the other night became an occasion for loudly expressed approval by Civic opera patrons, confirmed her position last night by singing the part of Leonora in "Il Trovatore." She would seem to have been sent to this earth with the mission of singing Verdian rôles, and singing Verdi as she does, there can be little argument about her singing other music also. Her voice is a delight of full toned beauty, she has good looks in plenty. They never yet hurt the career of an operatic soprano, and she is instinctive with the art of making her characters alive and credible. She will go far in opera.

Another newcomer in last night's cast was Coe Glade, and there are only two points to make comments on Miss Pacetti inapplicable to her. One is that her voice is contralto, and the other is that the rôle of Azucena does not permit her to display her good looks. Her singing was a marvel of dramatic brilliancy, and her personality was eye filling as her voice was ear filling.

Because of the length of the opera, the prelude of "Tristan and Isolde" will begin at 7:45 o'clock tonight instead of 8.

There was a surprise in the two-piano recital of Wiener and Doucet at the Playhouse yesterday afternoon. Coming to Chicago for the first time, and appearing under the auspices of the Musicians Club of Women, they apparently have no first names in their professional capacity. They need none.

The surprise came in the middle of the program. They were discovered to be brilliant pianists with an expert sense of ensemble, and arrangers with liberal ideas of what constitutes entertaining two-piano music. A Bach-Vivaldi Concerto in A minor, rather more modern in manner than either Bach or Vivaldi ever thought possible, began the program and then came a group of dances.

The Woman's Symphony orchestra, a more capable playing organization than it has ever been, and for the first time 100% feminine in makeup, began its sixth season at the Goodman theater last night under the direction of Ebba Sundstrom.

The assisting guest artist was Richard Czerwonky, who appeared as soloist in the first American performance of his violin concerto, and as conductor of his "Episode." A brilliant violinist, he is a composer who believes with considerable reason that effective and interesting music can still be written without recourse to modern dissonances.

Food Talk

I remember reading a story when I was a child about a little girl who was farmed out to pick cranberries, and how she wandered around in the wet, dragging them off the bushes like raspberries, with a sort of a Simon Legree standing over her. Whoever wrote that story evidently had more of a flair for pathos than truth, because cranberry farming is quite a science.

To begin with, the vines are almost as temperamental as young orange trees. They are planted in marshes (in the east they call them bogs) that are divided into sections by ditches, and these marshes must be as flat as possible. This is because they are flooded for frost, and if one part of the marsh is higher than the rest it takes that much more precious water to cover it. Wisconsin rates third in the cranberry industry and, while it is true that Massachusetts produces ten times as many cranberries, the Wisconsin crop this year was about 48,000 barrels, no small amount. Wood county leads the state with 862 acres in 22 marshes. There are 2,100 acres in cranberry marsh in the whole state and 80 per cent of the crop is handled through one association.

CRANBERRY SAUCE ROLL.

2 eggs 3 tbsp. cold water
1 cup sugar 1-2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder ½ tsp. vanilla
1 cup flour

Beat the eggs and sugar till thick; add the water. Sift the flour, salt, and baking powder together twice and add to the egg mixture. Add the vanilla. Line a shallow pan with greased paper and spread the batter on it evenly. Bake 12 minutes in a quick oven (450 degrees F.). Turn out onto brown paper sprinkled with sugar. Remove the paper and spread the cake with warm tan minute cranberry sauce (I gave you this recipe some time ago). Roll from the long side, and dust with powdered sugar.

4 times this summer, Bristol-Myers happened to run duplicate ads in Liberty and other weeklies. 4 times the Liberty ad stopped more men and women per dollar cost than its duplicates in other weeklies ... stopped up to 182% more persons.

If you think of copy first and media second, these 4 exhibits may shock you.

In each exhibit the ads are alike. Save that they ran in different magazines.

Yet that difference showed ...

1. A difference of 35 per cent in the effectiveness of the Ipana Tooth-paste ad, top left ...
2. A difference of 40 to 173 per cent in the effectiveness of the first Ingram's Shaving Cream ad, top right ...
3. A difference of 36 to 182 per cent in the effectiveness of the second Ingram's Shaving Cream ad, bottom left ...
4. A difference of 25 per cent in the effectiveness of the Sal Hepatica ad, bottom right ...

And in every case—4 times in a row—that margin of greater effectiveness was given by Liberty, America's best read weekly.

How the Facts Were Found

Last July and August, Dr. George Gallup of Northwestern University, and his staff, called on 15,000 homes.

Wherever they found a current copy of one of the 4 mass weeklies—in 6 cities, for 6 consecutive issues—they leafed through the magazine with the reader, checking every editorial item that had been (a) seen or (b) read.

Because this method of magazine evaluation was the first attempt to hurdle editorial judgments, circulation volume or circulation policies—being a tabulation of what readers actually see and read—the Association of National Advertisers officially observed the work in 3 of the 6 cities visited.

The findings in each of the 6 cities agree substantially with the 4 Bristol-Myers results. A summary shows that, unit-for-unit of circulation, the average page ad in Liberty was seen and remembered by:

23% more persons than in Weekly "X"
112% more persons than in Weekly "Y"
48% more persons than in Weekly "Z"

And Liberty's Post-Depression cost—down with commodity prices, 35% since 1926—makes this greater effectiveness available with larger schedules, at no greater expense.

Why Ads MUST Do Better in Liberty

Ads were found more successful in Liberty too often to be an accident. And it couldn't have been a question of bulk ... others of the magazines ran fewer pages than Liberty during many of these summer test weeks.

There are 3 definite reasons why ads MUST do better in Liberty:

1. Liberty is the big Post-War weekly ... the only weekly built to order to fit the changed mental habits and cultural tastes of the people. It selects its famous authors and artists for their ability to hit dramatically concisely, simply, in tune with the times which are as different from Pre-War days as Ford is from Gandhi.
2. This fast-paced editorial matter is offered in a fast-paced mechanical make-up: Compact page size. Every story complete in consecutive pages. Every ad next to live matter, rather than buried next to hidden runovers.
3. Desirability of this new publishing formula is proved by more men and women asking for "Liberty" every week than any other magazine in America. Liberty needs no expensive subscription activities to get circulation ... 99 per cent of its circulation is copy-by-copy purchase ... When 99 per cent of your ads enter homes which bought that issue to read it right away ... is it any wonder that you get greater value than when only 15 per cent, perhaps, enter with the same welcome?

Many of the country's leading business executives have already seen full details of the 6 Gallup tests. Entire merchandising and advertising departments have had group meetings to discuss them. Tradition-free Treasurers, Presidents and General Managers, primarily concerned with new routes to profits, have taken sudden interest in their advertising plans, acted with dollars-and-cents contracts on these First Facts in the sea of advertising sentimentalities and generalities.

You, too, are invited to write for your copy. It will be presented by a Liberty representative. Address Liberty, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

BIG 10 CHARITY PAIRINGS GRIEVE ILL. U., MICHIGAN

Wilson, Yost Wanted Game.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Those who were surprised that Michigan and Northwestern, which tied for the Big Ten football championship last year, were not matched in the charity football schedule for Nov. 28 will be interested in knowing how the games were arranged by the powers of athletics at the special meeting Sunday.

Fielding H. Yost, director at Michigan, in a statement last night issued at Ann Arbor was quoted as saying that Michigan voted against the schedule as adopted as we wanted to play Northwestern at Soldiers' field in Chicago."

T. L. Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern, hastened to add that Northwestern was willing to meet Michigan and that he did not favor the charity set of games which was approved.

Best Revenue Games.

The charity games for Nov. 28 are: Purdue and Northwestern at Soldiers' field; Wisconsin and Michigan at Ann Arbor, and Ohio state and Minnesota at Minneapolis. These games, the directors said at the time, would produce a greater revenue for charity than any other combination. It was learned authoritatively last night that six directors voted for this set of games and that none of the six was Mr. Yost or Mr. Wilson. It was reported, however, that a straw vote preceded the official vote on the schedule.

Two other schedules were proposed. One set of games was:

Purdue vs. Ohio State; Michigan vs. Northwestern; Wisconsin vs. Minnesota.

The other rematched the teams as follows:

Minnesota vs. Northwestern; Ohio State vs. Michigan; Purdue vs. Wisconsin.

Ohio Eager to Play N. U.

Sam Willaman, coach of Ohio State, expressed the opinion before the directors that his team wanted to meet Northwestern for a second time. Ohio had the first game, 16 to 0. It also is reported that no director took the floor to argue in favor of the set of games which included Michigan vs. Northwestern, although both Mr. Yost and Mr. Wilson said they were willing to meet.

After the directors had adjourned, Yost is said to have criticized the schedule adopted, believing that Northwestern and Michigan should have been matched. He did not, however, advance this opinion before the directors, but made a general offer for Michigan to play any team.

There was no vote taken on any schedule other than the one which was adopted.

Purdue Is Satisfied.

Purdue, naturally, favored a game with Northwestern. If the Boilermakers defeat Indiana this Saturday, a victory over Northwestern would give them a tie for the Big Ten title. Even if defeated by Indiana, Purdue might shove Northwestern into a tie with one or two other teams.

If Ohio State beats Illinois and then conquers Minnesota it would be in line for a share in the title, and so would Michigan, provided it wins from Minnesota Saturday and then whips Wisconsin. This is based on a Purdue triumph over Northwestern and the belief that Northwestern will win from Iowa this week.

AWARD CHICAGO U. S. DECATHLON TRIALS JUNE 24

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Amateur Athletic union plodded through arrangements for its 1932 sports events, sharply criticized the use of nicknames to describe women athletes and wound up an otherwise harmonious session of the 43d annual convention today in a debate over redistricting.

The track and field and swimming committees of the American Olympic association, also meeting here, virtually completed the recommendations they will submit to the United States Olympic executive committee at New York on Nov. 29.

Final trials for membership on the American decathlon team in the Olympic games at Los Angeles next year would be held in Chicago June 24 and 25 at a field to be selected, under the recommendation of the track and field committee, which already has recommended allotment of the other preliminary events.

Two New Associations.

The committee also decided to suggest that the 1932 track and field championships of the I. C. A. A. A. A. and the National Collegiate Athletic association, which will qualify competitors for the final Olympic tryouts at Stanford university, adopt metric measurements to conform with Olympic distances.

The swimming committee asked that the women's final tryouts in swimming and diving be awarded to New York City and that the men's diving and water polo finals be held in or near Los Angeles.

Two new associations, Minnesota and Wisconsin, were created. The states hitherto have been included in the Central A. A. U. organization.

Among the cities bidding for the 1932 convention are Cincinnati, Chicago, and Wichita, Kas. The award will be made at the closing session tomorrow along with the adoption of dates and places of the annual national championships and election of executive officers and trustees for the next year.

Frank W. Blankley of Chicago, chairman of the swimming committee, was announced as the manager of both the men's and women's swimming teams at the Olympic games in Los Angeles July 30 to Aug. 14.

New Definition of Amateur.

The swimming committee met in conjunction with the national convention of the Amateur Athletic union which offered a new definition of an amateur athlete.

"Those who engage in sports solely for the pleasure, physical, mental, or social benefit they derive therefrom and to whom sports is nothing more than an avocation," was substituted in a section of the union's constitution to replace the word "amateur."

One of twenty-seven swimming records claimed by Miss Helene Madison, America's swimming marvel, was among those disallowed today in the union's consideration of 144 new marks.

The record in question, 110 yards, time of 1 minute 7 1-10 seconds, was unrecognized because the distance is not listed as a standard event.

Co-champions in sports events sponsored by the A. A. U. may wear medals half of gold and half of silver. The idea was advanced to eliminate added competition to decide the first place award in case of a tie.

Fred L. Steers of Chicago, chairman of the women's track and field committee of the American Olympic association, was ordered to draft an amendment providing that in case of a tie the medals be cut and the gold spliced with silver and bronze in case of a three way deadlock.

Loslos Pins Calza with Body Slam at Garden

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Jim Londos, heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, threw George Calza of Italy with a body slam in 52 minutes 49 seconds of a finish match in Madison square garden tonight. A crowd of 7,000 saw the match.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

CHARITY FOOTBALL.

CONSIDERING the many problems involved, the schedule of post-season charity football games for Big Ten teams probably is the most satisfactory that could be arranged. Each one of the four programs offers what in advance promises an interesting struggle.

Of course, Northwestern and Michigan would have been what in sport lingo we call a "natural." It would have attracted a large crowd either in Ann Arbor or in Chicago. Neither eleven wanted to play away from home, but that was not the determining factor. If the Purple and Wolverines, two star attractions, met, it left the remainder of the chart wabbly in spots.

It will be interesting to note the attendance and receipts. Attendance, in our opinion, will be governed by contest attraction and not by charity attraction. The time has gone by when people will attend sport events simply because the receipts go to worthy causes. Such exhibitions have been worked to death, both with sincere and with insincere motives. There must be a show to draw a crowd.

The fact that these charity games will count in the conference rating makes them more important. Thus Northwestern, whose title seemed assured after it downed Minnesota, although it required a horseshoe to beat fighting Indiana, now must vanquish Purdue or a whole season's effort is lost. Similarly, the Boilermakers, if they escape the Hoosiers Saturday, have the opportunity of the season before them. Incidentally, Purdue is on Northwestern's regular schedule next fall.

If the anticipated $300,000 is realized for charity from all four programs, The Wake will think it a remarkably good showing so late in the year.

The Fighting Irish.

Saturday week I went to see
The Fighting Irish fight,
And since I've seen them do their stuff,
I know they've been named right.
They're Irish all from Ireland,
You'll know it by each name,
So they call them Fighting Irish
Down there at Notre Dame.
Melinkovich, he came from Cork,
Schwartz came from County Down,
While Jaskwhich came from Ulster
And Krause from Dublin town.
Young Wunsch was born in Limerick,
Kozak in Tipperary,
Sheeketski in Killarney grew
And Kosky came from Kerry.
Krusiec, Wilucki, and Koken,
And Vyzral, so they say,
Are natives of Kilkenny
And Schrenker of Galway.
Sure they are Fighting Irish,
You can tell it by each name,
And they fought like sin for Ireland
Down there at Notre Dame.

OAK PARK BOY'S INJURY CALLED SPINAL FRACTURE

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 16.—(AP)—A back injury sustained in the University of Rochester-Clarkson game Saturday by Capt. Barney Smith of Oak Park, Ill., was diagnosed today at Strong Memorial hospital as a fracture of the spinal processes.

Smith, who has been quarter back of the Rochester Yellow Jackets for three seasons, was carried from the field in the third quarter.

Physicians said he would be at least two weeks in the hospital and were reluctant to state whether the injury would necessitate his complete withdrawal from athletics.

Minneapolis Ball Club Chiefs Silent on Bush

HONK HONK! BANG BANG! AND FIVE GEESE HANG LOW

BY BOB BECKER.

Lunch at 2 p. m., a mile ride in an old truck, a few seconds of fast shooting, and at 2:30 p. m. five Canadian geese were hanging in camp. This was the double-quick shooting experience that we had last week only an hour and forty-five minutes' automobile ride from Chicago's loop. It is a good illustration of how the wild geese are scattered over the prairies around Chicago and also how a bright green field of rye is a strong attraction to the vagabonding honkers which are loafing around northern Illinois, enjoying mild weather and free meals.

Our hurry-up goose shoot took place at Frank Collins' prairie shooting preserve at Morris, Ill. Collins has a 1400-acre stretch of old Illinois prairie country dotted with a number of natural ponds and sloughs where the mallards, teal and pintails can be found at this time of the year.

Uses Live Decoys.

At the north end of this big open field covered with high grass he put in a small field of rye, a pen holding ten live goose decoys and a small blind.

When we arrived at Collins' hunting camp around 1 p. m. we received the report that 15 or 16 geese had dropped out of the sky, the first flock to show around the rye field. They were having a high old time pulling up the green stuff. Having lost a flock of 200 geese last fall because of the diving antics of a joy riding airplane, which dove at the geese and drove them away, Frank decided to move against the geese in the field to see if a fat honker couldn't be secured for a camp dinner.

So we piled our guns into an old truck and away we went across the prairie to the rye field. It was windy and cloudy, an ideal day for hunting, but the problem was how to approach the flock as it was parked right next to the blind. Therefore it required some old-fashioned, back-to-the-primitive hunting tactics.

And Five Drop.

The truck dropped us in the grass on the prairie above the rye field. This was up wind and knowing that geese take off into the wind our location looked good. We sprawled next to Frank in the grass, the wind whistling over our heads. In about two minutes we heard the sonorous honking of the flock. Up it rose and straight into the wind. It passed us at 40 yards. Our double barrel 12 gauge and Frank's repeater began to talk. In less than a couple of seconds our close-to-the-loop hunt was over and five fat honkers were on their way to camp.

Here's a Hint for Notre Dame Foes: Don't Get Fresh, or Else--

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 16.—The Notre Dame football team is the first college team which has been seriously suspected of failing to put forth its best efforts, as the prize fight commissioners would phrase it. Last Saturday's game between the Notre Dame company and the Navy in Baltimore had many of the characteristics of the Barney O'Leary, or waltz, as it used to be interpreted in the ring by Sam Langford, who was a master interpreter.

The final score of 20 to 0 was about seventy points short of the total that Notre Dame might have amassed if the Navy boys had made themselves obnoxious, and the entire performance was reminiscent of those old fashioned business fights in Little Rock and Wheeling in which a master pugilist encountered a respectful young boy doing the best he could for himself and treated him nice.

If Navy Was Disrespectful.

If the Navy had not been respectful and had scored a touchdown or two for themselves, the Notre Dame boys might have lost their patience and run up a score of 100 or so to put them in their place.

Of course, the motives of the Notre Dame boys could only have been of the noblest. The Navy team was coached by Mr. Rip Miller, an old Notre Dame boy, himself, and it would have been a sort of reflection on Notre Dame if an old Notre Dame boy in his first year at an important job had been made to look bad.

Moreover, the Navy boys were using, or trying to use, the Notre Dame style of football, which, in itself, is a conspicuous compliment to Notre Dame, and it would have been ungracious to humiliate them unnecessarily, and, possibly, the Notre Dame players, who seem to be pointing for careers as football coaches, themselves, were thinking of the time, not long hence, when they might be striving to make good and hoping that bread cast upon the waters on this occasion would come back cake next year or the year after that.

It's Different in Football.

By an odd twist of sporting ethics the Barney or waltz, which is considered to be most reprehensible in pugilism and condemned by press and pulpit, is not so regarded in intercollegiate football. The New York prize fight commission, always ambitious for more territory, recently has taken over amateur boxing and apprehension has been expressed lest the commissioners should decide to claim jurisdiction over intercollegiate football.

If they had done this they might even now be holding a meeting to revoke the Notre Dame license and forbid the game between Notre Dame and the Army in New York on the ground that Notre Dame did not try hard enough in Baltimore. In such a hearing the counsel for the defense could only plead that the boys from South Bend were trying to serve the interests of the sport because, if they had really cut loose any alert referee would have called the game a mismatch and no contest.

Fight Board Would Suspect.

Although pugilism is supposed to exist for the beautiful purpose of inculcating the ideal of chivalry in the young, chivalrous acts of the type performed in Baltimore on this occasion are looked upon with suspicion and punished with vigor. So it is fortunate that the prize fight commission has not yet established jurisdiction over intercollegiate football.

It is illuminating to compare Notre Dame's treatment of the Navy team with the treatment accorded the Pennsylvania boys at South Bend. The Pennsylvania team, which is supposed to be considerably better than the Navy, was firmly put down by a large score and the inference might be drawn that the Pennsylvanians got fresh to Notre Dame. But then it

Sing Sing Fights Overemphasis; to Meet Cops' Eleven

New York, Nov., 17.—[Special.]—Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing prison, accepted a challenge in behalf of the prison football team today from the police department of Port Jervis, N. Y. In view of the natural rivalry between the two institutions and the consequent importance of the contest he canceled a game which had been scheduled for next Sunday with the Bronx Bears and gave that date to the Port Jervis policemen.

When the challenge from the Port Jervis policement arrived, signed by Edward V. Moorehead, chief of police; George Taylor, captain, and John Powrie, manager of the police team, Warden Lawes had reached the decision that steps must be taken to prevent overemphasis on football at his institution.

On Sunday, when the Sing Sing team defeated the Naval militia team from Ossining, 23 to 0, there was a certain amount of splendor and ceremony about the affair which struck Warden Lawes as a little too collegiate for a penal institution. The warden had decided that such a demonstration, with its accompaniment of newspaper and newsreel photographers, might be excusable at the prison's first football game with an outside team, but that hereafter things must be more decorous.

He was about to issue an order to this effect when the policemen's challenge arrived. As the approaching contest will be stimulating a rivalry even keener than that between Yale and Harvard or Army and Navy teams, Warden Lawes is reconsidering his decision now. It is probable that the band will be out next Sunday and that photographers will be admitted to the prison field again.

JONES NAMES 35 PLAYERS FOR GAME SATURDAY

Capt. Williamson to Rejoin Team.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 16.—Thirty-five Southern California football players who are to make their big bid for national honors against Notre Dame on Saturday, took their final stiff workout today. The team will line up for shadow scrimmage tomorrow and entrain for the east tomorrow night.

Limbering up practices will be held at train stops at Tucson, Ariz., on Wednesday, and Hutchinson, Kas., on Thursday, and the squad will hold a drill Friday at Chicago, going to South Bend Saturday morning.

All the regulars except Capt. Stanley Williamson, center, took part in today's secret practice. Long scrimmage against the Spartans, as Jones names his ineligibles, was the order of the day. The Spartans were maneuvred and assisted by Assistant Coach Aubrey Devine, who has been scouting Notre Dame all season.

Avoid Injuries in Drill

There was one difference between today's drill and the ordinary hard scrimmaging of the early season, in that Jones, or one of his assistants, always blew a whistle whenever one of the regular backs was stopped, or found a hole with the ball. The Trojan staff is determined to throw its lineup against Notre Dame intact, and no chances were taken on having any of the men hurt.

Capt. Williamson suffered a bruised shoulder and wrenched neck in the game ten days ago against Stanford. He has not played since, but is promised as a sure starter against Notre Dame. If injuries were to keep him out, Southern California will lose its only first rate center, as Curtis Youel, Williamson's understudy, is a sophomore devoid of experience.

Named for Trip.

The players who are scheduled to go east tomorrow are:

ENDS—Arbelbide, Sperling, Palmer, regulars; Clarke, Durkee, Norris, and Bizzo, reserves.
TACKLES—Brown, Smith, Hall, regulars; Erskine and Plachn, reserves.
GUARDS—Baker, Rosenberg, Black, Dye, and Stevens, regulars; Gentry and F. Williamson, reserves.
CENTERS—S. Williamson, regular; Youel and Moreno, reserves.
QUARTER BACKS—Shaver, Mohler, regulars; Beatty, Griffith, and Broome, reserves.
HALF BACKS—Pinckert and Mallory, regulars; Fay, Hammack, and Clark, reserves.
FULL BACKS—Musick and Barber.

The squad will reach Chicago at 9:50 o'clock Friday morning and depart for South Bend at 9:45 Saturday morning.

The team will travel by special train with more than a score of coaches, physicians and rooters aboard.

KOKEN, PIERCE LOST

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's prospects of victory over Southern California here Saturday were lessened today when it was announced that injuries would keep two prominent reserve players out of the game.

Mike Koken, substitute Notre Dame half back, suffered a painful injury to his spine in the Navy game, and will be unable to play against Southern California, Coach Heartly Anderson revealed. Koken, regarded as one of the best of the Irish backs, has served as understudy to Marchmont Schwartz.

Bill Pierce, right guard, received a double fracture of his right elbow in line scrimmage. Pierce, who has starred with the Irish schock troops as an understudy to Nordy Hoffman, will be out for the remainder of the season. He is a junior. His home is in Sherman, Tex.

Joe Privarnick, third stringer, will replace Pierce tomorrow.

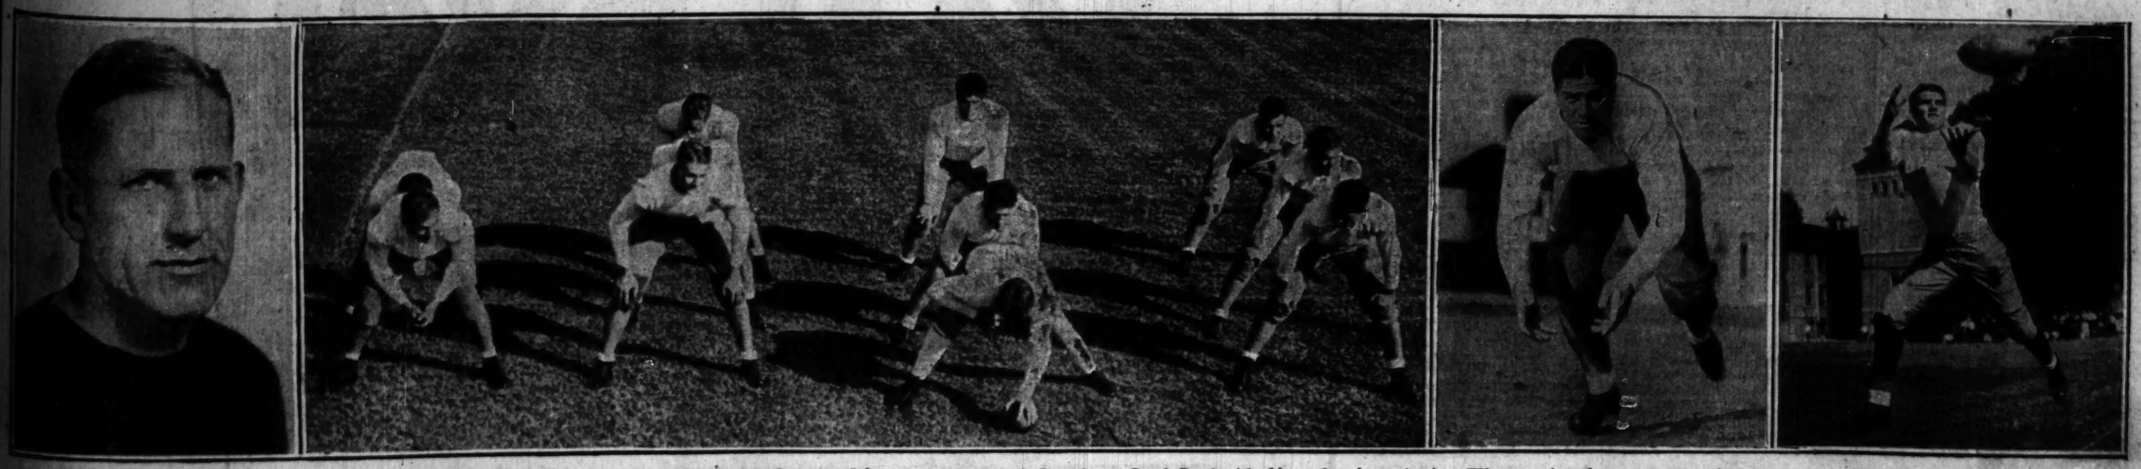
ARE YOU READY, NOTRE DAME? HERE COME THE TROJANS!



He'll try it again. Howard Jones, coach of the Southern California football team, which has beaten Notre Dame only once—in 1928.

How do you catch that Notre Dame line off balance? Southern California hopes to do it Saturday at South Bend with this tandem formation, which is the way the players line up just prior to the final shift that brings the players up to the scrimmage line. The tandem didn't bother the Irish last year, when Bucky O'Connor led his mates to a 27-0 victory. This season the Trojans have won six straight coast conference games. Their only defeat was at the hands of St. Mary's in the opening game of the season, 13-7. Only six points have been scored on them since.

HICKEY DEFENDS A. A. PRESIDENCY AT MEET TODAY

Magnates Make Perennial Attempt to Oust Him.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

One of those periodical attempts to separate Thomas Jefferson Hickey from the job as president of the American association will be made here again today.

The magnates of that circuit began gathering yesterday for their annual meeting and there was plainly an anti-Hickey movement afoot, but, like similar proposals of other years, the incumbent is reported to be holding the whip. The Hickey contingent claims to have four votes, which is enough to keep him in office.

So far as is known, the only reason for wishing to boost Hickey into the ranks of the upemployed is that some of the owners are peeved because the umpires didn't give them all the breaks on the close decisions.

Belden Chief Rival.

The A. A. presidency pays well enough to make it a job worth seeking, but the exact number of undercover candidates isn't known. Hickey's chief rival is supposed to be George Belden, who now owns the Minneapolis club. The other part of the story is that if Belden could be elected he would move Mike Kelly, his present manager, in the club presidency and make room for Donie Bush as team pilot.

Still another angle is that if Hickey loses out in the A. A. he might become a candidate for president of the National Association of Minor leagues. Mike Sexton now holds this office, but they are going to attempt to oust him when the minors hold their annual convention at West Baden early in December.

Hickey helped to organize the present American association and then served as its head for three years. He was out for a time, but after a few seasons was recalled and now has been in the chair for 15 successive years.

Veeck Back from East.

William Veeck, president of the Cubs, was back at his desk yesterday following a slightly secretive trip through the east, but he claimed it was a bad season for trading. The presumption is that he talked with club owners who might have an interest in Hack Wilson or who might own players for whom the Cubs would pay handsomely.

When Veeck made such quiet trips in the past there always were developments. He went east one time on a "pleasure" jaunt and a few days later Kl Cuyler was on the Cub roster. Another such trip preceded the announcement that Rogers Hornsby had become a Cub in exchange for money and five players. Something probably will break about the time of the big league meetings here, Dec. 9 to 11.

Dusek Wins in Straight Falls from Grobmier

Rudy Dusek, Omaha wrestler, scored two straight falls over Fred Grobmier of Iowa at the Fronton last night. The crowd was estimated at 2,500.

It took Dusek 28 minutes 42 seconds to win the opening fall. Grobmier had a body scissors on Dusek and both were standing up. But Rudy lurched back and fell on Fred, dazing him. Then he pinned the Iowan with a body slam, wrist lock, and head scissors.

Dusek weakened Grobmier with a series of headlocks, then slammed him to the mat for the second fall in 8 minutes and 40 seconds.

Jim McMullen made a successful start on the comeback road when he subdued Jack Hollenback, veteran from California, in a one fall match. It was Jim's first appearance since he suffered a broken collar bone several weeks ago. After a series of opening tactics, McMillen slammed Hollenback to the canvas and applied a wrist lock and head scissors to win the fall.

Earl McCready, Oklahoma collegian, and Gino Garibaldi, were all even at the end of half an hour's endeavor. Jack Zarnes of Ohio eliminated Billy Evans of Oklahoma in 6 minutes and 7 seconds. In the opening number, Ollie Anderson defeated Rudy Hollman in 7 minutes and 45 seconds with a crotch hold and half Nelson.

N. B. A. REFUSES TO LET M'GRAW BATTLE AGAIN

Phil McGraw, Detroit, once contender for the world's lightweight championship, is through with the ring in an edict issued yesterday by the National Boxing association. He is barred in the states under N. B. A. control.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the N. B. A., issued a warning against matching McGraw because of physical handicaps.

Maple Leafs, Hawks Clash on Stadium Ice Tomorrow

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Toronto Maple Leafs will be at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night to do battle with the Blackhawks for the second time this year. The Leafs and Hawks opened the National league hockey season in Toronto last Thursday night and the Hawks won, 2 to 1, you'll recall.

The featured player of the Toronto cast is King Clancy. Hockey press agents proclaim him the "greatest showman in the game," whatever that means. Clancy has been on three Stanley cup teams and is, we are told, "a player whose tireless energy and indomitable spirit make him one of the game's greatest drawing cards and a fighter from bell to bell."

Clancy was purchased from the Ottawa Senators a year ago for a reported $35,000, gold standard. He is known as the biggest scoring defense play in major league hockey.

If this weather keeps up, Joe Farrell, the public relations gent for the Hawks, may have some arctic scenes painted in the Stadium lobby, with overhanging papier mache icicles and everything.

Hockey attracts more than its share of the blue stocking trade and other conservative and quiet coteries, but it is not without its rowdy elements. Explain, if you can, the spirit of fun involved in sailing a paper airplane down on the ice in the hope that some player will fall on it and break his neck.

Mayor Cermak did not attempt a political speech at the hockey season opener Sunday night as he did at the start of the bike race a week earlier, but the leather lunged boys in the upper flights had their fun just the same, hooting down the announcer every time he tried to tell where tickets could be purchased for the next attraction. An intolerant lot, these Stadium habitues. And they still have the Carnera-Levinsky fight to look forward to.

Taffy Abel's schnozzle, flattened in a melee Sunday, was convalescent yesterday though the big boy still carried the member in a splint.

If the ice isn't harder tomorrow night than it was Sunday night, our recommendation is for either snowshoes or roller skates. At that, the Americans, at times a defensive team to the point of boredom, probably welcomed the mushy ice as an alibi for the slow character of the opening contest.

The technical observers who have seen Paul Thompson and Jerry Lowrey, newcomers, play in Hawk uniforms, say they look pretty good. They, with Mush March, were as sprightly as any one on the so-called ice Sunday night.

The Hawk management contends that it would be undignified to print the nicknames of the players in the programs, but the same publication describes Toronto's front line as "The Thunderbolt Trio," and King Clancy as "155 pounds of Irish dynamite."

Next Sunday the Hawks will play the Montreal Maroons at the Stadium. Last Saturday night the Maroons beat the Boston Bruins, 4 to 1, in an upset.

Shamrocks and Buffalo Battle Again Tonight

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—The Chicago Shamrocks meet the Buffalo Majors here again tomorrow night, in the second American League hockey game of the season. Manager Dye hopes to correct many of the faults brought out in Sunday's 2-1 overtime victory over the Majors.

The Shamrocks were a trifle overeager, with the consequence that their combinations did not work as effectively as anticipated. The winning goal, however, scored with 10 seconds left to play, was the direct result of a play given the forwards by Dye. Brydson skated down the ice, followed by Burns and Johnson in turn. The Shamrocks' scoring star skated around the net for a pass out to Burns. Burns got ahead of the play, but Johnson, following him, was there for the pass and easily beat Goalie Joe Starke.

Defensively the Shamrocks showed more signs of coaching. Especially encouraging was the work of Walter Buswell and Eddie Osler, recruit defense men. Osler, however, was forced from the game with a badly cut eye.

The Majors are an outfit of veterans who promise to be powerful contenders for the American league championship when they get into shape. Both their offensive and defensive strength will be largely built around Capt. Billy Holmes, last year second high scorer in the International league.

With the exception of Carbol in Osler's place at defense, the Shamrocks will retain Sunday night's lineups for tomorrow's game.

DEAN OF PENN IS COLLEGE CROSS COUNTRY VICTOR

New York, Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Dan Dean of Pennsylvania and Harvard were the surprise winners in the twenty-third annual intercollegiate cross country championships in Van Cortlandt park today.

Dean, not conceded a chance to lead the pack of 125 harriers, overtook Clark H. Chamberlain of Michigan State, the defending champion, in the last half mile and uncorked an all-conquering sprint, which gave him the championship by forty yards and a new record of 29:23.6. He broke the old mark by the almost unbelievable margin of 42.4 seconds.

Harvard's team triumph was its first since 1912. The Crimson squad upset the dope by finishing five men in the second six for the low total of 49 points.

LASSITER, BOOTH UNDERSTUDY, TO OPPOSE HARVARD

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Young Bob Lassiter, 19 year old sophomore half back, who has been called upon frequently this season to fill the shoes of Capt. Albie Booth as chief ball carrier of the Yale eleven, is pretty sure to be the man who will beat Harvard, if Yale is to turn that trick when the two ancient rivals come to grips at Cambridge Saturday.

This does not mean Lassiter is in a class with the brilliant Yale captain. Instead, this opinion is the result of the observation that little Albie will be in no condition to go out there and do the mighty deeds every Yale man expects of him. Booth has a bad leg, a bruised muscle, while Lassiter and other Yale stars are in good shape.

SCOVILLE BEATS JAPANESE, 50-42, IN CUE TOURNEY

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Frank Scoville, of Buffalo, today was practicing as the east's representative in the national three cushion billiard tournament, which begins in Philadelphia, Nov. 20.

Scoville won the eastern finals last night by defeating Kinrey Matsuyama, 50 to 42 in 56 innings in the final match of the sectional trial.

May Lose Business, but Will See Him Box Primo.

The ten round windup between Primo Carnera and King Levinsky in the Chicago stadium ring Thursday night has not only occasioned considerable comment among regular fight fans, but also has brought up a matter of business ethics in Maxwell street.

The reason for the difficulty is Levinsky himself, an alumnus of the west side business thoroughfare. The merchants, who remember the King as a sardine salesman, are in a quandary, attempting to decide on whether or not to close their establishments in order to see Levinsky shoot punches at Carnera. It is a delicate matter, since Thursday is one of the three regular business nights in Maxwell street and certain members of the guild are loath to close in the face of a probable bonanza.

King Draws Crowds.

The more loyal Levinsky followers insist that they will close, regardless of whether some of their competitors remain open for business, while others have agreed to close and join the King's rooting section if the entire street remains dark. Still others would kill two birds with one stone by making tomorrow night a business night and closing Thursday. They expect to have solved their dilemma by tomorrow.

The King is working out at Brown's gymnasium and is attracting almost as much attention as his huge opponent, who is taking his training exercises at the Arcade and drawing full houses daily.

Battalino vs. Graham.

The semi-windup bout involves a champion and a contender, they being Bat Battalino, world featherweight titleholder, and Bushey Graham, who holds a decision over the champion. It will not be for the title. Other bouts on the card bring together Paulie Walker, New Jersey welterweight, and Tommy Rios, a familiar figure in Chicago rings a year or so ago; Frank Battaglia, Winnipeg middleweight, and Johnny Burns of the coast; Mickey O'Neill of Milwaukee and Kelly Kulac, a Sammy Mandell discovery, and Mickey Patrick and Jack Barry.

Sammy Mandell arrives in Chicago tomorrow morning from Rockford, Ill., to handle Kelly Kulak in the latter's first bout under his direction at the Stadium, Thursday. Kulak boxes Mickey O'Dell of Milwaukee, Wis., in a four round contest.

John Konopasek of Poland and Lon Michels of Chicago meet in a feature bout on the eight bout amateur card at Merry Garden arena, Sheffield and Belmont avenues, Friday. Jack Lund and Frank Knipper are the promoters.

Stadium officials last night said that the report of match between Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, and Jack [Kid] Berg was erroneous. The match was never considered.

CATHOLIC YOUTHS HOLD SECTIONAL BOUTS TONIGHT

The Catholic Youth organization's amateur boxing tournament tonight brings together 56 boxers in sectional contests to determine the boys who will represent the St. Mel's and St. Lawrence divisions.

The St. Mel bouts, representing 11 west side parishes, will be held at St. Mel's gymnasium, 4322 Madison street. Eight south side parishes are represented by the fighters who will meet at Mount Carmel High school gymnasium, 6410 Dante avenue, to decide the best eight men in the St. Lawrence section.

Roy Meyers and Miki Geld Battle to Ten Round Draw

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP).—Ray Meyers, New York featherweight, and Miki Geld, Hungary, fought ten rounds to a draw at the New York coliseum tonight. There were no knockdowns. Meyers weighed 128½; Geld, 129.

Luis Angel Torres, 158¼, Porto Rico, won an unpopular decision in six rounds from Al Palladino, 159½, New York.

De Paul Eleven Leaves Tonight for Coast Games

De Paul university will entrain for the west tonight to meet the University of Arizona, Saturday, at Tucson, and San Francisco university, Nov. 28.

The De Paul party of 35 will include Coaches Eddie Anderson and Ben Connors, the Rev. Father Corcoran, president of the university; the Rev. Father Blechle, faculty supervisor of athletics; Athletic Director James Kelly, 28 players, a trainer, and a manager.

The Blue Demons are scheduled to arrive at Tucson Thursday afternoon.

De Paul is finishing one of its most successful football seasons. Six of seven games have been won. Victories have been achieved over Detroit university Hastings college of Hastings, Neb., South Dakota State, Lewisville, Illinois Wesleyan and St. Marys of Winona, Minn. North Dakota handed the Blue Demons their only defeat.

John Fitzgerald, one of the tackles, suffered a broken nose in practice last week and will be unable to make the trip. Players named last night for the coast journey were:

BENEFIT CAGE GAMES BILLED DEC. 17 BY K. C.

Another athletic program for the benefit of the joint emergency relief fund of Cook county is being arranged. J. Russell Forgan, chairman of the benefits division of the fund, announced yesterday that the Illinois State council of the Knights of Columbus is sponsoring three games of basketball to be played at the Chicago Stadium on Thursday evening, Dec. 17.

"We are promised even a better card than the Knights of Columbus sponsored last year, when they raised more than $15,000 for the relief fund," said Mr. Forgan. "That card included the De LaSalle chapters of Chicago and Joliet, St. Patrick's, the K. C. league champions in 1929 and 1930, against St. Thomas Aquinas, and a picked team of Chicago all-stars against Walsh hall of Notre Dame, which included Carideo, Koken, Schwartz, Leahy, O'Brien and several others."

Catholic Prep Heads Disagree on Title Battle

The directors of athletics of member high schools of the Catholic league tonight at special meeting at the auditorium hotel will decide what steps shall be taken to determine the finalists in the championship football game. Yesterday representatives of St. Mel, St. Philip and Mount Carmel, meeting with Brother Sylvester, president of the league, were unable to reach an agreement.

Mount Carmel is champion of the south section of the Catholic High school football league and is waiting for an opponent to be determined in the north division so that the city title game may be played. It is important that this contest be held as soon as possible, for a charity game has been arranged with the City High school champion. Harrison Tech and Schurz meet Saturday to determine the City league title.

St. Philip and St. Mel Sunday, played a scoreless tie and are now tied for the north division championship in the Catholic league. St. Philip has one more opponent, St. Michael. St. Michael has offered to concede the game to St. Philip, believing that St. Philip is a superior team. St. Mel, so far in the negotiations, has argued that this game must be played, since, if St. Philip should lose, St. Mel would still be tied for the sectional title. Unless the Catholic championship game is staged this week, the proposed date of the charity game must be deferred.

DOG SHOW AT ARMORY WILL OPEN SATURDAY

More than a thousand pure bred dogs, representing practically all breeds and all parts of America, will compete for prizes when the show under the auspices of the Western Specialty Clubs association opens Saturday at the First Regiment armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. The show will last two days.

Toss of Coin Gives Schurz Chance at Prep Grid Title

Schurz High school will make its first appearance in the finals for the Chicago Public High School league football championship since it defeated Lindblom in 1929, when it meets Harrison Tech at Mills stadium Saturday afternoon.

Winner of the north section title two weeks ago, Schurz entered the semi-finals last Saturday and played to a scoreless tie with Tilden in the mud at Logan Square park. Because of the tie, a coin was tossed in the offices of A. H. Pritzlaff, secretary of the league, yesterday morning and Schurz won the right to compete in the finals.

Both Tilden and Schurz officials asked to play again, stating that the tossing of a coin to determine the championship was unfair. Their plea was denied because of the coin flipping method adopted by the league several years ago.

Coach Bob Koehler represented Schurz at the meeting, while Charles Harvey appeared for Tilden. Lindblom officials also were present, stating that it had tied Tilden for the central section title and should be considered in the toss. Pritzlaff declared Lindblom was eliminated from the race when it was defeated by Tilden.

Harrison Tech reached the finals by defeating Parker, south section representative, 18 to 0, at Mills stadium last Saturday. It was Harrison's ninth consecutive victory.

Oak Park, Suburban league football champion, will meet Thornton High school of Harvey, Ill., which won the South Suburban league title for the second consecutive year, in a charity game at Oak Park field Saturday afternoon. The entire proceeds of the contest will be donated to Oak Park's family welfare association for unemployment relief.

Evanston and New Trier began preparations for their annual game at Dyche stadium Saturday afternoon. Second place in the Suburban league will be at stake. Both have won three games while losing one.

LAYTON, ALLEN WIN AS POCKET TOURNEY OPENS

Johnny Layton and Bennie Allen, entrants in the coming world's championship pocket billiard tournament, won the opening blocks of their 1,000-point matches at Bensinger's Randolph street billiard room yesterday. Layton defeated Major White, 100 to 79 in 10 innings, having a high run of 30 to White's 54. Allen defeated Walter Franklin, 100 to 71 in 7 innings, his high run being 79, Franklin's 50.

Layton and Allen, unable to oppose each other due to a tournament rule which prohibits matches between title contestants 16 days before the tournament starts, will engage in their special matches until Friday night. Then both will start for Philadelphia, Layton going by way of Buffalo and Allen by way of Pittsburgh. They will play a number of exhibitions.

HALL DEFEATS KIECKHEFER IN OPENING BLOCK

Allen Hall defeated Augie Kieckhefer in the opening block of their 600 point three cushion match at Mussey's, 131 South Wabash avenue, yesterday. Hall won, 50 to 27, in 42 innings, having a high run of 10 to Kieckhefer's 4. They will play at the Kieckhefer Recreation today.

Both Hall and Kieckhefer entered this test unbeaten this season. Hall's most recent conquest was at the expense of Frank I. Fleming of Champaign, Ill., while Kieckhefer's best performance was a 200 to 144 victory over Arthur Thurnblad, world titleholder, in 166 innings.

A. B. C. VS. MOOSEHEART.

The American Boys Commonwealth midget football team will play the Mooseheart High school midgets at Mooseheart Saturday.

Horstmann, Moore Injured; Purdue Tests Recruit Backs

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Roy Horstmann, full back whose drives off tackle have featured the Purdue running attack, has suffered a recurrence of an elbow injury and is not expected to play against Indiana at Bloomington Saturday, trainers announced today.

Doxie Moore, sophomore half back, who was injured in the Iowa game last week-end, turned up this afternoon with an ankle sprain much more serious than had been anticipated, and also may not play.

Coach Noble Kizer, after reviewing his scout's report of Indiana's stand against Northwestern, and being notified of the probable loss of Horstmann and Moore, was pessimistic over prospects for Saturday.

There was no rest for the Boilermaker squad this afternoon. Kizer started revamping his back field combination, giving Reed and Sexton, inexperienced ball carriers, trials in Horstmann's place and moving Rodenbaugh into Moore's place at right half back.

MAROONS CONFIDENT

Having discovered how pleasant it is to win, the University of Chicago football team began its practice for Wisconsin yesterday with renewed confidence.

With the exception of Bob Wallace, who is still unable to raise his left arm because of a severe bruise, and Keith Parsons, who was released from the hospital yesterday, the entire squad was on hand for a light workout. Parsons will be back in uniform today, but Wallace may have to yield the quarter back post back to Paul Stagg.

Forward passes probably will be an important factor in the Chicago offense this week. Coach Stagg is expected to produce a few new variations for assimilation before Friday. Two sets of Maroon back field men ran through plays which emphasized deception.

A freshman "Wisconsin" team, however, dashed through the Maroon reserves at will yesterday, and that is considered to be an evil omen, because Stagg is not likely to be able to keep one line in play throughout the game.

The versatility of the freshmen was further demonstrated when a squad of them appeared garbed as Iowa one day after the decision of the conference to pit Chicago against the Hawkeyes in the opener of the charity tournament on Thanksgiving. They ran through Iowa plays with considerable dispatch.

MORE REST FOR N. U.

Another day's complete rest will be granted Northwestern's football regulars today in an effort to bring the squad back to its full physical capacity for the remaining two games on the schedule. Coach Dick Hanley plans to drill the reserves on Iowa plays.

Several changes in the Wildcats' starting lineup are contemplated for Saturday. Reb Russell, who did a creditable job of line plunging during his brief appearance in the Indiana game, is slated to start against the Hawkeyes at Iowa City Saturday. A shakeup in the line is planned because of the weak performance against Indiana last Saturday.

Preparations for the Northwestern-Purdue charity game Nov. 28 at Soldiers' field began to gather headway in the Northwestern athletic department yesterday. Tickets are being printed and will be placed on sale Thursday at the regular ticket offices in Evanston and Chicago. Mail orders are being accepted.

The cost of tickets will range from $1 to $3. The $3 tickets will be between the goal lines. The $2 tickets will extend beyond the goal posts, while the $1 tickets will be on the horseshoe and in the north end sections of the stadium.

NEW PLAYS FOR MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Passing and punting drill of the Michigan football squad today was followed by a drill on new plays which the Wolverines will use against Minnesota here next Saturday.

Michigan players had hoped that they would get a chance to meet Northwestern in the post-season charity game, and though Wisconsin is sure to provide plenty of opposition, they now intend to take out their spite on Minnesota.

Kipke turned over the first stringers to Frank Cappon and Bennie Oosterbaan this afternoon and they handed out the new formations to be used Saturday.

The reserves took on a freshman team and in a short while rolled up a 19 point margin. Some spectacular runs were made, but most of the gains were on passes, with Harry Newman on the throwing end.

Estil Tessmer, still out of uniform today, said he would be back soon, possibly in the Minnesota game, and if not then, in the Wisconsin contest. His father, who also was at practice, insisted that the boy was through for the year.

ILLINI BACKS RETURN

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 16.—[Special.]—Herman Walser and Ed Snavely, backfield men, rejoined the Illinois football squad today as practice started for the Ohio State game Saturday at Columbus.

Walser, the regular quarter back, has been on the sidelines for two weeks, while Snavely, full back, was unable to play against Chicago. It had been planned to shift Snavely to tackle, but due to the scarcity of full backs he will be kept at his old position.

Zuppke used reserve players freely during the signal drill. Arning, former end, was tried at half back, Singer occupied the quarter back position, Onrus was at guard, and Engstrom worked at one end.

HERE'S TIP TO NOTRE DAME FOE: DON'T GET FRESH

Navy Team Didn't, So Irish Were Gentle.

must be remembered that Pennsylvania's coach, Mr. Harvey Harman, is not a Notre Dame alumnus but comes from Pitt. True, he, too, is a nice young man trying to get along in his first year on his job, but blood is thicker than water, and moreover, Mr. Harman teaches the Warner system of football which, to the Notre Dame notion, is about the same as the goose-step to the French nation.

Use Dummy Huddle Again.

I did not see the Pennsylvania game but I was reading last week an article by Mr. Frank Carideo, late quarter back of the Notre Dame team, in which he said that the team huddled just once in his entire career and huddled that once only to kill time. They would engage in a dummy huddle and the quarter back would then sing his signals as usual. The same process was revived at Baltimore and the Navy's defensive duties were greatly curtailed not only by this detail but also by a leisurely and forebearing quality of the attack.

Mr. Benny Friedman, the Yale coach and professional player, who watched the game as a professional expert, concurred in the general impression that the winners were not bearing down any more than just enough. In fact, their very nonchalance throughout the game was further evidence of their own great superiority and again one thinks of a great artist in the ring amusing himself with a respectful third rater.

If an opponent gets fresh there is only one thing to do with him. He must be disciplined with a firm hand.

Mr. Flynn Does a Favor.

Mr. Leo P. Flynn once wished to do a favor for a sport writer who had bought a heavyweight pugilist for $500, part cash, at an auction of the effects of a big operator who was going away for a long, long time. The pugilist had no reputation, however, and it was impossible to get any matches for him, a fact which bothered the sport writer very much. Out of the kindness of his heart, Mr. Flynn therefore offered to give him a fight with his colored champion, the Jamaica Kid.

"We will gallop ten rounds and if your boy is nice we will take good care of him," Mr. Flynn said. "Then you can take him out and make some money with him because it isn't every bum that can go ten rounds with the Jamaica Kid. I am doing this for you because I wish to help you, but remember, your mugg must not get fresh."

But on the night of the contest, the sport writer's mugg got very fresh, indeed, and smacked Mr. Flynn's Jamaica Kid a hard hook on the chin in the first round.

'Twas Very Dastardly.

"The kid was very well mannered," Mr. Flynn related, "so he did not smack back, but waited until the round was over to consult me. When he came to the corner he said, 'Mist' Flynn, 'at white boy done bus' me one.' 'I know he did,' Mr. Flynn exclaimed, very angry. 'It was very dastardly of him to do so. Very, very dastardly, and I want you to go right out there and pop him out as soon as the bell rings.'"

So the Jamaica Kid popped him out at once and when the sport writer came around to protest Mr. Flynn broke off relations for life.

"'You are no sportsman,' Mr. Flynn said. 'It is your type that brings discredit on the grand old game of pugilism which I hold dear.'"

But there was nothing dastardly about the Navy's conduct. The Navy did not get fresh.

MARRINER TO FIGHT BENNETT AT WHITE CITY

Les Marriner, now a lieutenant in the United States aviation corps, will return to active fighting Monday night at White City when he fights Biff Bennett of Fort Sheridan in Mique Malloy's ten round windup.

Bennett, one of the hardest punchers in the heavyweight class, has knocked out Walter Madey, Joe Miller, Emil Johnson and Marion Matuszack in his last four fights.

Marriner is training at Howard's gym and Bennett will start activity today at Brown's.

Callahan Wins 12 Round Decision Over Sam Fuller

Boston, Mass., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Andy Callahan of Lawrence retained his New England lightweight championship here tonight by defeating Sammy Fuller of Boston in a 12 round bout. Callahan's left hooks to the head appeared to earn him seven rounds. Fuller's body attack prevailed in the other five sessions. The winner weighed 135 and Fuller scaled 134¼.

Cardinals Meet Portsmouth Sunday; It'll Be Ladies' Day

The first ladies' day of the 1931 Chicago Cardinal football season is scheduled for Sunday, when the Portsmouth Spartans invade Wrigley field. Fifteen thousand tickets are available and requests addressed to the Cardinal management at Cubs park must be in the mail by Wednesday.

The Spartans have won more games in the National league than any other club. Their record shows ten victories against two defeats. Headed by Potsy Clark, former Illinois quarter back, who is enjoying a great season as a coach for the first time in professional circles, the Spartans present such stars as Tony Holm, Alabama full back in 1929, and Father Lumpkin, the Georgia Tech star of 1928, and Glenn Presnell of Nebraska.

The Cardinals after their brilliant victory over the league leading Green Bay Packers were excused from practice yesterday.

Statistics on the Packer game show that the Cardinal backs averaged 2.8 yards per attempt at the Green Bay wall. They gained 141.5 yards from scrimmage, exclusive of passes. The statistics follow:

Player	Attempts.	Yardage.	Av.
Nevers	25	60.5	2.38
Glasgow	5	27	5.4
Rose	9	37	4.1
Belden	6	9	1.5
Holmer	3	4	1.33
Malloy	1	1.5	1.5
Hill	1	3.5	3.5
	50	141.5	2.8

Ernie Nevers averaged 45.5 yards for each one of his thirteen punts, outkicking the Green Bay punters, who averaged 42 yards in ten attempts. By kicking the three points after touchdowns, Nevers ran his string of successful attempts to seven in the last three league contests. In the six games played this year, Nevers has missed but one try for point, counting nine of ten attempts. Against Cleveland, Brooklyn, and the Packers he has kicked without a failure.

Thief Steals Billiard Outfit from Layton

Someone broke into the automobile of John Layton last night, and stole his tools of trade. Layton is the former three cushion billiard champion.. His machine was parked in Division street at LaSalle street, and while he was in a nearby hotel a thief smashed the door. He took a set of billiard balls, and several cues valued at $165. Layton was about to depart for a contest in Philadelphia, he told Chicago avenue police.

TROJANS LEAVE FOR NOTRE DAME BATTLE TONIGHT

the shift of Al Culver and Hugh Devore to the first team. Culver has turned in three great games in the last three weeks and probably will start Saturday instead of his younger rival, Ed Krause of Chicago. Culver is from Wilmette, Ill.

Devore, a sophomore from Fabrickstown, N. J., is the hardest blocker and most vicious tackler on the squad. He will start at right end for the varsity instead of Dick Mahoney Saturday. Mahoney is a junior.

Steve Banas was with the varsity at full back today in place of George Melinkovich. Melinkovich was not in uniform and his arm is in a sling as a result of Saturday's injury in the Navy game. A bone in his right shoulder was pulled out of place and the fibers and ligaments of his arm were torn so severely that his arm is useless.

Remember 1930 Plays.

Anderson will rely on Banas, Bernie Leahy of Chicago and Jimmy Leonard. In a pinch he can shift Frank Laborne from left half as he did earlier in the season. Incidentally, Nick Lukats, Banas, Leahy, Melinkovich, and Laborne all started out as left half backs, and all were made over into plungers.

At the noon meeting most of the veterans who played against the Trojans last year could remember their assignments on the various plays expected from Howard Jones' team.

Anderson outlined four of Southern California's six formations at his noon lecture and will go over the other two tomorrow. He said the Trojans using the shift, unbalanced line, and both single and double wingback formations, present the most diversified attack in football today.

WHAT IS MONEY? GOLD MYSTERY IS ELUCIDATED

Reasons for Metal's Use Outlined.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Probably not since the days of Bryan's "free silver" doctrine, a generation ago, has there been so much loose writing and thinking about money as in the last few months. What with Great Britain and other European countries suspending the gold standard, while still other countries have placed restrictions on the free movement of gold, and with the gyrations of silver and recurrent suggestions of bimetallism, the layman has become confused as to what money really is.

One of the best and most simple explanations of money that has come to hand is a little treatise by Ernst & Ernst, accountants and auditors. It dispels the mystery about gold, which is merely a measure commonly accepted by most of the civilized world. It is pointed out that there is no likelihood of a general abandonment of the gold standard.

Reasons for Use of Gold.

"The reasons why gold is used as the material upon which to base money are that it is scarce but not too scarce, durable, compact, easy to handle and ship, and the production and supply are fairly stable," the treatise says. "It also possesses the background of thousands of years in which it has been regarded as an article of treasure. If any other commodity had all these qualities which are deemed essential, it would make quite as good a material for money.

"The price of all gold is fixed because governments buy and sell the metal for all purposes at the same price, thus stabilizing the market. The stable price is therefore merely a product of arbitrary exercise of political power well supported by popular approval. Originally gold was made into coins. Now gold is not used much as money but has gone mainly into the vaults of the central banks and government treasuries, where it works as the basis, directly or indirectly, for all currency. It is the all important gold reserve.

Matter of Confidence.

"The volume of currency and deposits is much larger than the actual volume of gold, dollar for dollar, and the gold reserves are required by law to be maintained at only certain minimum proportions of the currency or deposits. The thing which keeps people from presenting all the currency or deposit claims in demand for the limited amount of gold is confidence. This, therefore, is even more important than gold as an essential component part of money or credit.

"International gold movements are mainly the result of the flow of commercial and governmental transactions between nations. Gold cannot be redistributed arbitrarily; this can be done only by redistribution of trade itself. Various countries have at times suspended the gold standard and at the present time there are some which have temporarily stopped the redemption of currency in gold or placed restrictions on the export of gold. The latter in most instances are merely holding the gold standard in suspension until fears of runs on their gold stocks shall have ended. They have not abandoned the gold standard permanently.

How Prices Are Affected.

"The practical significance of the weakening, suspension or abandonment of the gold standard lies largely in prices. If currency may not be exchanged for gold the currency loses value, which means that prices rise in terms of the depreciated currency. But of the depreciated currency must be used in exchange for good gold currency, such as the dollar. A thousand pounds will buy less goods in England or in the world markets now than before suspension of the gold standard, but a thousand dollars will buy more pounds and more goods in England than before suspension.

"There are a few alarmists who fear the United States may be forced to abandon the gold standard within the next few years. This seems a very far cry. The United States is the outstanding creditor nation of the world and gold gravitates to a creditor nation. The country also produces a preponderance of the world's supply of many important commodities, and thus possesses the means of maintaining foreign trade advantages."

Wheat Prices Up Nearly 3 Cents Despite Selling

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Resumption of heavy buying of North American cash wheat by the United Kingdom and the continent, lower estimates on the Argentine and Australian wheat crops, and reports indicating a large oriental demand for wheat the balance of the season turned the wheat market upward yesterday.

In the face of heavy selling the close was within a fraction of the top with net gains of 2⅝@2¾c. At no time were prices as low as Saturday's finish with December closing at 59⅜c; March, 62¼@62½c; May, 64@64⅛c, and July, 64⅝@64½c.

General buying was in evidence in wheat futures at the start, the pronounced strength shown in Liverpool being a factor. The latter ignored the break in North America on Saturday and closed 2@2⅛ higher with the December quoted at 62⅜c at the last on the basis of $3.76 for exchange, being 4⅛c over the same month in Chicago at the time, compared with ⅛c over late last week.

The reported sale of ten cargoes of Australian wheat to China, or from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 bu, presumably on Friday or Saturday, attracted considerable attention both abroad as well as here, and there was also some buying on reports of much smaller rice crops in both Japan and China than last year.

Reduce Crop Estimates.

Cables from abroad on the situation in the southern hemisphere were construed as rather sensationally bullish, one London estimate placing the exportable surplus of the two countries at 30,000,000 bu each, or nearly 100,000,000 bu less in the aggregate than recent figures, while a Liverpool cable suggested an Australian crop of 15,000,000 bu less wheat than recently. Still another cable said trade ideas in Buenos Aires were for 10 to 50 per cent damage to the new crop by the frost of a week ago in the central and southern sections of that province, which has 7,500,000 acres, out of a total of 17,288,000 acres for all of Argentina.

A sustained European export demand for Manitoba wheats, with sales of from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bu in all positions, materially helped to increase bullish enthusiasm during the day, as the lack of foreign business of late has had a depressing effect on the market. Exporters were good buyers of futures at Winnipeg and the close was 2⅝@3¼c higher with the December finishing at 64¼c in Canadian currency, which was around 10¼ per cent discount. High winds and dust storms were reported in parts of western Kansas during the day, although light rains were claimed at some points.

Cash Corn Leads Advance.

A material strengthening in the cash corn situation throughout the west had considerable influence on futures, and led to buying with the close 1⅝@3¼c higher, December being 43⅜@43⅝, March, 46c; May, 47⅞@48c, and July, 49⅝c. Selling against offers checked the bulge. Cash corn here was ¼@½c higher, as compared with the futures, with the country offering practically nothing to arrive.

Reports from parts of Iowa indicated that the drought stricken areas in the Dakotas were paying far above a Chicago parity for cash corn, and attention was attracted to the price of 52@53c for No. 2 yellow at Minneapolis, or 6@7c above the best price quoted for the same grade at Chicago.

The prospect of a small movement of cash corn to the local market is resulting in a considerable change in sentiment in some quarters. Buenos Aires futures closed 1⅞c higher with the December at 33½c, against 33¼c last year, the first time in many months the price has been above the corresponding figure of a year ago.

Lifts Oats Prices.

Buying by commission houses lifted oats prices ⅛@1c, and there was also some buying on the strength in other grains. December closed at 26½c; May, 28¾c, and July, 28½@28⅝c.

Rye showed independent strength and advanced faster than wheat as the result of fairly general buying which disclosed a well liquidated market. Closing trades were at net gains of 2⅝@3¾c with December, 49⅞; May, 55½@55¼c, and July, 56c. Cables from abroad indicated a very strong cash position was developing there, but there was no evidence of export demand at the seaboard.

RITCHIE URGES SELF HELP TO AID COAL INDUSTRY

Assails Paternalism of Government.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Proposals for government control of the ailing bituminous coal industry drew sharp criticism here today from Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, speakers at the Third International Conference on Bituminous Coal under the auspices of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Gov. Ritchie warned that "the tendency of looking to the government in time of collective or individual stress is more dangerous than we think and has already gone too far.

"Keep clearly in mind that government control and ownership is in the last analysis a species of communism," he continued. "The federal government, by its paternal and maternal solicitudes and activities in almost every field of human endeavor, from regulating railroads to trying to regulate the housewife in her kitchen and nursery, has done much to encourage this tendency.

"No Mystic Power."

"There is no mystic power or superior wisdom in government as government. It is just as fallible as the fallible men who run it. It cannot make black white. Problems like unemployment, the agrarian breakdown, our bank panics, or our failure to keep production and distribution in mesh will never be solved in the halls of congress.

"It behooves your industry and every other industry to put its home in order. I think the way to do this is by our tried and traditional processes of self help, self government and self regulation, and not by calling on the government to do it."

As an alternative to government control of the industry, Gov. Ritchie suggested "a consolidation of mines into bigger units, by co-ownership or association, or the use of selling agencies, with production adjusted to meet demand at a just price."

He urged his hearers to "consider every possible means of removing cut throat competition and uneconomic over production, and that you have greater coöperation among yourselves, with possibly frank disclosures of costs and prices and uniform cost accounting systems, and with uniform regional wage scales."

Taylor Raps Paternalism.

Mr. Taylor expressed his impatience with suggestions for "nationalization of industry and the artificial fixing of commodity prices through attempted stabilization by government control," and asserted that these plans "invite defeat at their inception because they are contrary to the law of supply and demand."

A suggested remedy came from Dr. W. T. Thom Jr., of Princeton university, in a proposal for an interstate compact to regulate and prorate production. The plan, he said, is modeled strictly after the compact now in effect among the major oil states.

A resolution was introduced and passed in the closing minutes of the session instructing Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology and chairman of the conference, to name a committee "which will receive recommendations as to means of securing an agency for bringing about the economic coördination of the coal industry." The committee, to be named tomorrow by Dr. Baker, will report to the full conference on Thursday.

MEXICO TO PERMIT DEALS TO BE MADE IN FOREIGN MONEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16.—The minister of the treasury has handed down the decision that contracts may be made in Mexico in foreign money. This is a question which has caused much uneasiness in houses doing business here since the retirement of the gold standard and the exaltation of silver to the place of the supreme monetary unit. Previous to this it had been the custom among foreign merchants to make contracts for goods in the money of their several countries because of the fluctuation of both gold and silver Mexican currency.

It has been stated repeatedly in the press here that contracts made in foreign money were not legal because the Mexican law provided that all transactions of whatever kind must be made in the monetary unit of the country. The minister of the treasury, however, declared that all foreign contracts in foreign money might be liquidated in Mexican silver at the current rate of exchange existing at the time of liquidation provided either parties to the contract so demanded.

The decision of the department of the treasury is of great importance to all foreign firms doing business in Mexico. Exchange has fluctuated here from four to two and one half pesos for the American dollar in a period of less than two months, with constant fluctuations up and down, with the result that import houses were forced to add to their price to the retailers at least twenty-five per cent as against fluctuation in the price of the American dollar here. The retailers had to add a corresponding percentage over the wholesale price to assure themselves against loss.

BRIGHT SPOTS IN BUSINESS

Sales of the higher grade of men's clothing are reported to be showing a pickup for the first time in two years. This additional business, it was said in the trade, will necessitate recalling some 6,000 workers within the next two or three weeks by Rochester, N. Y., clothing companies.

Electric Auto Lite company has recalled several hundred workers because of new schedules for lighting, starting and ignition equipment.

F. E. Williamson, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, said the road shortly will be in the market for moderate steel orders, the prospects being that about 35,000 tons of rails will be required.

In order to relieve unemployment, the Boston and Maine announced that it will construct 25 new steel cabooses at its Concord, N. H., shops, during January and February, 1932.

The Willys-Overland company again has increased its schedule because of increased car sales which followed price cuts made by regional distributors.

INT'L PAPER CO. THIRD QUARTER PROFIT HIGHER

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—International Paper and Power company today reported for the third quarter net revenue of $10,720,409, compared with $9,724,119 in the corresponding quarter of 1930.

After deducting depreciation, interest, dividends on preferred and minority common stocks of subsidiaries, and all other prior charges, the balance added to surplus in the quarter was $264,297, compared with $974,874 in the quarter last year.

A. R. Graustein, president, in his report to stockholders said earnings for the quarter showed the usual seasonal declines "in our business," accentuated this year by the unsatisfactory general business conditions prevailing during recent months."

"The outlook for fourth quarter earnings is good," he added. "Marked seasonal improvements should appear. International Paper company and its subsidiaries reduced salaries and wages approximately 10 per cent, effective Sept. 15. Progressive increases in mill efficiency continue as a constant factor for improvement. Indicated net earnings for the month of October alone are almost double the $264,297 earned during the third quarter."

GERMAN TRADE BALANCE IS PUT AT 500 MILLION

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Germany's export trade continued to show a favorable balance for October, a surplus of 383,000,000 marks bringing the total favorable balance for the period from January to October to 2,010,300,000 marks [about $500,000,000].

Imports for October were 482,800,000 marks, compared with 448,400,000 for September. October exports were 865,800,000 marks, compared with September's $11,800,000 in 1930. In 1930 September imports were 448,000,000 marks, compared with September's 811,800,000. In 1929 September imports were 448,000,000 marks and exports 385,000,000; October imports, 833,000,000, and exports, 1,073,000,000.

The favorable balance of 2,10,300,000 for this year is exclusive of reparations payments in kind, which total $47,300,000 marks.

Will Manage N. Y. Office of N. W. Harris & Co.

Stanley G. Harris is taking charge of the New York office of the N. W. Harris company, of which he is a vice president and director. Mr. Harris is the youngest son of the late N. W. Harris, who fifty years ago founded the Harris organization, which now includes the N. W. Harris company and the Harris Trust and Savings bank, Chicago. Paul S. Russell, who has been temporarily in charge of the New York office, will shortly return to Chicago.

Insurance Companies Find Farm Fires Are Increasing

BY SCRUTATOR.

During the last ten years of declining values for farm property, companies writing farm fire insurance have been operating continually in the red.

Reports covering the business of risk concerns in 1930 show that there was a striking increase in farm fire losses over those of 1929. And losses in 1929 were already high compared with figures for previous years.

Farmers' mutual companies insure a little more than half of all farm property in need of such protection. In 1929 these companies paid out a total of $23,877,092 for losses, as compared with $21,610,451 in 1928, $19,315,718 in 1927, and $18,883,625 in 1926.

During this time an increasing volume of business was being written, but not enough to explain the large upturn in the loss totals. V. N. Valgren, who compiles such figures for the National Fire Protective association, estimates that losses of mutual companies in 1929 amounted to about 22 cents per hundred dollars of insurance, against 20 cents in 1928, and 19 cents in 1926 and 1927.

Have Similar Experience.

Stock companies have had similar experience. Concerns belonging to the Farm Insurance association operate in fifteen states in the central west. In the last ten years the average aggregate annual loss of this group has been around $2,500,000, whereas the previous decade was profitable.

Farm risk experts attribute the steadily mounting losses to overinsurance and the attendant increase in the moral hazard.

"Given a hundred risks where a fire can be regarded as an advantage, and another hundred where a fire will be a penalty, and we may expect conservatively to have a loss ratio 25 points higher on the former class," says I. D. Goss, manager of the farm department of the America Fore group.

Reasons for Trouble.

This, he says, does not necessarily mean a procession of torch bearers. The hazard grows as the insurance company encounters first the man who is simply careless; the man who doesn't care if his property burns; the one who wishes it would, and finally the one who sees that it is done.

"It is my candid opinion," he states, "that 25 per cent of the fire losses of the last ten years may be rightly charged to moral hazard, which may mean a deliberate fire or one which is invited by complete willingness or indifference."

During the war years and shortly thereafter farm fire losses fell to the lowest point in history. Loss of farm equipment meant halting profitable operation and owners were exceptionally careful to prevent fire.

Insurance companies know that a return of prosperity to the farm would automatically solve the problem of rising farm losses. But, after studying last year's figures they have decided not to wait longer in the hope of having their difficulties adjusted for them.

Making Fire a Penalty.

Within the last few months they have shown more willingness to cooperate toward ironing out their own troubles. Most of them now are trying to write insurance so low in value that a fire will always be a penalty to the owner.

Also, through their agents and field men they are educating the farmer in the ways of fire prevention. Not all of the increase in losses is attributed to the moral hazard. The introduction of gasoline engines and portable machinery has been a factor, especially in the hands of inexpert operators. Amateur electric wiring has been another.

The situation of the farm risk companies is not nearly as perilous now as in 1920 when values were inflated and insurance was written accordingly. As the old policies have matured and new ones have been written the decline in property values has been taken into consideration. A definite upturn in the prices for farm produce would probably restore the farm insurance business to a fairly profitable basis in short order.

REMOVE "OTHER" LOANS ON CALL MONEY MARKET

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—What bankers have called a "bootleg" channel for funds for stock market speculation was virtually closed today as New York clearing house banks ceased placing funds in the call loan market for corporations and individuals, in accordance with the clearing house's recent ruling.

These loans, appearing in the Federal Reserve's weekly tabulation as "other" loans, amounted to $162,000,000 as of last Wednesday. As the ban placed by clearing house banks became effective today, only about $35,000,000 in loans was called, as apparently most of the "other" loans had been previously withdrawn. The call money rate on the stock exchange remained unchanged at 2½ per cent, but the rate for loans placed outside the stock exchange advanced from 2¼ to 2½.

While it is possible that some corporations, and individuals may continue to place money in the call loan market through smaller New York banks not members of the clearing house, or through private banking houses, bankers felt that the "other loan" item would now virtually fade out, since the big clearing house banks have handled most of the business. They pointed out, however, that a real test would not come until money became scarcer and rates more attractive.

Santa Fe Cuts Running Time on California Train

Reduction in the running time of the Grand Canyon limited of the Santa Fe system between Chicago and Los Angeles, Cal., was announced yesterday by Passenger Traffic Manager W. J. Black. Two hours will be cut from the present 63 hours running time of the Grand Canyon limited. The time reduction will be effected Nov. 29.

New York, Nov. 16.—Having cut loose from wheat, the share market took its cue today from such adverse factors as silver, dividends, railroads, and the like and sought lower stamping ground. The declines averaged from 1 to 4 points or so.

Business was at a snail's pace, the turnover falling around 1,500,000 shares.

Further exceptional weakness occurred in such issues as New York Central, Western Union, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, and Radio-Keith-Orpheum.

WALGREEN FIRM EARNS $2.05 A SHARE FOR YEAR

Net Sales of $54,017,179 Set New Record.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Results of the aggressive policies adopted by the Walgreen company in meeting business conditions existing during the last year are shown in the company's annual report which was released yesterday.

The statement shows the company earned net profits in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 of $2,045,410, which is equivalent to $2.05 a share on the common stock after provision for dividends on the preferred shares.

While comparable earnings figures for the previous year are not available, the company made a profit of $1,591,356, or $1.55 a share, on common in the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1930. The fiscal year of the company was changed in 1930. In the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1929, the earnings totaled $3,130,465, or $3.29 a share.

Adds Twenty-five Stores.

Net sales of the company last year were $54,017,179, the largest in the firm's history, and compared with $39,128,245 in the previous nine months. The company, which is the second largest drug chain in the country, had 465 stores in operation at the close of the year, an increase of twenty-five stores during the period.

In reviewing the readjustments made during the year to meet the new conditions, President Charles R. Walgreen said: "We have endeavored to keep up the volume of our sales by aggressive merchandising at prices in keeping with the times. We believe we are now moderately well adjusted to present business conditions. While we hope for better ones, we shall continue our efforts to do a good business at a profit under present conditions."

Concluding his remarks to stockholders, he said that he felt justified in expressing a feeling of "cautious but firm confidence" in the immediate as well as in the long range future of the company.

Shares Are Firm.

Walgreen stock was one of the few issues which failed to close the day with a loss on the Chicago exchange yesterday. On light trade the issue finished unchanged at 13. The volume of trading in all stocks was extremely light, reflecting the hesitant attitude which traders have shown during the last week. The strength in the grain market did not shake off this lethargy.

Losses, however, were nominal in most instances, not getting out of the fractional class. Bendix was the most active stock on the board and comparatively firm. Meeting after the close of the market yesterday the directors of Bendix Aviation corporation declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock.

W. J. Buettner, treasurer of the company, said the firm has obtained more new business for brakes, carburetors, and drives, and other products in the last ninety days than in any full year in its history.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money rates are quoted in Chicago banks as follows: Customers' commercial loans, 4½@5% per cent; collateral loans, 4½@5½ per cent; brokers' loans, 4% per cent; commercial paper, 3½@4½ per cent; bankers' acceptances, 3½@3¾ per cent on thirty to ninety days' maturities. Chicago bank clearings yesterday were $50,200,000, compared with $39,800,000 a week ago and $92,400,000 a year ago.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Call money steady, 2½ per cent all day. Time loans steady, 60 days, 3½; 90 days, 3⅝@4; 4-6 months, 4 per cent. Prime commercial paper, 5⅛@5½; bankers' acceptances unchanged; 30 days, 3@2⅞; 60-90 days, 3@2⅞; 4 months, 3⅛@3; 5-6 months, 3⅛@3⅜ per cent. Bar silver lower, 32¾c.

LARD STOCKS DECREASED

Lard stocks in Chicago are 11,429,940 lbs, a decrease of 1,900,078 lbs in the last two weeks. Compared with last year, they show an increase of 2,023,650 lbs, the supply then being 9,406,290 lbs. Stocks of dry salted clear bellies decreased fairly from two weeks ago but are larger than last year.

Trading in lard was light yesterday and price ranges narrow. November losing 10c and December 2½c, with January and May unchanged. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 9d lower, the spot market being the strongest. Bellies were neglected and unchanged. Hog receipts were heavier than a week and a year ago, with prices off fairly. Export clearances of lard for the week were 8,909,000 lbs, compared with 8,257,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 1,810,000 lbs, against 4,041,000 lbs last year. Prices follow:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil closed steady today unchanged to 3 points higher on sales of 14 contracts, equivalent to 2,100 barrels. The sharp rally in grains, seemed to offset the disappointing lard and cotton markets, as well as the setback in hogs. Prime crude was quoted at 3½@3¾c in the southeast and the valley and nominal in Texas. Bleachable spot closed 4.60c, December 4.80c, January 4.86c, March 4.99c and May 5.03c. Prime summer yellow contracts were neglected, closing as follows: Spot 4.90c, December 4.70c, March 4.99c, May 5.03c.

From 3 subsidiaries in 1910, Cities Service has grown to an organization of more than 250 companies, engaged in three industries.

To Fill the Need of Millions

People in thousands of communities have, for many years, accepted Cities Service products and services as part of their daily existence.

The 150 companies in the Cities Service organization furnish these communities electric light and power, natural gas, and petroleum.

Economies of this 20th century idea of mass production are of benefit to Cities Service Company and consumer alike.

TRUE VALUATION OF SILVER SOUGHT BY PRODUCERS

Deny Speculative Plan to Boost Price.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 16.—There is no international speculative plan to put up the prices of silver, according to Ernest Franklin, senior partner of Samuel Montagu & Co., London bankers and the world's greatest silver bullion dealers.

But he declares there has been frantic speculation on the New York metal exchange, amounting some days to as much as five to ten million ounces, and that the consequent fluctuations in the price bear heavily on trade in the countries which are dependent upon silver for a measure of value and of which China is the most important.

What is going on is an effort to secure an agreement between four North American firms, which control 70 per cent of the actual production of silver, and the government of India, which holds a stock of 450,000,000 ounces to ascertain the true value of silver and then to try to hold it at or as near that value as possible.

Sellers Are Few.

This is quite different from legal stabilization. The value is to be maintained by the manipulation of the market, which is fairly easy, as there are practically only five sellers and millions of buyers. About $50,-000,000 ounces are used by arts and industry, the largest single customer being the photographic industry. The balance is taken chiefly by China for currency and for hoarding, and by India for hoarding alone.

Contrary to the general belief, India is not on a silver basis, but on sterling and the silver is used by Indian peasants for boarding their savings. When the price rises, the value of the hoards increase and the peasant may sell a little silver and buy goods.

The same occurs in China and in addition the value of the currency is based entirely on the value of silver. If the price of silver falls between the time of an order by Chinese merchants and the time of its execution, the price to China goes up, and to trade on such terms becomes difficult, if not impossible.

For instance today, the price of silver in the market fell three pence, or about 20 per cent over Saturday's price and, apart altogether from the losses to the speculators, there must be a great disturbance in China in trade.

NEW YORK PRICE SAGS.

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Bears in silver took the metal for a swift ride today, driving future prices down 3 cents an ounce and, for the second time in the past eight days causing a suspension of trading on the National metal exchange.

According to a rule of the exchange, price fluctuations are limited to 3 cents an ounce. The first suspension occurred on Nov. 9, when prices advanced 3 cents.

While all futures early took the downward path, spot silver dropped 2⅝ to 32⅜ cents an ounce, the largest decline since the metal started its sensational ascent a month ago. The total futures sales was 3,575,000 ounces.

Traders generally attributed today's slump in the metal to concerted bear drives in Shanghai, Bombay and London. The Chinese, especially, were reported to be heavy sellers.

The closing silver futures were: December, 32c; February 33.20c; March, 33.30c; May, 33.65c; July, 33.72c; August, 36.75c; September, 36.75c, and October, 36.80c.

FLOOR TRADERS' WALKOUT TIES UP STOCK EXCHANGE

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 16.—[Special]—A new record in stock market history was established today on the California stock exchange. The exchange opened for business, floor traders milled around for a few minutes, and then walked out for the day without transacting a single share of business.

Amos W. Elliott, oil tool manufacture and president of the exchange, said business will be resumed immediately. The insurrectionists, who say they constitute the entire trading group on the floor are not sure when they will come back.

Whether the floor traders return tomorrow or not, the California stock exchange probably is the first stock market in the country to run through a day's session without executing a sale.

The trouble arose over questions of reductions in overhead expenses, particularly in salaries of the secretary and auditor.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 35,000; sheep, 12,000.

Surprises seem to be in order in the cattle yards these days. From a dull and lower affair last week the trade turned unusually brisk yesterday and prices swung up fully 25@50c on rather wild buying of heavy steers, which were short in numbers again.

The extreme top went up to $12.55, a new peak, which goes back to last January for a higher figure. Late last week top offerings sold below the $12.00 line for two days. Two carloads of 1,238@1,256 lb steers that had been fed for the show brought the new top, both going to Swift for the United Dressed Beef account.

Few other sales were made above $12.00, the bulk of total offerings of beef steers going at $5.50@12.00. Plainer kinds showed more action but did not improve in price. Butcher stock was uneven, mostly steady to 25c lower. Calves tumbled to new lows on a practically demoralized trade.

Offer March Hogs.

Contracts for ten carloads of March mediums were offered at $6.50 on the futures market yesterday, but the highest bid at the close was $5.50. Heavy grades for March were offered as low as $6.00. Most December and January contracts were bid $4.50, but the lowest offer to sell was $5.00 in December heavy grades. Today's mediums were bid $4.60 and light weights $4.50 on the "to arrive" trade.

Light weights hogs were scarce on the cash trade, despite the increase in total offerings yesterday, and anything weighing less than 200 lbs sold readily at 5@10c decline. However, losses in medium and heavy stock were sharp and bulk of 210@300 lb averages showed cuts of 15@25c in midsession and later, with the close off as much as 30@35c in spots. The extreme top was lowered 10c more at $4.85, within 5c of the year's bottom, while the general average at $4.60 equaled the previous low spot.

Small packers, city butchers and order buyers filled large orders without exciting the trade, and with the exception of underweights the market weakened rapidly as the day progressed. Larger houses received 24,000 hogs direct from other points and bought 5,000 more at the full decline near the close. About 7,000 were left.

Lamb Prices Cut.

Lamb prices were cut down 25@50c yesterday, the top sales going back to the lowest spot of the season. Prime fed westerns were sold at $6.35 to city butchers, while natives went at $6.25 and below, the bulk selling to packers at $5.50@6.00. Offerings were smaller than a week ago, but are running large for this time of the year and are above any November in many years.

The movement of "fed" lambs is earlier than in other years and they are coming well finished and heavy. Most of the initial shipments cost $5.00@5.50 in August and some are showing a slight profit for the owner. The margins are not great, but with the weather for feeding in their favor prospects are better than in 1930 and 1929 for the lamb feeder.

STRAUS ISSUES STATEMENT OF BOND SITUATION

Committees Outline Basic Principles.

BY AL CHASE.

After months of exhaustive research S. W. Straus & Co. yesterday made public a statement signed by the committees representing holders of bonds distributed by that firm regarding the principles basic to proposed reorganizations. "In our opinion they are fair, sound and constructive," said S. J. T. Straus, chairman of the board. "Their general application to the problems of reorganization of real estate investments throughout the country will, we hope, aid materially in the restoration of economic stability."

[De Gueldre Photo.]

The summary of the long statement issued by the committees says: "The committees feel that the above principles provide for reorganization along constructive lines. Bondholders are safeguarded and at the same time proper recognition given to all other interests involved. Coöperation between owners and holders of prior and junior securities will make reorganization prompt and economical.

"Such reorganizations will accelerate the reëstablishment of normal values in real estate and real estate securities. The improvement of the real estate and real estate securities situation will be an important contribution toward restoration of national economic stability."

Securities or Cash.

The statement declares that where conditions warrant and desirable loans can be made it is intended upon reorganization to negotiate such loans and to make a cash distribution to bondholders in part payment of their bonds.

"Since substantially the only present sources of new real estate financing are from insurance companies and from savings banks, and in only limited amounts, it will in many cases be impossible to distribute cash at the time of reorganization," the statement reads. "Bondholders will receive new securities for such part of their investment as is not paid in cash. Any new securities with fixed interest and principal requirements, wether issued for borrowed money or issued directly to bondholders, will be conservative in amount and based on the present earning capacity of the particular property."

Stock Held by Trustees.

The statement outlines a plan to safeguard the operation and management of the properties through voting trustees selected by the committees. These trustees will hold the new stock, issuing voting trust certificates therefor until the maturing of the new securities.

It is also pointed out that receiverships have been eliminated in almost all cases and the properties are being operated by the trustees under the mortgages for the benefit of the bondholders.

"It has been necessary to commence foreclosure proceedings in practically all cases, chiefly because of failure of a small percentage of bondholders to deposit their bonds," the statement reads. "Foreclosure is usually essential in order to obtain clear title to the property, but in some cases may be avoided if 100% of the bonds of the particular issue were deposited."

Calls Meeting in Washington.

Harry S. Kissell of Springfield, O., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which has its headquarters in Chicago, yesterday called a special meeting of the association's executive committee to press the project of the proposed mortgage rediscount banks before congress. This meeting is set for tomorrow, Nov. 18, at 10 a. m., at the Washington hotel, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Kissell described President Hoover's plan for a national system of mortgage rediscount banks to help melt frozen real estate credits as "the first light on a dark horizon."

SMALL LOSSES IN COTTON

The cotton markets gave a good account of themselves yesterday with trading in New York and Liverpool reported fairly heavy, but in Chicago it was light. Liquidation by commission houses in the west was fair and co-operative brokers were fair sellers. Offerings were absorbed as considerable support came from Liverpool. The decline in silver had an unfavorable effect which was somewhat modified by the advance in wheat. At the close Chicago futures were unchanged to 2 points net lower with other markets 2@7 points net lower. Spots declined 5 points to 6.40c in New York, 6.30c in New Orleans, 6.25c in Galveston and 6.15c in Houston. Liverpool closed 9@11 points lower with spot sales 17,000 bales.

Manchester reported fair inquiry but sales for the week were less than the previous week. India is taking more interest, but inquiries from China were light.

Exports for the week were 216,532 bales, compared with 196,393 bales last year. Since Aug. 1 they aggregate 2,200,000 bales, against 2,700,000 bales last year.

Trade sentiment is rather an upturn at present, but cotton is well absorbed on all breaks. Prices follow:

LEGAL NOTICES.

TO HOLDERS OF PETTIBONE MULLIKEN COMPANY FIRST MORTGAGE 6% SINKING FUND GOLD BONDS, DATED SEPTEMBER 1ST, 1928.

Pettibone Mulliken Company has defaulted on interest due on September 1st on these bonds. The plan presented for reorganization of this Company is entirely unsatisfactory to a large number of bondholders, as it proposes to have the First Mortgage bondholders release half of their security and take in lieu thereof certain obligations of the company. We have no hesitation whatever in saying that the plan is unfair to the holders of the present First Mortgage bonds and we believe that a better plan for their protection can and will be worked out through this Protective Committee, whose sole purpose is to protect the First Mortgage bondholders.

A First Mortgage Bondholders' Protective Committee has been formed, consisting of:
Donald F. Brown, Chairman, Donald F. Brown & Co., Investment Securities, 401 U. S. National Bank Building, Denver, Colorado.
H. H. Heineman, President, Citizens National Bank, Merrill, Wisconsin.
R. M. O'Brien, Esq., R. M. O'Brien & Company, 69 W. Washington St., Chicago, Illinois.

It is very important that all bondholders deposit their bonds with the Depository herein named and they are requested to do so. The Deposit Agreement can be had on request to the secretary.

F. J. Selden, Secretary, First Mortgage Bondholders' Protective Committee, 1116 Otis Building, Chicago, Ill.
Depositary: Chicago Title & Trust Co., 69 W. Washington St., Chicago, Illinois.

RADIOS AND SUPPLIES.

ARE YOU LOOKING AHEAD?

It is not an accident that the refrigeration business has been successful during the "so-called" period of depression. Times of adversity create opportunities for those who have ideas and the ability to do something with them. The management and sales organization of WESTINGHOUSE have been too busy sawing wood to join the calamity chorus.

The needs of the people do not vanish in times of stress. Today values are weighed more carefully, fundamentals are given more consideration by the buyers. Permanency of utility and value, not expediency nor cheapness of price, has governed the development of

WESTINGHOUSE REFRIGERATORS.

WESTINGHOUSE is confident of its superiority, it knows it has the heritage of leadership. It has won and means to maintain the eminence of its position. We are pushing plans confidently, knowing that our growth is assured on a greater scale than ever before.

We want a few men who can appreciate a real opportunity open to them to earn money and advance in our organization. Those selected will be trained thoroughly before being placed in the field. Come in and see Mr. Hendry, 9 A. M. to 4 P. M., Wednesday.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:
The average monthly cost of a $200 loan repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

Get the Cost in DOLLARS Before You Borrow.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $252 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest, at the Reduced Rate, is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
